SHORT SPORT

Officials of the Kent County Football Association in Britain are a bunch of meanies, say the women. And they have a pretty solid reason for thinking so. The association has suspended Referee Eddie Turner because he refuses to quit Kent Ladies' Football Club, of which he is manager and trainer. Their reason: girls' football brings the game into disrepute—although the club plays only to aid charity and already has raised more than $8,000. Turner is sticking to the gals because he thinks they are doing what in normal times would have been classified as a man's job. 'Where would the country be now if the powers-that-be said: 'that is a man's job and girls must not do it—they might bring it into disrepute?"

There's no dodging it, fellows, the gals must have a way with them. Since Britain's no-foreign-travel ban in October the Treasury let it be known that unless sporting teams can enhance the country's prestige in foreign countries, or bring back sufficient financial return, they must stay at home. But there's a loophole in the Treasury's armor-plated heart somewhere, and the England ladies' field hockey team found it. Just one week after the Treasury banned a trip to Germany by the Viking Rugby Club, the gals got the okay to go to the United States. Field hockey can't be rated as "big box-office" either in the U.S. or Canada and sports clubs are wondering just what made the Treasury break down.

Somerset County cricket supporters' club is in the doghouse It has tried to give Somerset $800 but it was turned down because the cricket club has decided it will not recognize the supporters. It hasn't given a reason for this non-recognition—but probably it's the principle, old boy.

SENIOR LEAGUE
Co-op 48, Brownwoods 47

Co-ops squeezed out a one-point lead over the Brownwoods in the Senior Basketball League Saturday night. The fishermen took the lead right from the start and held it to the finish. First quarter score was 18 to 8; second quarter, 22-20; third quarter 34-33 and final score 48-47.

It was a case of experience defeating youth. MacPhee and Lindsay went on a shooting spree. Each got 19 points. Beynon turned in one of his best games for many a moon. He made no points but set up all the plays for his teammates. Menzies and Bill turned in a good game in the little while they played.

Gurvich, Ciccone, Lavigne and Forman were the big guns for Brownwoods.

Comadina and Calderoni, the recording officials, issued 40 personals, 19 against the Co-op and 21 against Brownwoods.

The Intermediate game between Fashion Footwear and Merchants was a thriller. The Shoemen had a good lead in the first quarter of 12-2 but at the end of the first half the Merchants had cut it down, the score being 14-11. At the end of the third quarter the Shoemen were leading 22-19 but they lost the lead in the last few minutes of the game.

The referees, Calderoni and Holkestad, dished out 32 personals, 20 on Fashion Footwear and 12 on the Merchants.

65 cabsters strengthened their leadership in the Junior circuit by trouncing the Gyros 33 to 10. The Taximen took an early lead and were never headed.
