Land Dispute

reached before the end of the trial.

According to the agreement reached, the Crown will pay off the amount owing to the Soldiers' Land Settlement Board, including the interest accumulating since the date of the expropriation and present Mr. Little with a clear title to the land he has north of the Canadian National Railway, which amounts to 80 acres and is the site of his home. Mr. Little will also receive $2,000 dollars in cash, the difference between the amount owed to the Soldiers' Land Settlement Board and the $6,350 granted as the total compensation.

alleged to have refused the offer claiming his land was worth $20,000. Several unsuccessful attempts were later made to settle the case out of court.

In the evidence brought out during yesterday's hearing, cost of clearing land cannot be used as a basis for the land's value. Mr. Little's land was originally sold to him for $20 an acre and part of cleared at an estimated cost of $100 an acre.

William Robinson, witness for the plaintiff, estimated that in 1942 it cost $250 an acre to clear land, a figure based on government contracts let for the clearing of airfields. Yet in the evidence of G. T. McKay, settlement supervisor for the Soldiers' Land Act, his appraisal value of the cleared land in the disputed area of Mr. Little's farm was $40 an acre. For uncleared land he estimated the value to be $7 and acre.

Originally the crown offered Mr. Little $3,200 for his land south of the railway but he is

There are professional standards in LIFE INSURANCE SELLING

Like a doctor or lawyer, the modern Life Insurance salesman ascertains the necessary facts before he gives advice. Having before him the picture of an individual's present and future responsibilities, he then recommends the insurance plans best adapted to meet those requirements.

Life insurance companies give their salesmen a thorough grounding in the principles and functions of Life Insurance. In addition, the Life Underwriters Association of Canada, with a membership of over 5,000 Life Insurance salesmen, has instituted a three year course of study for its members, which is establishing professional standards in life insurance selling. These studies lead to the designation "Chartered Life Underwriter" (C.L.U.).

As you can see from the text books illustrated, those who are qualified Life Insurance salesmen study a variety of subjects which enable them to assume the role of Life Insurance counsellor with a truly professional background.

A message from the Life Insurance Companies in Canada and their agents.

It is good citizenship to own LIFE INSURANCE
