Hopeless Conditions Turn Out All Right.

It seems to be quite true that we suffer more from our fears than from things that actually happen. Conditions look hopeless and we feel sure something dreadful is going to happen and then gradually the trouble dies away and we wonder later why we were so perturbed. The average person does not see very far and does not reason well. There is a lack of knowledge of human nature and particularly of the workings of the human mind that puts us quite wrong in our calculations.

The condition in Germany today looks rather hopeless, yet it will probably work out well. The people there are getting their first big real punishment from the war, a somewhat similar punishment to that which others got at the time of the conflict. However, people are beginning to realize that they cannot punish Germany without at the same time punishing themselves and in many cases it is the innocent who suffer. The selfishness of human nature will force the countries of the world to try to agree to treat each other properly. France is now going through a financial panic, the punishment for refusing to be magnanimous to Germany.

Housing Conditions in Great Britain.

The housing conditions in Great Britain are causing a good deal of worry. Houses are needed but the cost of building is so high that the possible rents do not pay interest on the investment and the result is people refuse to build new houses. The government has promised to deal with the question at an early date and going into the housing business will make taxes higher there.

Part of the trouble in connection with the housing problem has arisen from the refusal of Parliament to sanction a raise in rents. Wages have gone up and the cost of living generally has advanced and with it was bound to go the rents of houses. Some landlords took advantage of the scarcity to make inordinate profits so the government had to step in to protect the householder. This protection has been extended for another period of years. It was probably the right thing to do but it had its reaction. Prohibitory legislation is often useful but no one can tell what will be the effect on the country until it has been tried out.

Preparing For Hebridean Settlers.

It is announced that definite arrangements have been made for bringing the starving Hebridean settlers to British Columbia, where they will engage in fishing and farming. The Provincial Government will make loans to the settlers based on the work they do on their land.

Quick action will have to be taken in connection with these settlers. The conditions on this coast are ideal for them but the greatest care will have to be taken to insure that no mistakes are made and that the new settlers get the full benefit of all monies expended. They do not understand our customs here and will need a good deal of careful supervision at first. Large settlements should be avoided in order that they may become Canadianized as soon as possible.

Benefit Serves And Help Settlers.

By arranging to help the suffering people of the Hebrides we shall be doing a good act for them and at the same time shall be benefiting ourselves. It might be wiser to spend a little more money to get these Scottish people here than we should to secure settlers from other European countries. We have no objection to the people from any country in Europe in limited numbers but they have to learn the language and adapt themselves to the customs of the country and it is not until the second generation that they become real Canadians. The same is true of many English and Scotch people but the difference is not so marked.

BROOME NO STRANGER TO NORTHERN COAST

Man Who Is Arranging for Flight Round the World Was Formerly in Alaska

Colonel Broome who is expected here this week to arrange for the visit of the British round the world flight is no stranger to this part of the country. At the time of the wreck of the Islander in 1911 he was supervising the construction of a cannery in Taku Harbor just seven miles away from where the tragedy took place. Two years before that he was associated in a business way with Capt. Neurautis, manager of the C.P.R. coast steamship service.

TELKWA

"The Terriers"—a number of schools boys—played a snappy little game of hockey against the "Bloodhounds," the married men, on Thursday afternoon. There was some splendid play on both sides, and Telkwa may expect some real good players from the ranks of the boys in a few years time.

L. Clinton Johnston of Topley stopped in Telkwa on his way to Smithers on Wednesday last.

Miss Irene Gilmour is spending a few days visiting Miss Lola Wakefield at Tyee Lake.

The ladies of St. Stephens Church held a very successful whist drive on Friday evening.

Owing to the prevailing mild weather, which is unlooked for in this part of the world at this time of the year, there is a great deal of sickness. This is specially noticeable amongst the children.

Miss Perle McDonald left on Friday morning for Hazelton, where she will spend a few days visiting her sister who teaches there.

The Man in the Moon Says—

THE prisoner objected to the newspapers saying he walked forth a free man when he left jail in company with his wife. Just why, I wonder?

KISSING is all right as long as I am the kisser, but I just hate to see her kissing the other fellow.

FOR a person who lives chiefly for parties and afternoon teas, Prince Rupert is the place. Yes, certainly that little old town is one humdinger on teas.

THE British climate is much like that in British Columbia. Yet they play football there in the winter and here in the summer.

THESE are the days when you see the people straggling off of a Sunday afternoon to look over the boat, polish up the engine, or give her a short spin just to see what she can do.

THE French Government has the right idea. It says it will dissolve Parliament if the members don't vote right.

THE difficulty about having those Scotchmen from the Hebrides in Canada is that they do not speak our language.

SOME people aver that the National language of Canada is Scottish and you would think so too if you attended the police court regularly.

THE chief industries in Prince Rupert are said to be fishing, tea drinking, card playing and conducting fraternal functions.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

February 25, 1914.

The Daily News says that the provincial government is providing a mortgage of between $400 and $500 on every man, woman and child in British Columbia to back bonds for a railway which will sidetrack Prince Rupert and boost Vancouver.

Ten car loads of high grade ore passed through Prince Rupert last week bound from the Silver Standard mine at Hazelton to the Trail smelter. This makes a total of 24 carloads or 721 tons of ore that the property has shipped this winter.

A. H. Tomlinson, provincial horticulturalist, addressed the Prince Rupert Horticultural Society at a meeting in the city hall last night. M. M. Stephens presided.
