Mr. R. Paulin, Toutes Aides, Man., writes:
 "I became so run down and weak that my heart became affected, and I would sometimes have to remain in bed for several days. Some one advised me to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, so I did, and soon began to gain in weight and feel better. I have taken a great many boxes of these wonderful pills, and am feeling ten years younger. Dr. Chase's Medicines, as well as his Receipt Book, are a great help to us, for we live 40 miles from doctors and railroads."

VANCOUVER AND RUPERT BECOMING INCREASINGLY IMPORTANT SAYS THORNTON

future examination of or action taken in respect to the Crow's Nest agreement will be removed from the field of politics. Economic questions such as this are never satisfactorily settled in legislative halls. It would be very unsatisfactory to Canada if economic questions were settled as a result of a political agreement.

Dominion Viewpoint

Sir Henry pointed out that no matter how the Crow's Nest agreement was decided more or less dissatisfaction would be evinced in certain sections of the country. He emphasized the fact that he did not want to say anything which might be regarded as unsympathetic to the western provinces as he had just returned from a tour of the west and he had the highest regard for the courage, tenacity and high citizenship of the farmers in the west, but one must examine all problems from a universal point of view and not from a sectional aspect. Sir Henry emphatically declared that the subject of freight rates must be considered from a dominion wide point and that fundamentally the rates must be such as to enable farmers successfully to market their products in the markets of the world. The wealth of the nation, he pointed out was based on agricultural products and he said it was axiomatic that freight rates must be of such a character as to permit the farmers of Canada to compete against the farmers of other countries throughout the world. This principle was just as important to the manufacturers of the east as to the agriculturalists of the west.

Rates Inconsistent

"The settlement of the Crow's Nest agreement reaches much farther than most people imagine," continued Sir Henry. "It involves the whole freight rate structure. Our present freight rates have evolved as the country grew, they have grown inconsistently, unsatisfactorily and somewhat illogically. I would recommend a re-examination of the whole freight rate situation. This task can best be done by the railway commission and I make this suggestion quite irrespective of whatever decision may be made in connection with the Crow's Nest agreement."

"It must be remembered that the freight channels are changed. Vancouver and Prince Rupert are growing increasingly important. Somewhere in the west there will appear a traffic divide. West of the divide, traffic will go to the Pacific coast; east of the divide to the Atlantic seaboard. There was a day when traffic moved east and west. The day is also coming when traffic will move more and more north and south as the trade union increases."

Routings Changing

"With the march of time and events traffic routes are changing. Freight rates of thirty years ago, which were then in the interests of the Dominion are not so today. In the interests of the Dominion of Justice and of tranquility I think the railway commission should undertake a study to see whether we may not lay down a more successful structure of freight rates in the interests of the whole country than they are today."

This is the proper way of approaching a problem of so much economic importance to all our people."

Sir Henry arrived at Brantford from Montreal yesterday morning and subsequently met the members of the Chamber of Commerce and representatives of adjoining municipalities in conference. Subsequently he was tendered a luncheon which was presided over by J. Hamm, president of the Chamber of Commerce and among the speakers were Mayor F. W. Billo, W. G. Raymond, M.P. for Southbrant, W. J. Riesberry, agent Canadian National Railways, Brantford, who introduced Sir Henry and W. B. Raeb.

Presentation

A pleasing incident at the luncheon was the presentation to Sir Henry of a silver telephone as a memento of his visit to the Telephone City. It was pointed out that only one other silver telephone had ever been presented to a visitor, and that was when King George, then the Duke of Cornwall and York visited Brantford.

EDMONTON PUTS ON NIGHT POLICEMEN

Increase of Crime in That City Makes it Necessary to Increase Patrol

Night police patrols in Edmonton will likely be augmented in an effort to quickly run to earth a number of criminals who have recently been at work here, says the Edmonton Journal. Officials say that as many men as possible will be detailed for night duty and within a short time yeggs and others of their ilk will find this city not quite to their liking and probably shift to other fields.

Mayor Blatchford, who is police commissioner, says that petty thefts and other such crimes have resulted in representations being made as to the need of increasing night police.

There will be a good moral effect in increasing the protection at night, while if a few examples are made, there should soon be an exodus of those who think this is a fruitful field for operations.

Police officials say that no doubt the presence of men who have been harvesting and who probably took advantage of the cheap rates to Alberta, is partly responsible for recent crimes. The records of some of these men are unknown and it is likely that criminal characters were included in the number that came here.

 FOR THE FAMILY WASHING

Soak the clothes first. No rubbing, no boiling.

Soaking takes the place of rubbing

JUST by soaking the clothes in the suds of this new soap, dirt is gently loosened and dissolved.

Even the dirt that is ground in at neckbands and cuff-edges yields to a light rubbing with dry Rinso. Not a thread is weakened. The mild Rinso suds work thoroughly through and through the clothes without injury to a single fabric.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux. For the family wash it is as wonderful as Lux is for fine things.

All grocers and department stores sell Rinso.
