

It Isn't a Secret

We have a letter from a woman living in Chilliwack in which she says that for some months she watched each day to get any recipe we might be giving. "They all turned out so, well I thought you had discovered the secret of good cooking, and you have, though not in the way I expected," she says. She goes on to say it is not the recipe so much as the richness and delicate flavor of Pacific Milk. "It improves any recipe wonderfully," she says.

THE SHEPHERD KING—A WILLIAM FOX Special Production

At the Westholme Tonight and Tomorrow.

Booth Tarkington is the author of two of the plays that are being shown at the Westholme Theatre his week—"Boy of Mine," on Wednesday and Thursday and "Pied Piper Malone," on Friday and Saturday.

Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford are expected back in Los Angeles about August 1 from their European tour. Some members of their party are already back.

James Johnson, manager of the Pickford-Fairbanks Studios, is known as the "lot" as "Radio Jim" because of his enthusiasm for that form of entertainment. He recently went on a motor tour into the high Sierras, and W. W. Kerrigan, manager of the Mary Pickford Company, made his trip miserable with a post card campaign which read "Radio-ater B-O-I-L will now come on the air." Johnson received these postals in every town where he stopped.

"THE SHEPHERD KING" ANCIENT ROMANCE

Dramatic Story of David is Produced With Impressive Results

It is said that every great play and every tremendous novel had its origin in life somewhere down the ages. The truth of this is splendidly demonstrated in the William Fox production of "The Shepherd King," which comes to the Westholme Theatre Monday and Tuesday night.

The dramatic story of David, the shepherd boy, who finally became monarch, with its romance and pathos, has been reproduced on celluloid with impressive results. Realism was sought and was found only at the base of the pyramids, where the camera clicked in the sardonic face of the Sphinx. More than 5,000 extras, with 500 camels and as many donkeys, form the sorrowful army of the children of Israel, being led out of Egypt by Moses.

As Princess Michal, youngest daughter of Saul, who eventually becomes the queen of the Shepherd King, Violet Morsereau rises to the emotional peak of her career thus far.

Nerio Bernardi, as David, is supreme. Guido Trento, as Saul, King of Israel; Alessandro Salvini, as Doeg, the King's army chieftain, and Edy Darclea, as Princess Merab, elder daughter of Saul, have powerful parts which they portray with the maximum of effectiveness. Samuel Belesstra, as Goliath, the giant whom David slew with a stone from a slingshot, has the appearance and the talent necessary for the role.

Massive sets and impressive mob scenes add to the spectacular beauty of the picture at every turn. The interiors are remarkable enough, but the active desert scenes, filmed in the shadows of the ancient pyramids, are even more so. Spectacles of this nature are few and far between, but "The Shepherd King" has many of them.

WELL KNOWN BOY STAR IN PICTURE

Ben Alexander and Rockliffe Fellowes Were in "Penrod and Sam"

"Boy of Mine," is from the pen of Booth Tarkington, and centers about a child, and, while it is highly amusing to children, it is of even more appeal to adults. It is a human interest drama with a range of appeal that covers picture-goers of all ages. Tarkington has so cleverly built the story that children can focus eyes and thoughts on the actions of the juveniles and adults can look upon the child artists as merely incidental to the building of a great plot.

Ben Alexander, who played the role of "Penrod" in "Penrod and Sam," is seen as "Bill Latimer," a typical American small-town boy. Rockliffe Fellowes, who was Ben's stern father in "Penrod and Sam," is seen in the antithesis of that type. This time he is a lover of children and a man who understands them.

"Boy of Mine" is interpreted by an all-star cast which includes Henry B. Walthall, Irene Rich, Rockliffe Fellowes, Ben Alexander, Dot Farley and Lawrence Licalzi. The picture will be seen at the Westholme Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

THOMAS MEIGHAN HAS MANY FRIENDS

Acquaintance With Booth Tarkington Resulted in "Pied Piper Malone"

Probably no screen star numbers among his acquaintance so many people in the public eye as Thomas Meighan. It is a tribute to the likeable personality of the handsome Paramount player that flappers and philosophers, governors and ball players, authors and concert singers are proud to number him among their friends.

John McCormack, the singer, is a close friend of Meighan's. Tom would as soon wear orange on St. Patrick's Day as miss one of the New York McCormack concerts, when he is within commuting distance of it. At Pinehurst, N.C., recently during the governor's conference, attended by the chief executive of practically every State in the Union, Meighan, who was there for a rest, was sought out by the statesmen and treated them to a pre-release showing of his newest picture.

The friendship of Meighan and George Ade is well known. This started when Tom was playing the masculine lead in Ade's stage comedy, "The College Widow." Here Meighan met his future wife, Frances Ring. The Meighan-Ade acquaintance has resulted in such popular pictures as "Our Leading Citizen," "Back Home and Broke," and "Woman-Proof."

Another author-friend of Meighan is Booth Tarkington, considered by many to be America's foremost writer. For a long time the star has been trying to induce Tarkington to write an original story for him to play on the screen. At last the famous author consented, with most gratifying results. The story is "Pied Piper Malone," a comedy-drama, with scenes laid at Oldport, Maine, near Tarkington's summer home. The plot deals with an attractive sailor-man and a girl and a bunch of cute kiddies. Lois Wilson is the girl.

"Pied Piper Malone" will be shown at the Westholme Theatre next Friday and Saturday.

TERRACE LADIES IN AMATEUR THEATRICALS

Old Time Ladies' Aid Meeting is Well Illustrated in Comedy by Church Society

TERRACE, July 14. — Friday evening the Ladies' Guild of the Presbyterian Church presented an old time Ladies' Aid meeting at Mohawk crossroads which provided a continuous laugh from start to finish. Mrs. Sundal in her role of hostess presented just such a quaint figure as the imagination could paint, as she dusted an already dustless room and fussed amusingly over her carpet, as she waited for the members to arrive, talking all the while to her two guests from Boston, Mrs. Kindly and Mrs. DeLloyd FitzHammon.

The former part was played most graciously by Mrs. Munro while Mrs. Bert Kenney looked most handsome and aristocratic in the latter role which she sustained with an air of intellectual hauteur throughout.

The part of Mrs. Smith, president of the Ladies' Aid was well taken by Mrs. Parsons and she drew numerous laughs from the audience as she conducted the meeting to the entire satisfaction of its members in the manner men always imagine women's meetings to be conducted.

The cast which was all good and in which each member created and sustained a distinct impression of the part she was playing was as follows:

The Minister's Wife, Mrs. C. Gregie; the Deaf Member, Mrs. E. Kenney; Young Mother, Mrs. Downing; the Nervous Member, Mrs. Creelman; Anti Suffragette, Mrs. W. Smith; Her Husband's Wife, Mrs. Thomasson; Fighting Suffragette, Mrs. Burrison; Man Hater, Miss Grieg; Mrs. Brooks as the singing member deserves especial mention.

The costumes and stage effect were splendid. The room with its antimacassars, piano drape, patchwork quilt, hair wreath, etc., carried one back fifty years while the costumes were each a

The "Ad" that Saved a City

Rome was being attacked. The massive walls were breached. The enemies pressed hard on every side. To the north, the invaders crept stealthily through the night to storm the gates. In the dark, they stumbled on a flock of geese. The fowls cackled loud and long—the sentries heard—and Rome was saved.

Advertising is continually saving something for someone. It will save for you, too, if you use it properly.

It will save you money by pointing out real bargains, by telling you of true values, by giving you prices to compare and by telling you how much you should pay.

It will save you time and effort by telling you exactly where and when to go for what you want to buy. You don't have to "shop around."

It will save you disappointment by telling you just what you can expect from your purchases. Every time a merchant or manufacturer advertises, he obliges himself to sell you goods that fulfil his claims. He knows it doesn't pay to advertise unworthy wares.

Read the advertisements as a plain, every-day business proposition. It is a duty you owe yourself and your purse.

The advertisements will help you save picture worthy of study in themselves.
