Timely RECIPES

Our recipe today is called "All in One Salad Bowl" and it is a salad combination fit for kings. Hearty enough to be a substantial meal for the most demanding of hungry husbands, dressed prettily enough for most finicky hostesses, it is a recipe you will want to keep handy to use time and again.

- 1/2 can salmon, flaked
- 1 medium onion, sliced
- 3 hardcooked eggs, sliced
- 1/2 cup chopped pickle
- 1 tin cut green beans
- 3 peeled tomatoes (cut in wedges)
- 2 cups diced cooked potatoes
- 1 head of lettuce
- 1/2 cup salad or olive oil
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon granulated sugar
- Speck of pepper

Serves 6.

Break up the lettuce and arrange in salad bowl. Arrange alternate layers of green beans, tomatoes, potatoes, salmon, onion and eggs. Toss the salad thoroughly. Make a dressing with the remaining ingredients and toss well through salad.

Serve with hot rolls. And many happy encores!

Punishment for Unfaithful Indian Wives Disapproved in Parliament After Argument

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—A bill to punish unfaithful wives by jail sentences has been withdrawn from the Indian Parliament after members argued that women already have it tough enough.

Mrs. Jayashree Raji, a Congress Party member of parliament, led the attack with the assertion that the Indian woman today was just "a big helpless piece of human flesh."

The bill had been introduced by Fulsihji B. Dabhi. At present men can be sent to prison for up to five years for adultery, but women are outside the law.

Mrs. Raji said the Indian woman is looked upon as the private property of men, has no individuality, and has to depend on men for everything. In such circumstances, she said, she couldn't be expected to remain faithful.

"In a society where we have such evil customs as child marriage permitting a girl of 10 to 12 to be married to a man of 40 or 50, how can we expect her to be loyal?" Mrs. Raji asked.

"In a society where men are allowed four or five wives, and girls are sold as slaves for money even by their own parents, how can we expect girls to be faithful to their husbands?" Even Dabhi admitted it was difficult to punish the incontinent wife "while the law admits the privilege of a husband filling his zenana (the female quarter of the house) with women."

Polygamy among Hindus is prohibited in Bombay state but in most other states it is still allowed. Moslems are permitted by their religion to have up to four wives.

Polygamy (the practice of a woman having simultaneously more than one husband) is found in a few mountainous areas. Another bill which got nowhere sought to introduce compulsory sterilization of lepers, syphilitics, the insane and congenital idiots.

The bill was introduced by S. V. Ramaswamy, who proposed that a court should be set up to decide which persons were unfit to bear children. The House decided not to consider the bill after Health Minister Rajkumari Amrit said leprosy and some forms of insanity are not hereditary and that syphilis is curable.

Rotary Tennis Courts Likely Open Next Week; Paving Now

Black-topping of the tennis courts on Second Avenue is now underway and play probably will get started sometime next week.

Pat Forman, chairman of the parks board, told members last night that about two-thirds of the work is completed and he has obtained nets from the Prince Rupert Tennis Club.

He said he had inquired into the possibility of buying nets in Vancouver and was informed it would take some time before they could get here so he took the matter up with the tennis club and they agreed to let the park board have their nets and they could be replaced at a later date.

Tired of Cars, Will Walk Across Canada

By LARRY STANWOOD

A 43-year-old automotive parts manager is tired of modern cars and has decided to take up walking.

And to prove this, James Cusack leaves here tomorrow on the first lap of a stroll he hopes will take him to the farthest Kinsmen Club in Canada.

Cusack, who says he has rented out his house in Prince George for two years, will fill up a bottle with Pacific water at Cow Bay in Prince Rupert, then start on his 4000-mile hike.

"I am not going to accept any ideas. I'm walking all the way," he declared after his arrival here from Vancouver.

Main object of the long walk is to create publicity for the Kinsmen, he says. He hopes to reach the Kinsmen Club in St. John, Newfoundland, a little after New Year's, "providing the weather holds out."

"Of course, I won't be able to WALK from Halifax to Newfoundland," he said in an interview here, "but maybe they will have built a bridge by the time I get there," he added jocularly.

Cusack, who was born at Acheltz, near Chilliwack, isn't a bit perturbed about the prospects of a foot-sore journey.

"I'm pretty soft right now, but after a few days on the road I should average about 40-50 miles a day."

Cusack is husky, broad of shoulders and stands about five-foot ten. He is no stranger to the outdoors, for he has done his share of prospecting and is an avid angler and hunter. He admits the stretch from Prince George to Jasper will be the toughest.

This is the first lap of his hike. There is no road between the two points and it is considered about the most rugged terrain in B.C. But Cusack will keep along the railway right-of-way and doesn't anticipate any trouble.

"I'm going to carry a week's supply of food with me, a sleeping bag and a fishing rod. That should see me through anywhere."

Cusack is well known in northern and central B.C. For three years he was in Prince Rupert, employed by S. E. Parker, automobile dealer. For the last five years he has been in the same type of business at Prince George. For seven years before that he lived around Quesnel and other interior points.

President of the Prince Rupert Kinsmen, Stan Saville, ensures the walking-messenger-of-good-will-between-clubs an impressive send-off. Mr. Saville asks all Kinsmen and Kinettes to be at Cow Bay tomorrow at noon, when Mr. Cusack will bid farewell.

City officials also will be on hand to offer condolences and "bon voyages."

"I plan to stop about every 10 days for a little rest, then push on. If the weather isn't too bad on the prairies, I hope to make eastern Canada by New Year anyway." But even if he doesn't, there's no worry.

"I have rented my home for the next two years. I don't have to be back for a while."

What's more, he's single—"and happy."

"I need a holiday, and so I thought this one up." Some folks might wonder, however, why he is doing it the hard way.

Holt joined the WRAF in November, 1951. She has been posted to the secretarial branch of the RAF and will do administrative work.

Only Lord Could Order Them Around

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—Two sisters, carrying $8132 in cash and a $4262 cash certificate, were arrested on disturbance charges yesterday after their refusal to stop sitting on a train track at Central Union Terminal. Police said Miss Palestine Jarrell, 32, and Miss Ollie Jarrell, 55, refused to get off the track because the Lord is the only one who could order them around. Police said the sisters told them they were moving to Toronto to buy a farm.

ing on Telephone By-Law Delayed to Late Appointment of Minister

The $875,000 telephone system set for this fall will not take place because of the delay in appointing a minister of municipal affairs.

As disclosed today by Bill Long, who received from B. C. Bracwell, minister of municipal affairs, an answer to a letter requesting approval of the by-law.

Bracwell said: "I fully appreciate your wishing the by-law to ratify at this time, but I realize that should now it would be committing the minister of municipal affairs of course, I cannot

Bracwell's letter was written to the appointment last ministers in the newly-ical Credit govern-

New minister of municipal affairs is W. D. Black, a school teacher who was elected in the Nelson-Creston constituency. He succeeds R. C. MacDonald, who was defeated in his bid for re-election last June 12.

Mr. Long, on request of city council had asked Mr. Bracwell for approval to hold the by-law and a decision set the date as August 7, with Mr. Long as returning officer.

City council had endorsed the by-law and given it third reading on the assumption that it would be approved by the department.

The by-law which calls for purchase of the old Government Liquor store at Third Street and Third Avenue, probably will be submitted at the same time that citizens are asked to choose an alderman to succeed Harry M. Daggett, recently appointed city assessor.

According to a city by-law, an election must be held 30 days after the resignation or death of an alderman.

Mr. Daggett, who left last night for the south, has not yet handed in his resignation. He will visit New Westminster, West Vancouver and Nanaimo to ascertain their assessing policies.

If the by-law is endorsed, it means the city of Prince Rupert will get one of the most modern automatic telephone systems in this province.

Officials of the Automatic Electric Company of Canada, which will install the system, told city clerk Long that equipment would be on the way the day after voting—if ratifiers approved the by-law.

By the time interest and principal have been paid in 20 years, the total cost of the system will amount to $1,052,150.
