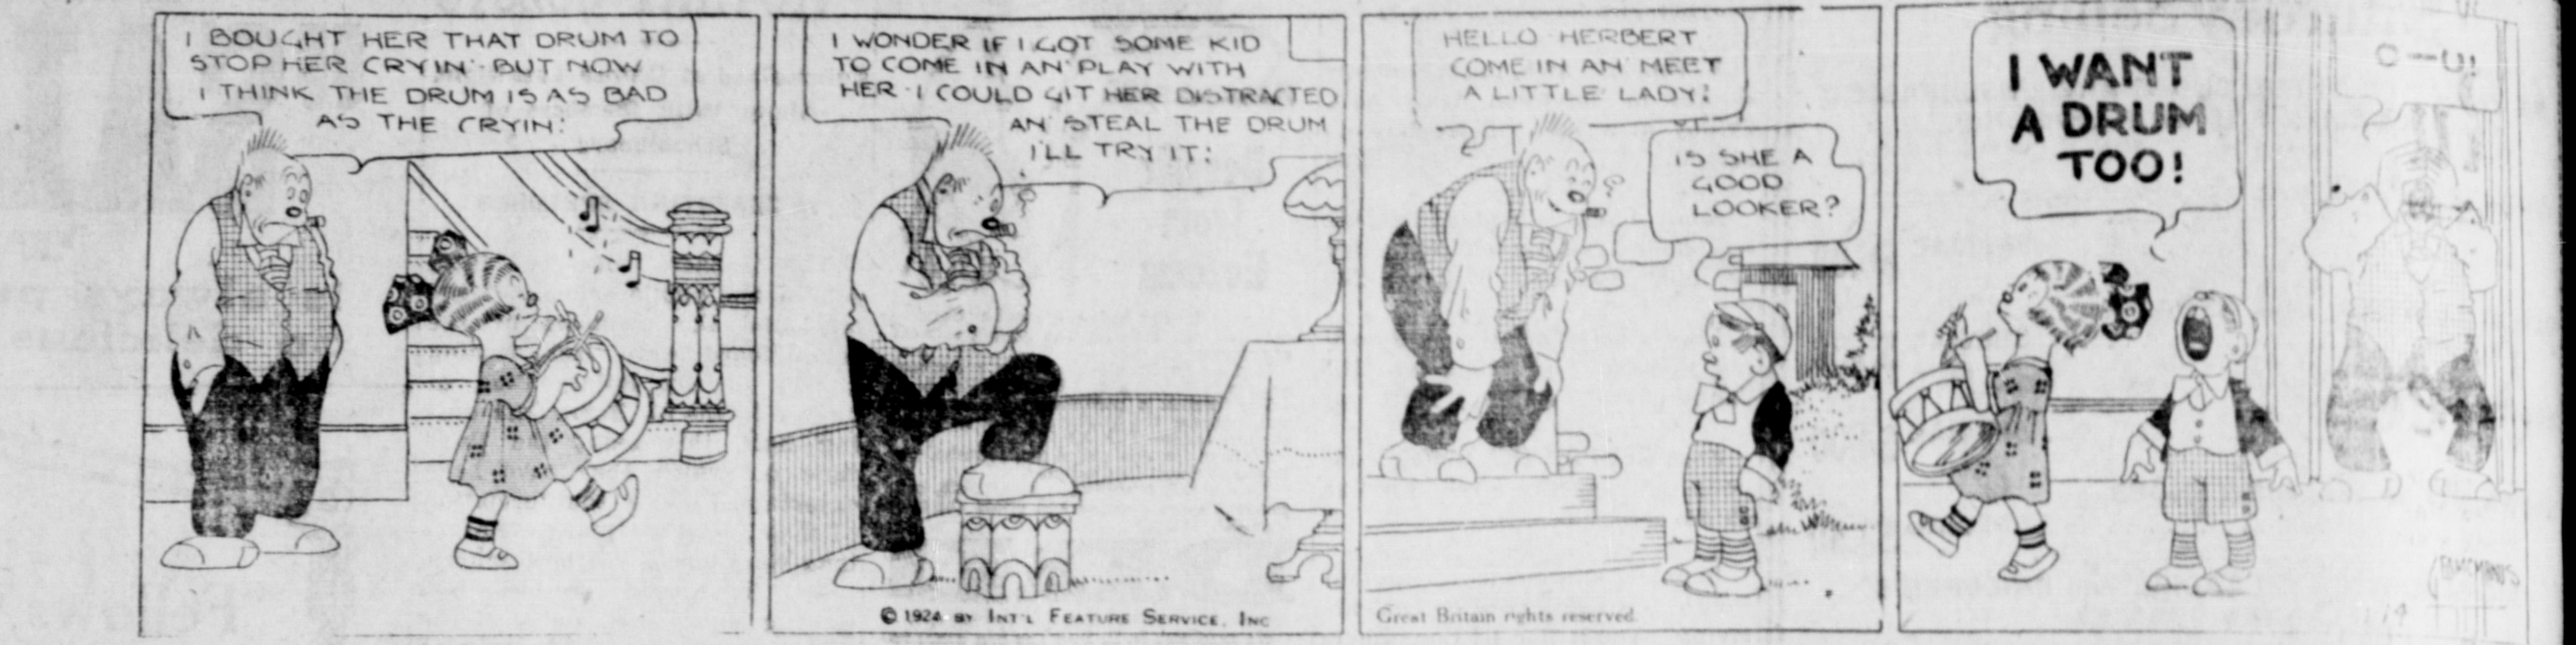
BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus



I BOUGHT HER THAT DRUM TO STOP HER CRYIN' BUT NOW I THINK THE DRUM IS AS BAD AS THE CRYIN'.
I WONDER IF I GOT SOME KID TO COME IN AN' PLAY WITH HER I COULD GIT HER DISTRACTED AN' STEAL THE DRUM I'LL TRY IT:
HELLO HERBERT COME IN AN' MEET A LITTLE LADY!
IS SHE A GOOD LOOKER?
I WANT A DRUM TOO!

Basketball fans will foregather at the Elks Home tonight in large numbers for the opening of the season's schedule. All the leagues will stage games and some interesting encounters are anticipated. Six aggregations will be on their toes to win opening honors and the fans will be just as keen to watch the performances. There will be three games and the first one will commence at 7.15 sharp. The teams to meet are: Senior League—Colts vs. Elks; Intermediate League—Grotto vs. Colts; Ladies' League—Maple Leafs vs. Gils.

The University of California's system of physical education has been extended to include students who have physical defects but who are not necessarily required to forego all exertion conducive to building up their bodies. University gymnastic classes in recent terms have included one legged men. One student with a withered arm became adept in bag punching. Men with physical defects at the university have expressed the desire to engage in something that would border along athletic lines and permission to do so was given by attending physicians.

Canada intends to make another attempt at crossing the English channel next year. Omer Perrault of Montreal, who was so badly burned after his last attempt, is reported to have given up the idea for good. This time it will be a mermaid instead of a mer-man who will make the attempt. The lady in question is the 19-year old daughter of the chief of police of Pictou, Nova Scotia. Her name is Miss Eva Morrison and she has recently been making her home in Boston. She is a notable swimmer since she was 12 years of age and has saved at least one life.
