Suit Preference Signal Is Ignored, Hand Is Lost

"I thought you were such an expert on the suit preference signals, Muzzy," said Mr. Champion scornfully. "You use it when you shouldn't and fail to use it when you should."

With a cold game at no trump against any defense, Mrs. Keen and Mr. Abel had managed to land in a four heart contract, which should have been defeated. But as Mr. Champion's anger indicated, it wasn't.

This is another illustration of how you can tell your partner what suit to lead if and when he gets in.

D-QJ53 Somehow M. Muzzy got off to his best opening, the seven of clubs. The queen was finessed and Mr. Champion won with the king. Now of course he couldn't possibly know at this point whether the contract could be defeated or not.

This, however, he did know. He didn't want a diamond lead from his partner. A diamond lead might well lose a trick. whereas a spade lead could not possibly lose. the nine of clubs.

Using the suit preference signal, Mr. Champion would have returned his lowest club if he with the jack and led the ten had wanted a lead in the lower of hearts. Mr. Champion stepof the other two plain suits. ped right in with the ace and fired back the eight of clubs.

Another Quake May Hit, Warns Seismologist TEHACHAPI (AP) - A topranking seismologist estimated today that earth high in the Tehachapi Mountains may have moved as much as 40 or 50 feet along the fault line in yesterday morning's earthquake. He also warned that another
