One Voting Day
 is Good Move.

The decision of the B.C. cabinet to hold the elections and the beer plebiscite on the same day is one to be strongly commended. It would have been useless to have held two polls when one would serve the purpose. In addition to that the vote will be larger and it can be expected that great interest will be taken in the polling on that day.

The Daily News made its position quite clear in regard to the matter and we are glad to give the government credit for seeing the point.

Planes Have Gone

The planes have been here and gone and the visit of the Americans has left a clean and pleasant memory. They were men who seemed to be intent on their job and they refused to succumb to any distractions. Conditions were not very good for their arrival and their departure was not under glowing circumstances, but they went with nothing but the best wishes from everyone. The long flight will be followed with much interest by residents here.

Making Ready For Provincial Elections.

If the elections are to be held about midsummer, doubtless there will be considerable activity among the various parties. For this district it is to be assumed that Hon. T. D. Pattullo will be renominated but there is so far no opposition in sight. The Conservatives will undoubtedly have a man in the field but there seems to be no outstanding person in sight. The names of several local businessmen have been mentioned and of course Mayor Newton is a possibility.

Reparations Plan
 Should Succeed.

The reparations plan as recommended by the committee of experts seems like one that might succeed. It goes further than many expected and clearly indicates, as the French newspapers say, that Germany is able to pay.

That the scheme of depreciating the currency was a deep laid plan seems clear from information which is gradually coming to hand. One man who was among the first to enter Germany after the war states that he was told semi-officially at that time that the currency would be depreciated.

Newspaper Reporting
 Very Accurate Here.

Major Martin and Lieut. Lowell Smith of the United States round-the-world flying party stated to a Daily News representative before leaving that they were particularly struck with the accuracy of the reports published and sent out from here. This was one of the pleasing features of their visit.

"Headaches, Bilious Spells, Are Now All Gone"
 Mrs. John Ireland, Nobleton, Ont., writes:

"I was a great sufferer from severe headaches and bilious spells. I tried a number of remedies without obtaining any benefit until I was advised to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These completely relieved me, and made me feel like a new person. I am very grateful to Dr. Chase's Medicines for what they have done for me, and you may use my letter for the benefit of others."

Our Tourist Trade

Written for the Daily News by Margaret Palmer
 in Pattullo Competition

If Prince Rupert is to have a future as brilliant as her prospects indicate, then she demands capital. This capital is to be found in her tourist trade, could we but realize this fact. Should we not then, avail ourselves of opportunity, and encourage so valuable an asset?

It is through tourist traffic that people of other cities are to become acquainted with Rupert's natural wealth. Therefore it is through this traffic that the investment of newcomers will bring development to our city. Vancouver and Victoria have adopted this policy of arresting the interest of tourists and we have seen how successful have been their efforts to encourage visitors.

Should Entertain Them
 Tourist trade is the surest medium through which outside interest is to be stimulated, and this interest has proven absolutely essential to the progress of any city. When visitors pass through Prince Rupert we have no means of pleasure to offer them, and practically no available conveyance to places of interest. Consequently hundreds pass through here without imbibing any knowledge of our natural assets and our places of interest.

Then it behooves our citizens to employ some magnetic force which shall attract the interest of tourists, and encourage their investments. The cost of a tennis court, or other such facilities to provide pleasure to tourists, would be trivial in comparison to the gain we would receive, could we but arouse the interest of visitors. If our southern neighbors have found this such a beneficial policy, then we should find it doubly so. We do not realize what a wonderful asset the Salt Lake would be to our city, were we to turn a little attention to its improvement and swimming equipment.

Golf Links
 Now that a survey has begun on our out of town road we may consider the prospect of golf links in the near future which might be placed at the disposal of tourists. Such movements as these could not fail to draw the attention of tourists and hence their capital.

Let it not rest, then, solely on a few energetic citizens or our city council to make such improvements, to attract tourists. Every citizen and organization should rally now towards increasing this trade, which will procure the financial means that our city demands.

[Miss Margaret Palmer writes a very interesting article, but it is not perhaps just as practical as it might be. Many of the suggestions are excellent. The style is a little stilted as if she were trying to write like someone else instead of using her own words and her own ideas, based on experience or study.—Editor.]

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

April 10, 1914.
 T. D. Pattullo has returned to town after accompanying the Liberal leaders, H. C. Brewster and John Oliver, into the interior as far as Hazelton. Mr. Pattullo witnessed the battle following the attempted bank robbery this week. He says the country is up in arms over the inefficiency of the provincial police service.

The recent action of the federal government in disbanding the Earl Grey's Own Rifles was discussed at a public meeting in St. Andrew's Hall last night. W. S. Fisher was chairman of the meeting and among the speakers were Sgt. George Leek, J. Averill, Canon Rix, L. W. Patmore, O. H. Nelson and J. E. Merryfield. A motion was passed praying the minister of militia to reinstate the regiment.

The C.P.R. steamer Princess Mary is expected to take the water this week from Yarrow's shipyard at Victoria after having been out in two in order to allow her to be lengthened by forty feet.

BATHING PARTY LIKE THAT OF MOTHER EVE

Scenes in Flaming Youth Here at Week End Are Exotic and Sensational

A bathing party—a la silhouette. Such a party is one of the high-lights of "Flaming Youth," a First National screen version of Warner Fabian's sensational novel of the same title, which comes here this week.

"Flaming Youth," a daringly dramatic story of contemporary society life, tells the story of the lives and loves of a modern mother and her three ultra-modern daughters, members of a household famous for its exotic merrymaking.

At the biggest party of the year interest appears to wane. "Let's go bathing," some one suggested. "Where are the bathing suits?" asks another.

"What difference," one answers.

So they all run for the private pool, where, divesting themselves of divers garments, they jump in.

Bathing Pool
 The bathing pool scene is one of the most startling features of a picture which, like the story from which it was adapted, has occasioned considerable comment for the manner in which it tears aside the veil and exposes life in certain circles of American society.

With Colleen Moore in the leading role, "Flaming Youth" unfolds a powerful and absorbing story of romance and love with a colorful background contrasting the real love of the leading characters with the superficiality of the people with whom they associate.

Unconventional Youth
 "Flaming Youth" is a story of reckless, unconventional youth. Patricia Fentress, naive, curious, brought up in an atmosphere where the life is lived to its fullest, regrets that she is too young to take part in the merriment of the Fentress home.

The night of a big dancing party, she sees love-making and drinking wherever she peers. Arraying herself in the evening clothes of one of her sisters she mixes in the festivities unrecognized. She receives her first real kiss and her first taste of life. She wants more.

Mona Fentress, her mother, dying, exacts a promise from Dr. Robert Osterhout, a member of the family, to write her after she is dead giving his impressions of Patricia. She asks him to put the letters in a safe in her boudoir and she will come back and read them.

Before she dies she tells Patricia of the arrangement that the daughter may get advice and counsel from these letters.

Patricia capers from one love to another, finally awakening to a realization that she is becoming notorious in her set because of her promiscuous love making.

True Love Comes
 True love is aroused in the girl with the return from Europe of Gary Scott, her mother's old sweetheart. She sweeps the older man off his feet, but refuses to marry him, declaring that marriage will spoil romance, pointing to the unhappy marriages of her two sisters as examples.

Leo Stenak, a musician, charms Patricia after Scott leaves for Europe on a diplomatic mission. He asks all that love implies without marriage. The girl consents and agrees to join a yachting party to the Tropics. On the Rescued, more dead than alive, she is carried home, but is brought back to life and love with the return of Gary Scott, the only person in the world she wants to live for.

AMENDMENTS TO THE HALIBUT TREATY WERE EXCEEDINGLY TRIVIAL

Under the amendment to the treaty which came before the House of Commons a few days ago, one amendment had to do with an omission from the original bill which made it read that a fishing boat might be seized at any time whereas it was intended to apply only to the time of the close season.

Another amendment provided for the striking out of a section which was simply a repetition of another and yet which provided that only foreign vessels should be seized whereas the treaty applies to foreign and Canadian vessels.

YOU CANNOT JUDGE BY APPEARANCE

It is impossible to tell the quality of tea by the appearance of the leaf. A rough, coarse, unevenly rolled tea may taste much better in the cup than a closely rolled, well tipped tea that LOOKS much finer. The only way to be sure of getting tea of reliable quality is to buy a tea like "SALADA," whose goodness and purity are guaranteed.

HEART WAS SO BAD HAD TO SIT UP IN BED

Mrs. O. E. Fitzgerald, 146 Ross St., St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—"In the Fall of 1921, I was taken ill with my heart, but did not pay much attention to it. I kept on with my household duties, but seemed to become worse and worse, and finally had to call in a doctor. He said I was all run down and was a nervous wreck. I had a severe pain in my chest which would move over to my heart and it became so bad I could not lie down, as when I did I had such a smothering feeling I would have to sit up in bed till it passed away.

I tried several remedies, but with no good results. Finally, I was induced to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took 7 boxes, and I am now as well as I was 30 years ago, and I am now 65 years old."
