REKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 11. - There is no question of REKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 11. — There is no question of JONES PROVED ralling off the United States globe circling flight. Officers here believe it will be completed successfully. Search today is being made for a safe landing place on the hop from Iceland to Green-

Fog and ice conditions are bad and the aviators are considering three possibilities. The Cruiser Raleigh may find a safe landing haven on the coast of Greenland. The flyers may go to Angmagsalik Harbor, which is free of ice provided the Raleigh's scout planes can take enough fuel to provide for the GENERAL MCRAE next lap, or they may attempt a non-stop flight from this port to Ivigtut on the western coast of Greenland or to a base near Cape Farewell on the southernmost

If the last mentioned plan is adopted it will entail a flight of 780 miles necessitating the hazardous task of landing at sea to re-fuel the machines from the cruiser Raleigh.

DUTCH HARBOR, Aug. 11 .- The Canadian trawler Thiepval with Stuart MacLaren and the rest of the party of British flyers arrived here Thursday and left Saturday night for Prince Rupert.

MacLaren had little to add to his story of disaster as broadcasted at the time. He expressed delight at the success of the American flyers and said he appreciated the hazards they had overcome. All the personnel were well. Flight Engineer Rowe, engineer on the plane, flew for hours with a fever at 104 degrees due to sunstroke contracted
