Prof. Carlyle did not know when the Prince was coming, but assumed that the visit would probably take place in October.

Prof. Carlyle was at the ranch ien the Canadian Press got in touch with him over the long distance telephone, and informed him of the announcement which the Prince made in London. He said that the Prince would find some changes. The gardens were being improved, in accordance with the original plans, and a cattle shed and a machinery shed were being constructed.

"But what will please the Prince," commented Prof. Carlyle, "will be luxuriant grass and hay and the abundant crops. I have never seen Southern Alberta look better than it does today. Around the Prince's ranch it is simply a paradise. The growth is wonderful."

Guide Posts business

iding along an unfamiliar road, you depend upon sign posts to guide you. Whether you're hitting the thank-you-mams in a flivver or soaring along in a costly car, they do their work equally well.

To-day as you spend your money to fill your needs, advertisements are waiting to direct you. They are the guide posts of business. They point the short, straight road to satisfaction in buying. They will serve you well, whether you spend much or little.

Do you stop to read the advertisements? They are published to tell you exactly where to go for what you want. They lead you to values which you would never know were they not there to guide you.

And remember that advertising always points out goods of unquestioned value. When a store or manufacturing concern puts its name on goods and tells you about them, you may be sure that they are worth consideration. It does not pay to advertise unworthy merchandise.

Be guided by the advertisements
