Keeping Faith In North Country.

Prince Rupert people seeing only what is here and not having as much contact with the outside world as is desirable are apt to sometimes lose faith in their own district. They cannot see the opportunities which offer here.

It is a mistake to lose faith in either ourselves or the place in which we live. Those who left did right if they felt that they were not satisfied with the outlook. It is much better to go than to stay at home and grumble.

Almost every day some evidence is seen of the future possibilities of Northern British Columbia. Everywhere there are developments, and it is only by developing the country that Prince Rupert can permanently succeed. What we want is to be the centre of a thriving district. If we help build up the country around us, we at the same time help build up our own fortunes. The city prospers as the country around it prospers.

Curious Paper Comes To Hand.

A little four sheet paper published in New Zealand known as "The Jacobite" comes to the editorial desk. It keeps alive the memory of the House of Stuart in connection with its claims to the throne of Britain. It is published quarterly and at any rate serves to amuse those who have little sympathy with the claims of the Stuarts and keeps alive in those of the faith the memory of those who fought and lost.

Any claims based on the right to rule other than the will of the people can be ruled out of court. They may linger but they will not last long. This is an age of democracy and there is no chosen of the Lord except among the common people. We all claim the right to rule or at any rate to do our bit toward it through the medium of the ballot box. To some this method is slow but in the end it will be sure.

Do Not Forget Old Friends.

In this country we are constantly making new friends and the tendency is to discard the old just as we would a worn out suit of clothes. Changes come rapidly and with the changes new associations grow up and the old are cut off. The result is that the old friends, who often are the true ones, are sent to the discard.

And yet it is of the old and true friends the poets have sung. It is the tried and true friends that really count in this life. Pause long before deciding to lop off the old and take on the new until quite sure that the change is for the better.

Blizzard In South Makes People Shiver.

White there has been a cold spell here and some of the water pipes have been frozen we have not had a blizzard such as has been reported from the south. There the cold was just as intense as here and it was accompanied by a high wind. The result was disastrous to communication. It must have been a very bad spell to have cut us off from Vancouver for several days.

Invisible Line Dividing People.

Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways, in addressing life insurance presidents at New York recently is reported to have said:

"Governments have seen fit to conceive imaginary lines, and it depends on which side of that line you stand whether you say, 'Hurrah to the Stars and Stripes,' or bow to the Union Jack. Our sires are the same people; our ideals identical; and the objects for which we live, move and have our being do not differ on either side of this imaginary line. Some people lament because there was ever any division, but men who have studied the question more closely have arrived at the conclusion that it was better for the world that the elder King George was a blunderer. Great Britain has sufficient territory, and her boundaries are so far-flung that to keep in touch, she must be able to handle all conditions of men. Occasionally some dear soul on this side of the line will suggest that it would be well if Canada became part of Uncle Sam's territory. Forget it! This Great Eagle of yours has his claws full, and his wings are extended to the limit to cover his own territory. Canadian people are happy under their present system, for under it they have complete management of their own affairs and have all the guidance, help and protection of the British Empire."

"The things we have in common so far transcend the few things on which we might disagree, that the people of these two countries lying side by side can keep themselves overwhelmingly busy in endeavoring to develop the former and forget the latter."

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—The daughter of a German admiral prominent in the world war, daughters of school principals, physicians, lawyers, and musical conductors, and wives of thoroughly respectable bookkeepers and office employees figure among the chorus girls of the musical comedies and revues now running in Berlin. They bear evidence to the fact that the day is past when the chorus girl was looked upon as a person of doubtful morals on whom adventurous cavaliers could lavish their attentions.

Are Protected

So marked has become the change that German ushers who are caught answering questions as to the home addresses of chorus girls or who accept the mission of carrying notes or floral offerings from theatre-going men to members of the chorus, are dismissed without further ado.

Advertisements for positions in the chorus nowadays bring out a large number of responses from the educated middle class. Economic distress compels many young women who would formerly have remained at home waiting for a husband, to engage in some calling. To some girls the idea of spending their lives behind a typewriter does not appeal. If they have a good figure and are graceful in their movements, they see no reason why they should not make capital out of these attributes and accomplishments.

Like Them Educated

Given a graceful figure and agility, Berlin theatre directors find that the girl of education usually advances much more quickly than does the girl whose only qualification is good looks. Many young women who were driven to the stage chorus for purely economic reasons have developed into first-class stars who now would not think of giving up their profession.

SNEEZE GAS TO KEEP STOWAWAYS FROM SHIP

MANILA, Dec. 18.—Manila's fame up and down the China

east as a good port for beach-combers, where slowing away on army transports has been easy, is passing away.

Sneeze gas, furnished by the chemical warfare service of the Philippine department of the United States army, is forced into the hold of every transport for a period of 24 hours just before departure, thus making the hold uninhabitable. Not a single runaway was found on the transport Thomas when it touched at China on its last trip, in previous trips the discovery of 15 or 20 was not uncommon.
