Congratulations To Winners.

Prince George is to be congratulated on winning the Fair the Chinese generals. Board's challenge cup for the best district exhibit. The award is well deserved but the honors were not won without competition. Terrace ran them very close and also put up a most cred-side. itable show. Francois Lake for the first attempt did excellently from some of the birds one and Hazelton's exhibit was undoubtedly good.

Judging from remarks heard it seems likely that the winner of the prize next year will have to have almost a perfect exhibit for there is keen rivalry between the districts for first ed at and criticized should aspire place.

Why Not Rupert District Exhibit?

It is pretty nearly time that Prince Rupert had a district night they will start in and try exhibit in competition with the other district exhibits. Vege- to reduce the size of their heads. tables, poultry, forage plants and dairy products ought to be just as good here as elsewhere and at Smith Island they raise KETCHIKAN, Ketchikan, rah, rah, grain. This district could include Porcher Island where splendid results are obtained. All that is needed is someone to spend a Ketchikan, Ketchikan, Ha, ha, ha! little time gathering the material and Prince Rupert could put up a farm display that would make the other districts sit up and take notice. Perhaps the chief difficulty would be in securing fruit. Some is grown at Metlakatla but it is doubtful if enough All the way from Ketchikan, Rah, could be shown to compete successfully. Porcher and Smith Islands ought to be the chief sources of supply. Eventually Porcher, Lewis, Smith and other adjacent islands will supply Prince Rupert with a great quantity of vegetables and poultry.

This year is is hoped that there will be nothing to regret. If hunters will look before they shoot, there will be no casualties. It is not WHEN THE CHILDREN enough to see something move in the woods. It is important to see what causes the movement before shooting.

Fair Directors

To Be Congratulated.

In spite of adverse weather conditions the directors of the fair have carried on in such a manner as to command good patronage and they have got it. The exhibition this year was better than ever before and the directors and officials spent an immense lot of time bringing it to that state of perfection.

Many lessons will doubtless be learned and it will be for the manager to bring these before next year's board of directors so that they may benefit.

A good many fair offices are usually passed around and that makes for little continuity of policy except through the permanent official.

Telegraphic Difficulties.

In spite of telegraphic difficulties the newspapers are to-In spite of telegraphic difficulties the newspapers are to-day able to give their readers a good smattering of world news. To find out how quickly they will be-The strike of telegraphers almost eliminated telegraphic despatches but it is hoped that in future the Daily News will be able to cover the most outstanding events of world news.

While the two local papers are members of the company which handles the telegraphic service for the newspapers Canada, they have little say in the management except that they may vote on the election of officials and take part in the annual meeting which is held in one of the big centres.
