

ALASKA ELECTION NOVEMBER FOURTH

Appeal Made to Elect Progressive Republicans in that Territory

Prince Rupert people will be interested in the election next week in Alaska where an appeal is being issued on behalf of the Progressive Republicans...

November 4 is the date.

The following men are your candidates, pledged to protect your interests. There is great danger in scratching: Dan Sutherland, for Delegate to Congress; John Rustgard, for Attorney-General;

Forest J. Hunt, for Senator; William D. Grant, for Representative;

C. B. Ferguson, for Representative; Perry M. Hern, for Representative;

William L. Paul, for Representative.

We stand for Alaska for Alaskans in a real sense; abolishment of the fish trap; a tax on non-resident fishermen; the Controller Bill; Election of all principal Territorial officers; a decent workmen's compensation law; a fair and equal tax on all industry without favoritism; abolishment of the J. R. Heckman scheme of closing the fishing season on August 20, this last as being unfair to cannerymen and fishermen, being in the interests of traps, and not a correct conservation measure for "If you breed late fish, you will get late fish."

Sidelights on a Great Industry

A BAR TO INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS

A complete consensus of the business men of British Columbia, outside the lumber industry, see in the Timber Royalties Act of 1914 a very serious obstacle indeed to the industrial progress of the Province.

Important trade organizations all over B.C. have gone on record as demanding the removal of the impediments in the Act to the free expansion of our trade and commerce.

It is agreed that when conditions seem favorable, as they now do, for a trade revival it is peculiarly unfortunate that the presence on our statute book of this out-of-date piece of experimental legislation should threaten to paralyze the chief purchasing power of the province.

Apart from being an all-round hindrance to improved business conditions the present Timber Royalties Act has many inherent defects that justify its amendment.

1—It is a pre-war instrument which is not applicable to a post-war economic situation. In common with many other 1914 measures it has no justification for existence in the vastly different conditions of today.

2—It is founded on an absolutely unsound economic basis. Royalty is essentially a levy on a raw material. The present Act taxes wages, equipment and every factor entering into the cost of producing and distributing the manufactured product. There is no precedent for a measure of this nature.

The B.C. Lumber Industry is due for a revival with resultant good business all round. But the Royalty Act of 1914 effectively bars the way.

This series of articles communicated by the Timber Industries Council of British Columbia.

E. J. Conway, field engineer for the Granby Co., returned to the city from Smithers on last night's train and will proceed to Anxox on the Venture this evening.
