VANCOUVER LAWYER SKIPS FROM STATES

LOCAL CHURCH CARRIED FROM SILLS BY FORCE OF GALE ON SATURDAY

Anderson Skips Bail and Arrived Vancouver Other Bail is Doubled

VANCOUVER, Dec. 1.—F. L. Anderson, the Vancouver lawyer, who was arrested in San Francisco in connection with the steamer Quadra seizure, returned to Vancouver Saturday without permission of the United States authorities but declared he intended to return to San Francisco for the trial of his case in January. He was released on bail of ten thousand dollars but denied permission of the court to leave its jurisdiction.

When it was learned that Anderson had returned to Vancouver District Attorney Sterling intimated in San Francisco that he would take steps to secure forfeiture of the bond.

"I expect nothing else than an attempt to forfeit my bail," said Anderson, when shown the report. "The action of the United States authorities along this line will simply be in keeping with the way they treated me from the time of my arrival at San Francisco."

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—The district court forfeited the ten thousand dollars bail put up by F. L. Anderson. Anderson's leaving without permission of the court is "but another illustration of the cynical disregard of the laws of the United States by the defendant said Judge Partridge. He said Anderson could be extradited.

The bail of the three other defendants Captain George Ford, first mate John Harris, second mate John Evelyn of the Quadra was raised from $10,000 to $20,000 each.

The vessel will return south on the same route at 8 o'clock this evening and it is expected will make up the two days that she is now behind on her schedule.

Bert Robson, the regular purser, is still holding down the office of the John but Chief Engineer Alex. Munro of the Prince George is in charge below and Chief Steward Adam Ramsay from the Prince George is supervising the work of tickling the Island passengers' palates. Captain McLean and Chief Engineer Mulhern, regular officers of the John, are ashore in Vancouver and Chief Steward Danny Main is on a long desired vacation.

Saturday's Gale Moved Church of St. Peter at Seal Cove from Its Sills and Damaged Building

The southeast gale on Saturday afternoon, the velocity of which was officially recorded at 58 miles by the Digby Island meteorological station, did considerable damage about the city.

The east end of town seem to have been particularly hit, the most serious damage having been the taking of St. Peter's Church at Seal Cove off its mud sills. The tall structure was blown off its foundations and the north side deposited on the muck leaving it in a slanting position with the other side on the sills. It was moved several feet.

The verandah was detached from the main structure and laid on the ground further away. A side of the church was also bulged. It will cost considerable to right the building and the foundation will have to be renewed.

Several woodsheds in Sections 7 and 8 were turned over.

Downtown, plate glass windows were broken in Moersch's grocery store, the shop on Second Street formerly occupied by Silversides Bros., and in the Royal Hotel. A plate glass window was also shattered in Mussall's grocery store on Fifth Avenue East. Part of the roof of Hemmings' store on Third Avenue was blown off and the place leaked badly.
