Grain Elevator is Key to Local Business says Director of Railway

The grain elevator is the key to increased business in Prince according to D. J. McDougald, director of the Canadian Railway, who was in the city yesterday and who went East on the train after visiting Anyox. He sees a great future with steadily increasing business for this port.

"I believe that those of you who have waited a long time will soon see some of your dreams come true," declared the prominent visitor. "With an elevator here there would be ships coming to the port, the railways would be busier, the machine shops, drydock and all the institutions connected with the port would get business. It is a sin RAILWAYMAN to see that splendid drydock idle and the fine dock and shed not being used. It means a lot to the railway as well as to the city to have all these used. The railway is vitally interested in the William Moss Lost His Life development of the port of Prince Rupert for prosperity to one means prosperity to the other."
