NEW GYM IS "IDEAL" FOR REC CLASSES

"Ideal for the purpose" is the reaction of Rup Rec Assistant Director Margaret Slinn to the new gymnasium which she put to its first use Monday night with her ladies "keep fit" class in which 20 women labored happily and diligently in a group effort for that youthful feeling and figure.

"It looked so nice it seemed a pity to use it," she added, referring to the highly varnished maple floor which gleamed after its final application of varnish a few days before. "But we really found it an ideal place for our classes."

Program of the class, which is held on Monday and Friday evenings, includes folk dancing, square dancing, fundamental gymnastics, keep fit exercises and tumbling, in which everyone takes part. Some attend the classes primarily for the exercises, some for the pleasure of taking part in group activity. All enjoy themselves.

The new gym was used for the second time by Miss Slinn on Tuesday afternoon when she led a class of 35 Rup Rec junior girls.

Incidentally, next Friday night's ladies' keep fit class has been cancelled by popular vote among the ladies because of Hallowe'en night and the Gyro Hoedown which will take place in the auditorium that night.

SHORT SPORT

English Football Association referees must not blow their whistles for "purely sentimental reasons" and, by jove, they had better watch their peas and no pun intended. Item 56 of the F.A.'s latest bulletin reminds the refs that their whistles must be heard above the crowd's roar. It adds: "The life of a whistle is not determined by the condition of the outer casing but by the more rapid deterioration of the pea." Presumably this discovery follows years of scientific research on the part of F.A. experts and it's a pity they did not give the refs advice on how to get a new pea into an old whistle.

The F.A. item also leads with a neat piece of ambiguity. "Use of a whistle for purely sentimental reasons should be avoided." That's all the ruling association had to say about this but probably it's aimed at those sentimentalists who use the dear old whistle of their big game in 1930 in the belief it will bring them luck. The Association, in all its wisdom, has left a major problem unsolved: what to do with the humorist who brings his own whistle, particularly when his and the referee's are as alike as two undeteriorated peas.

Constable William McLatchie of the local R.C.M.P. detachment returned on the Prince Rupert this morning from a trip to Vancouver.
