As the badminton season is drawing to a close, a good many of the members of the local club are developing sore arms. Mostly it takes the player in the elbow and in several cases has become so pronounced that it has been necessary to give up playing. It seems similar to what is known as "tennis arm," a soreness of the muscles which often seizes tennis players.

Officers of the Badminton Club state that the season has been a most successful one. The McIntyre Hall, where two courts are in use almost every evening, is to be given up at the end of this month, most of the members having turned their attention to tennis or to other outdoor sports. It is the intention to start operations early in the autumn if proper accommodation can be secured.

With the possession for the season of the Bulger & Cameron cup significant of city billiard championship not yet quite decided, the Prince Rupert Billiard Parlor and the Great War Veterans will engage this evening in the final tournament of the league competition. The games will be as closely watched as any that have been staged since the competition opened some months ago. The Veterans, who now occupy first place by a good margin following a strong season's play, have but to make an aggregate of 814 tonight to cinch the silverware. Should they fail to do so, the Grotto, now in second place, will cop the trophy. The Billiard Parlor in third place is out of the running as far as championship honors are concerned and cannot do better than go to second place, that is providing they give the Veterans such a defeat as to send them to third.

How, where and when the tw teams will lin-up:

Col. McMordie (G.W.V.A.) vs. George McIlmoyl (Prince Rupert Billiard Parlor), Great War Veterans Club at 7 p.m.

Sgt. Jepson vs. W. E. Hutchinson, Prince Rupert Billiard Parlor at 9 p.m.

Fred Pyle vs. C. Thompson, Prince Rupert Billiard Parlor at 8 p.m.

J. May vs. F. Aldridge, Great War Veterans club at 8.30 p.m.

J. J. Walsh vs. B. Jelich, Great War Veterans club at 7.30 p.m.

With the season's competition for teams closing, billiard fans will have something to occupy their attention for a while longer in the champion individual contest, entries for which closed last night. Providing new covers for the tables arrive in the meantime, the contest will open in the Elks' Home on Monday next. The sum derived from entry fees will go towards paying the cost of improving the tables on which the games are to be played. The announcement of competition has caused a good deal of general comment and the games will be followed with interest because of the entrants who have decided to go in.
