Elevator Talk May Prove Useful.

Many Prince Rupert people do not realize just how difficult it is to influence the erection of an elevator here and what a number of adverse influences there are always working. It seems a simple enough thing to the man on the street but it is not so. It is expected that we shall have an elevator here. Possibly we shall have a number, but we must leave no stone unturned to secure that end. If there is anything that can be done locally, we shall expect to do it, for it means much to us.

The visit of the two elevator men yesterday was important to us, although it does not mean that they are about to do something. The fact that they were here shows that they are interested. Men do not run around to places like this and get up early in the morning to examine sites just for their health. The one man is a consulting engineer who was here to advise the railway company in regard to the feasibility of the proposal and he is well satisfied. He will report favorably. The other man is the representative of possibly the largest grain company on the prairies, and he is looking for a western outlet for the grain if the rates are so adjusted that he can ship westward. He is interested in the mouth of the Fraser River and the Prince Rupert proposals. If the rates are set right, he says his company will enter the grain shipping business from the west and there is a probability he may come here.

Grain Sacking At This Port.

The other suggestion that the railway company should utilize their big shed for sacking grain and storing sacked grain looks like a splendid business proposition and one that would be likely to be adopted. It would not be very costly yet it would mean making a beginning with the grain shipping business. In conjunction with it would go a small elevator sufficient to enable part cargoes of bulk grain to be assembled here. The total cost would not be more than $100,000 and it would be a plant that would soon pay for itself and would enable the railway to make use of this end of the line and the big half million dollar dock that is at present eating up money in overhead.

Possibly Nothing May Come Of Visit.

Possibly nothing may come as a result of the visit yesterday but at any rate it is hoped that the expert information will be an aid to F. G. Dawson and Fred Stork in their negotiations with the government at Ottawa where they are now asking for the recognition of this port. There is a big drive on to prevent the expenditure of money here and the local Board of Trade was foolish enough to lend itself to the movement unwittingly. Estimates will undoubtedly be pruned unmercifully as a result of the nation-wide agitation but it is to be hoped that we shall escape the general cut.

Decision On Grain Rates Next Month.

When Mr. Riddell was here yesterday he intimated that a change would be made in the freight rates westward on grain very soon and today there comes a despatch stating that judgment will be given by the railway commissioners on the B.C. appeal made by Premier Oliver next month. If this judgment gives a reduced rate westward, we may look for business here soon. If the judgment is against us, the development of the port will undoubtedly be delayed. Much depend on what the decision will be.

INTERNATIONAL ROTARY STANDS FOR GOOD WILL

Organization Has Spread to 27 Countries and is Great Factor for Peace, Say Speakers

International Rotary stands for international good will, the elimination of war and the development of higher ideals in business life. That was made clear today from the addresses of E. A. Wakefield, United States Consul, and President H. R. Grant who spoke at the luncheon yesterday on international good will. Consul Wakefield outlined the growth of Rotary and prophesied that it would in time become one of the greatest forces if kept within the bounds originally intended. One of its ideals was to spread business ethics in a humanitarian way. Affairs today were in a muddled condition as the result of the war and it was through such organizations as this that betterment could be hoped for.

Mr. Wakefield spoke of the life and death of Woodrow Wilson, of the defamation of Washington and Lincoln during their lives yet all these were looked on as great men in the world today. So Rotary was intended to serve the purpose of helping bring the world out of chaos. He urged that law should be obeyed no matter what the individual views were in connection with them.

War on War

President Grant said it was one of the purposes of Rotary to wage war on war. Rotary from a small beginning a few years ago had now spread to 27 countries, with 1,500 clubs and a membership of 100,000, all working for international good will. This, carried on, must mean the suppression of war. The white race was rather tired of war but other races were coming up who were desiring a place in the sun. It seemed the part of wisdom that the white races should unite for the suppression of war.

Dr. Grant mentioned that it was the Nordic races, of which the British were one, that were most opposed to war. He thought if the Nordic races united, not for domination, but against war it would be a great thing for the world. Without being impertinent, he said that the British had for many years policed the world. Others should now be invited to join in this work. Most of the wars had been between southern peoples. If the northern white races united to prevent war, they could practically suppress it. The people of northern Europe were looking not toward war but toward industrial development. If they could come to an understanding, war would become foreign to their national life. By standing together they could bring in the millennium.

Moral Integrity

North America, the speaker pointed out, was largely made up of the Nordic races, and they were noted for their moral integrity and industry. Canada and the United States stood for peace. When Canada had grown to her strength she would have a tremendously virile people.

Rotary was represented mostly in the United States but was growing in Canada and as that country developed would increase in strength and influence. For the past 106 years no sword had been drawn between Canada and the United States. They hoped to build a nation side by side both standing for the arts of peace. They had so much in common that the preservation of peace by each country was one of the features of their work.

TONGUE COATED, BAD TASTE IN MOUTH, EYES TINGED WITH YELLOW

Liver Trouble the Cause

Mrs. A. C. Brown, Oromocto, Ont., writes:—"I have been troubled with my liver for a few years back, and was so bad I did not feel able to do my work."

I had severe pains in my stomach, so bad I could hardly stand them at times; coated tongue; bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning; whites of eyes tinged with yellow, and had a muddy and sallow complexion.

I had read a great deal about Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and decided I would try a vial, and after taking two or three I found I was greatly improved, and can truthfully say that I felt more like living and can now do my own work without any trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or will be mailed direct on receipt by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Encouraging Reports Read and Officers Elected For Coming Year

(Special to Daily News). TERRACE, Feb. 22.—At the annual meeting of the Presbyterian Church, Rev. W. J. Parsons presiding, reports from the Sunday school, the three organized classes and the Ladies' Guild were read and proved very encouraging considering the difficulties occasioned by the absence of the minister so much of the year.

Retiring managers were J. H. Young and H. S. Creelman and in their places were elected E. T. Kenny and James Richmond. Dr. H. R. Grant of Prince Rupert ordained the elected elders, Thomas Brooks and H. S. Creelman.

A banquet was held at the close of the meeting, which was thoroughly enjoyed.
