MEDICAL SYSTEM WAS DEFECTIVE

Volume Issued In London Dealing With War Points Out Deficiencies

LONDON, July 11. — Lessons from sins of omissions and otherwise, in the medical services during the war, have been compiled into an 11 volume edition of the Official Medical History of the Great War, recently issued. They should furnish the basis for the reorganization of the medical staffs of the forces of the great powers on a level with modern science, say the editors of this voluminous work,

The books deal frankly with the tactical and strategical errors of the medical service in the war, notably in areas typical of middle eastern conditions. No attempt has been made to gloss these errors. The lack of co-operation between the combatant and medical staffs is frequently noted, and it is in this that the editors find the greatest lesson.

Reason for Breakdown

Although in some respects faulty administration was a factor in the breakdown of the medical services in the Dardanelles, Mesopotamia and East Africa, the chief lesson to be learnt from the study of these campaigns, say the editors, is the need of a close liasion between the medical administration and the general staff from the outset, and clear and definite preparations before the campaign is begun to meet all possible contingencies. Too often in the last war the medical service was found to be totally inadequate because the medical staffs had no clear idea of what was to be expected of them, or the possible extent of the campaign upon which they were engaged.

The Dardanelles operations was an example, it is shown, of the necessity for establishing large general hospitals near the scene of operations and for providing a sufficient number of steamers and small craft for the evacuation of sick and wounded when the fighting takes place on or near water.

Lack of Equipment

In Macedonia the dominant feature was warfare in mountainous country or in river valleys, the hotbeds of malaria. In this sector the percentage of hospital beds to the numbers of troops reached the largest proportion, that of one in three. Malaria was rampant here and, while the medical service was handicapped by lack of scientific knowledge, it also failed to protect the troops by a lack of proper equipment on the spot.

The medical administration in Mesopotamia during the early period of the campaign was dulled by many years of economy practicing in peace time in India. This explains why the ambulance wagons and cars, hospital steamers and other equipment provided for the services in France were not even asked for by the headquarters of the Indian Expeditionary Force. They were unaccustomed to their use.

Deplorable Inefficiency

The most deplorable inefficiency was in the actions for the relief of Kut-el-Amara. At that action the medical service found itself with only 14 sections of field ambulances, instead of the authorized 30. When the operations toward Kut were started no strenuous efforts had been made to reinforce the medical units or to prepare a plan for the evacuation of the sick and wounded. The battles of Shaikh Saad, Wadi and Hanna still remain a nightmare to those who took part in them. The wounded lay out over night and many died from exposure. Those collected could not be properly housed or treated. They were evacuated to the base on any available boat and arrangements at Basra for the disembarkation of the reinforcing divisions were defective. When the divisions arrived large convoys of sick and wounded were coming down the Tigris. The steamers met at Basra and confusion prevailed. Officers and men wandered about in mud trying to find their way to new camps at Makina and Magil from vague directions given them by other overworked officers.

MIDNIGHT EXCURSION IS STAGED IN ALASKA

Seward and Anchorage Chamber of Commerce Holds Celebration at Fairbanks

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The three and a half months of daylight in Alaska recently afforded an opportunity for the government railroad in the territory to hold the only "midnight" excursion on record. The occasion was the Seward and Anchorage Chamber of Commerce midnight sun celegration at Fairbanks. Special rates were authorized by the Interior department, as a result of which 114 tickets were sold bringing $2,247.

An entertaining feature of the celebration was the annual "nocturnal" baseball game between the Anchorage and Fairbanks baseball teams.

CANUCS WERE EASY WINNERS

Beat Gil's in City League Baseball Game Last Night by 9 to 1

Heavy hitting and Lidstone's pitching won last night's City League baseball fixture for the Sons of Canada over Gil's by a score of 9 to 1. The match was too one-sided to be very interesting and the Canucks got away to a good start at the very outset. Dan Lidstone pitched good ball and left little for the field behind him to do. Howard Frizzell pitched five innings for Gil's and was freely hit. Easson then took the box but was unable to remedy matters. Jack Ratchford made a home run in the fifth inning off Frizzell.

The attendance was small.

P. Laporte umpired balls and strikes and George Mitchell, bases.

The teams lined up as follows:

Sons of Canada—D. Balfour, c.; D. Lidstone, p.; V. Menzies, 1b.; W. Mitchell, 2b.; L. Sherman, ss.; A. Mitchell, 3b.; E. Clapp, lf.; J. Ratchford, cf.; E. Warren, rf.

Gil's—Nishi, c.; H. Frizzell, p.; T. Clarke, 1b.; W. Lambie, 2b.; A. A. Easson, ss.; G. Hill, 3b.; D. Frizzell, lf.; G. O. Shaw, cf.; M. Budenich, rf.

Sport Chat

The play-off between the Sons of England and the Great War Veterans for the Dominion Day cup made necessary by the scoreless draw engaged in by the two teams on Tuesday night has served to stimulate much interest in the outcome of the contest and here will undoubtedly be a large crowd of fans at the Acropolis Hill grounds tonight to watch the fight to a finish. Play in the first final was interfered with on account of the rain but it is the hope that conditions will be better this evening. Both teams are out to win and it may be expected that they will put forward their best efforts and a good lively brand of play should result.

The Sons of England will select their players from the following: Howe, Lambe, Bales, Hodgkinson, Kelsey, Cameron, Matheson, Hurn, Tinker, Dickens, Hill, Wootton and Gawthorn.

The rules and regulations of the federal department of fisheries with respect to angling, published in this paper yesterday, furnished interesting reading. There were a number of items contained therein that local anglers were not fully aware of, also some valuable suggestions as to the best means of complying with the laws. As angling in this district is a popular sport with residents and at no far distant date in the future may become a potential attractions to tourists, we would recommend that the laws be fully lived up to. Anyway, the fish are so plentiful and so accessible that it should be an easy matter for all concerned to comply with the regulations which, to say the least, are not very stringent.
