British Labor Journal Attacks Macdonald for Failure of His Policy

Says He Might Have Been in Power Another Year or Two if He had Co-operated With Liberals

LONDON, Oct. 11 .- At the opening of what is generally described as an "unwanted election" an extraordinary attack upon Premier Macdonald in the New Statesman, the organ of the Independent Labor Party is regarded as the most significant incident as implying a serious crisis within the ranks of the party.

The article pays tribute to Macdonald's gifts as a parliamentarian and foreign secretary. It says he has been the best foreign secretary in the last quarter of a century but as prime minister he has been an utter failure. He alone has been responsible for bringing the country into the present "absurd political VANCOUVER GETTING

The article complains of what it terms Macdonald's armour propre, vanity and aloofness from his colleagues. "If he could sink his vanity and prejudices and admit the possibility of there being other men besides himself he might he in power another year or two."

Reform of Tariff and Railway to Peace River Country Both Promised by King at Edmonton

EDMONTON, Oct. 11 .-- Before an overflowing audience in the First Presbyterian Church last night Premier Mackenzie, WITH STATES King gave his pledge that the Peace River country would be given a railway outlet to the Pacific coast as soon as humanly possible. The Premier promised reforms in the tariff, which would relieve the present duty on such implements and articles as are used in the development of the country's great natural resources.

What Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King Said When Campaigning Here Before Election of 1921

The following is a quotation from the Daily News of October 4, 1920, the day after W. L. Mackenzie King and his colleagues addressed an immense gathering in the Westholme Theatre, Prince Rupert:

"Was the G.T.P. policy a wise one? asked Mr. King. What was Sir Wilfrid's vision when the transcontinental railway was being planned, and his vision of this particular city? 'I know,' said Mr. King. 'It was of ships plying from this very harbor, crossing the Pacific with the products of this country, bringing back other commodities here, making this community one of the greatest marts in the world; of a railway running through a country as fertile as any in the world, with feeders running north and south, tapping the resources of the province, mineral and timber, the great national wealth; a great community with ocean wharves, docks, repair yards, dry docks, round houses, hotels, railway stations and all the sights and signs of a great world metropolis.

"'And what have you got today?' went on Mr. King. 'A side line and not a main artery! The difference between the Liberal and Conservative parties."

" 'The Liberal party has set out to build up the Dominion of Canada, advocated freer markets, naval defence and had built a national highway with a Pacific terminus. And the Liberal party is anxious to keep up the work and to finish and carry through the plan, interrupted ten years ago. It is for you to say whether you wish that work to be accomplished or not. We can only do so much. We can go to Eastern Canada and ask for the support of the men in the East, but unless you send us men committed to see that the program is carried out, our hands are tied. For the building up of Prince Rupert, there is every reason for your support. The first thing we have to do is to carry out the great policies of our dear leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and we who have been trained by him, will see to it that his every policy will be completed."
