SERVICE NOT SERVITUDE

Has it ever occurred to you that the multitude of "Household Helps" offered for sale are of themselves lifeless and incapable of service unless controlled and directed by the already overburdened housewife.

Laundry service alone is alive, vital, imposing no new obligations, and asking nothing but your friendly disposition, to change servitude into service.

SCHOOL CONCERT WAS REPEATED SUCCESSFULLY

The school concert which was repeated last night in the auditorium of the Booth School and which was put on jointly by the Booth and Borden Street schools, was even better last night than on the opening, the children becoming more familiar with their parts and with the conditions under which they had to perform.

The attendance was large and the results are most gratifying to all concerned.

Yesterday the name of Cathie Eastman from the list of those taking part was omitted. She was the gipsy in "The Lost Child," and a very sweet little gipsy she made.

GAS BOAT ABANDONED LOADED WITH HERRING

Says the Juneau Empie—The gas boat New England, a 60-foot craft, was abandoned by its crew near Cape St. Elias on November 29, according to broadcasted warning sent out by the Sitka radio station. Vessels are asked to keep a lookout for the drifting craft and report it if seen.

The New England is said to have dropped its propeller during a blow it is believed, and its crew, unable to repair the damage took to small boats. While the Sitka advices made no report of the crew, local customs officials believe it reached Sitka in safety and reported the accident. The New England is loaded with salt herring and was enroute to Seattle at the time of the accident.

The vessel is operated out of Seattle, according to customs records. The ownership is not registered here.

Recently Mr. Mulholland has been stationed at Vancouver where he was in charge of forest management and timber sales for the coast district. BIG EXTENSIONS AT POWELL RIVER

Contract Is Let for New Grinding Mill and Extensive Fill —Total Cost One Million Dollars

A program of development and extension of the paper plant at Powell River which will involve expenditure of something in the neighborhood of $4,000,000 has been approved by the directors of the Powell River Co. A contract was awarded last week to Armstrong, Morrison & Co. of Vancouver for the construction of a new grinding mill, an extensive fill at the mouth of Powell River and other projects totalling a cost of $1,000,000. This company recently completed a new ocean dock and warehouse at Powell River and also had the work of raising the storage dam approximately eight feet.

MAY WITHDRAW RIGHT INDIANS TO SEALING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. — In the annual report of the Coast Guard Service, the opinion is expressed that sealing privileges extended by law to the native Alaskan Indians may be properly withdrawn. This is the report of Rear Admiral Billard deduced from reports of officers of the Coast Guard cutters who state that the natives no longer use the seals for clothing and food but for trafficking commercially.

IS RECOVERING

A successful operation was performed yesterday afternoon on W. T. Muse who received injuries to his head in a logging accident at Warke Canal on Monday. He has now regained consciousness and seems to be on the road to recovery although it will be some time before he will be around, his hip also being broken.

Four new members joined the Rotary Club today: Wallace C. Orchard, C.P.R. steamship agent; Hank Little, manager of the Union Bank; John Dore, district superintendent of Government Telegraphs, and Norman Watt, Provincial Government agent.

F. E. Robertson, manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank, is sailing tomorrow afternoon on the Prince Rupert for Vancouver where he will spend the Christmas vacation.

The westbound train is not due tonight until 12.30. The delay is not on this division and there is no information as to what is keeping her late.

MANY ATTEND LABOR BANQUET

tendance present at the banquet testified to the enthusiasm and interest that was being taken in the affairs of the Trades and Labor Council.

Mayor Newton

The first speaker of the evening was Mayor Newton who referred to labor conditions in the city, the Old Country and the world. The mayor said that he had always been and was still in sympathy with the labor movement. As it advanced so would the city. The workers were entitled to better conditions for themselves and their families. Referring to Old Country conditions, Mayor Newton expressed his opinion that the Labor Government, though short-lived, had made good.

Opening his remarks in a humorous vein and referring to his recent trip to the Old Country, Fred Stork, M.P., spoke of the participation of labor in politics. The way of politics was a slippery path. He, himself, for many years had held his ticket in the sheet metal workers' union. Mr. Stork appealed to the workers to use their efforts towards keeping traps out of the salmon fisheries of the district. Traps had been largely responsible for the ruin of the Fraser River salmon fisheries.

Archdeacon Rix

Archdeacon Rix said he was greatly in sympathy with the labor movement and, in spite of adverse feeling that might at times arise, he felt that the churches as a whole were in sympathy with the movement. Referring to labor members on the local city council, Archdeacon Rix declared that he had followed their activities with interest and had found that the stands taken by them in almost all cases, in his opinion, had been based on common sense.

Rev. Dr. H. R. Grant stated that he had always felt for the laboring man and his family in his efforts for better conditions. He himself had had his turn as a laborer and for six years had worked in logging and lumbering camps thus raising the funds to put himself through college and into the ministry. He urged that labor take up and support the question of obtaining old age pensions. In his opinion, a man on reaching the age of 60 or 65 was entitled to a competence for the rest of his days without being submitted to the necessity of going to the poor house or Old Man's home.

Principal Brady

Principal Brady, in his usual witty and eloquent manner, stressed the labor point of view which was based on lines of humanity, brotherly love and unity. He urged that all laboring men exercise the privilege of the franchise. A man who did not take sufficient interest in the affairs of his city and country to cast a ballot at an election was a detriment.

Consul Wakefield, opening in a humorous veing and turning into a more serious aspect, also urged the use of the franchise and declared that any so-called class could obtain its emancipation through the power of the ballot.

Union Representatives

Various representatives of the sub-unions were called upon to speak briefly. They were as follows: Halibut Fishermen's Union, J. H. Meagher; plumbers, William Brown; carmen, Frank Derry; electrical workers, Jock Little; sheet metal workers, Alex. Hudema; engineers, James Black; carpenters, Charles Taylor.

Contributing to the evening's program were W. Murray, Meth Davies, Bob James, George Waddell, F. Fortune and E. Sabourin with songs. Easson's orchestra was present and supplied much appreciated selections. Miss St. Cyr was accompanist.

The committee in charge of the banquet consisted of James Coombs, Harvey Fraser, J. J. Gillis, Frank Derry and S. D. Macdonald.
