DR. JEKYLL AND MISTER HYDE

Change of Front of Newspaper Is Criticized By New Vancouver Daily.

The change of front of the Sun is severely criticized in a recent number of the Vancouver Star, the new evening daily. It quotes from an editorial written just before the election and another a few days ago, as follows:

First Editorial.

"John Oliver's great homely common-sense and dogged fighting qualities particularly adapt him for a champion of equity and justice. He is fighting for conditions fundamental to the prosperity of British Columbia. Without these conditions we can make no real progress. Disregarding petty issues, disregarding personal sentiment and disregarding political sentiment, our provincial election gets down to the simple economic question—Can this province afford to repudiate Premier Oliver?"

Second Effusion.

"The general welfare of British Columbia is of greater importance than the personal ambitions of any one man, and if Mr. Bowser and Mr. Oliver have not common-sense enough to recognize this without wrecking their party, they must be told in very plain language that the election is over."

PRINCE'S RANCH READY FOR ITS ROYAL MASTER

EDMONTON, July 24.—Everything is being put in readiness at the Prince of Wales' E. P. ranch, at Pekisko, for the visit of the royal owner, during the latter part of the summer, states W. L. Carlyle, manager of the ranch.

Mr. Carlyle is quite gratified with the excellent showing that the herd from the prince's ranch made at the Edmonton exhibition, and reports that the rest of the fairs on the circuit will be visited before the herd returns home.

In view of the abundant rains throughout the southern foothill country, everything on the ranch is showing excellent growth. Crops are showing excellent promise, and gardens are in good shape, states Mr. Carlyle.

REGINALD BROOK.

April 21, 1924.

ELEVATOR DISCUSSION BRINGS OUT INTERESTING POINTS IN REGARD TO VIEWS OF MEMBERS.

tlers in the Peace river block will demand a railway to get their grain out to that particular point. So if the government propose to go on with the construction of this elevator they must make up their minds to provide railway communication for the people of that section who need such communication very badly.

Mr. Gould: The minister has stated that 40 cents was an approximate price per bushel for the cost of this elevator. I would not for a moment imagine that the minister or the government had consented to the erection of an elevator at Prince Rupert unless they were in possession of complete plans and specifications of the plant. Consequently they should know what the estimated cost of a plant in accordance with certain specifications should be at this time. The hon. member (Mr. Shaw) asked that question but I do not think he received a very specific reply. However, the information would be very interesting to hon. members from the West and I should like to stress its importance. While on the subject I wish to inform the minister that his estimate of 40 cents a bushel is 10 cents a bushel less than the estimated price mentioned in the Price Waterhouse report for the handling of grain, or for the handling of grain at Fort William for that matter. I should like to remind him that between 20 and 30 cents a bushel was the price given on a contract for the erection of elevators at Fort William.

Mr. Robb: Yes, but that was in a period when labor only cost one-half the amount it does today, and when cement was much cheaper. My hon. friend is quite right as respects the conditions of ten or fifteen years ago.

Mr. Gould: The hon. member for Skeena (Mr. Stork) has pointed out the exceptional advantages which the port of Prince Rupert affords, in that there will be deep water right alongside the proposed structure, and there will be very little necessity for the driving of piles or the construction of works tributary to the harbor as was the case at Fort William and various other Canadian ports. Consequently I would say that 40 cents a bushel should be considered the maximum expenditure necessary at that point, and in all probability the estimate may have to be reduced.

Mr. Robb: I have never been there so am not prepared to offer an opinion.

Mr. Gould: I am taking the word of the hon. member for Skeena who has been there. I should like to know what the statement of the surveyor, or those who have drawn the plans, is in connection with this elevator.

Mr. Robb: If my hon. friend had been in his seat all the evening listening to the debate he would have heard me make the statement a number of times, not merely once or twice, that we cannot have plans until we get the vote. But the minister surely will have the plans and all the specifications and know what it is going to cost before he gives the contract.
