Coolidge Favors Such a Proposal He Intimates to Callers at White House

OTTAWA, May 3.—In the House of Commons committee yesterday, F. H. Chrysler, K.C., of Ottawa, challenged the right of church unionists to secure legislation merging the three churches. He said that "no such bill had ever been passed by the parliament of Canada or, as we believe, by any British parliament. It invades the religious freedom of tens of thousands of people to put out of existence a church to which they owe allegiance."

SAW FLYERS KING ON VISIT AT SEWARD TO EXHIBITION

Major Martin Was Having Serious Trouble There, Says B. Story Who is in City

That Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the United States round-the-world flying cruiser squadron, was still having trouble with his machine "The Seattle" at Seward is the report of B. Story of that town who since the circulation of the pamphlet brought the boom to the East yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Story saw both the landing and the take-off of the squadron at Seward. Major Martin admitted there that his engine was not turning over properly and this was demonstrated at the take-off. The three other cruisers rose easily and circled over the town before setting out for Chignik. Major Martin, however, had trouble in rising and, after taxiing twice as far as the other machines, was still flying very low when he headed straight out of the harbor. Later he was forced down near Kanatak and was rescued by the destroyer Hull. The Hull later came into Seward. This destroyer and the Garry, both of which were in the late President Harding's convoy when he visited Alaska last summer, are now laying cables in the Gulf of Alaska.

REFUSE TO ACCEPT LAST SEASON'S RATE

Looking for Martin in Tundra to North Where he may have Descended

BREMERTON, May 3.—Up to half past three o'clock this morning no word had been received here from Cordova or other wireless stations in Alaska concerning the probable fate of Major Martin.

FALSE PASS, May 3.—A dog team was to go today from Chignik to the north side of the Alaska peninsula to search for Major Martin, the globe flyer, along the Bering Sea. It is feared that the airman might have been endeavoring to take a more direct line of flight than the southern coast and cross to the Bering Sea side.

A tundra of swamp commences at a point north of Chignik and runs westward along Bering Sea for 75 miles and it is 20 miles wide. Apprehension is entertained that Martin might have come down in this tundra.

The weather early today was such as it is believed the three other aviators would depart from Dutch Harbor, 180 miles west.
