Old Country Houses Not Fit To Live In.

According to the National Housing Council more than a million English homes are not fit to live in, which means that they do not measure up to modern standards. The average English home is without a bath and does not compare with the average home on this continent.

No Signature To Letters Received.

It is wonderful what a number of letters are received by every editor that are not signed and that are evidently designed for publication. The writers forget the rule that all letters intended for publication must be signed by the writers, else they cannot be published.

As an example, a letter was received last night from Vancouver signed "A Voter" along with a number of clippings from a Vancouver paper, showing what help Vancouver is getting from the Ottawa government in the way of grain elevators and harbor development.

No Apologist For Liberal Government.

This paper is no apologist for the Liberal government. At the time of the last election we gave it unqualified support because we felt that to do so was in the best interests of the city and of the country as a whole.

Difficult Position Of British Premier.

The somewhat experimental government in power in Great Britain still holds the centre of the world stage, and there is much prophesying as to what success they will have in conducting the affairs of the older section of the Empire of which we are a part.

Sleeplessness

Sleeplessness, like insanity, is greatly on the increase. Modern life, with its hurry and worry and noise, brings an enormous strain on the brain and nerves.

The temptation to depend on sleeping powders or tablets must be fought off if you would avoid catastrophe. Means of reconstructing the starved nerve cells must be sought. Since the digestive system fails to supply nourishment to the blood and nerves it is necessary to employ such treatment as DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has been increased to 60c, the box now contains 60 pills instead of 50 as formerly.

Likewise Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are 35c, a box of 35 pills, instead of 25c, for 25 pills. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

New Box 60 Pills 60 cts.

MONEY IS GOD OF THE ENGLISH

That is Opinion of Ghandi the Indian Agitator According to His Sons

BOMBAY, Jan. 31.—New light has been thrown upon the purposes of Mahatma Ghandi by the visit of an English journalist, Drew Pearson, to the imprisoned politician's former home at Ahmedabad.

After giving a colorful picture of the Ghandi home and its surroundings, Mr. Pearson writes:

"After we adjourned to Ghandi's room, I sat under his picture, talking with his two sons and his secretary. Ramedas, the elder son, has just returned from South Africa. The younger son, Devadas, and Desai, the secretary, had been released from prison sentences of nine months and one year, respectively.

Self Government

"I asked if Mr. Ghandi desired India's complete separation from the British Empire. 'No,' replied Devadas, 'he wishes only the self-government enjoyed by Australia and New Zealand. He says that if the English became Indianized, we can accommodate them. If they wish to remain in India along with their own civilization, we have no room for them.'

"My father thinks that English voters make their newspaper their Bible. Their views swing like a pendulum, following the man who is a powerful orator or who gives many receptions. He believes that if India copies England she will be ruined."

Too Commercial

"The English are too commercial," broke in Ramedas. "Father used to quote Napoleon, who called them a nation of shop-keepers. He was fond of the story told of the late President Kruger, who, when asked if there was any gold in the moon, replied it was extremely unlikely because, if true, the English would have annexed it. They wish to convert the whole world into a market for their goods. We can always understand them if we remember that money is their god."

The Man in the Moon SAYS—

ONE method for reducing the size of head is to mix freely with high school students and listen carefully to their expressions of regard.

IF men were as wise as dogs they would quickly bury the bones of contention.

IF a man buys more real estate than he can use, may he be called a ground hog? asks a local humorist. No siree, not that. He is just plain crazy and that's what a whistling hog never is.

A DOPESTER is a man that puts another to sleep by selling him an idea that is useless.

THREE men Go to pen Selling illegal dope, Then make some cash Slinging hash But never give up hope. If you read This awful screed Just go and kick yourself. You need a nurse To watch your purse Soon as you get the pelf.

THERE is one thing in which Canada can lick the world and that is in scoring goals at a hockey match.

THE housing council says the English houses are not fit to live in and the Irish say the English are not fit to live, so there you are. It is a case of the survival of the unfit, apparently.

THE city council is talking of setting the country an example in economy by meeting only once a fortnight.

THE next logical step should be to have the legislature meet every second year and then have the number of bills kept down by limiting their number to five at each session.

"TOO many bills," is the cry of everybody, especially at the first of the month.

It will be noticed that a bill is a thing you avoid paying and a bill is also a thing that you would use in paying the bill if you had it and did not need it for anything else.

MANSON SUGGESTED SUCCESSOR TO OLIVER

Interesting Sketch of Activities of Attorney General Given in Winnipeg Paper

Says a British Columbia correspondent of the Manitoba Free Press: "Hon. A. M. Manson, attorney-general of British Columbia, who recently astonished a lot of people by telling the members of the Vancouver Ministerial Association that they were a bunch of pikers, is one of the interesting personalities in the far western political firmament. 'Alec,' as he is generally known by his friends, is a young man with lots of ability, an abounding energy, and a decided tendency to boil over if he gets a bit excited. Then he will strike right out from the shoulder, and he means everything he says. There is absolutely no doubt as to that.

"But the trouble is that what Mr. Manson says so emphatically and directly on such occasions is usually poor politics, and Liberals feel that plain-spoken, 'honest John' Oliver is quite capable of making as many breaks as one government can afford to be responsible for without having an attorney general who breaks out in a rash every once in a while.

Weaker Without Him

"Nevertheless, the Oliver government would be considerably weaker than it is if Manson were not in it. Possessor of a very nimble legal mind, not unlike the Arthur Meighen type, with a nimble tongue to match, quite as nimble as Mr. Meighen's, the attorney general is the big driving wheel on the government side of the legislative assembly. Since he became attorney general the premier has been disposed to take his ease to some extent, and a stranger in the gallery on most occasions would naturally pick Manson as the leader of the House.

Manson is the type of man to thrive on hard work and excitement. He has had plenty of both since he became a minister, for in addition to the regular duties that fall to the lot of a provincial attorney-general he has had to administer British Columbia's Moderation act. Manson has made war on bootlegging with good results, carried on a pretty continuous row with the Vancouver city authorities about irregularities in issuing licenses to beer clubs, which resulted in eighty such clubs being closed up the other day. In recent months he has been getting some more excitement out of charges made by him involving the 'narcotic squad' of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in participation of the drug traffic. In connection with this investigation, he bumped into the Ottawa department of justice and withdrew from the inquiry when dissatisfied with the manner in which it was being conducted. As an aftermath, the attorney-general succeeded in having two members of the 'narcotic squad,' whom he believes were in the drug smuggling game, committed for trial on perjury charges.

P.G.E. Inquiry

On the top of all this, Manson is now engaged in preparing the material for the inquiry into P.G.E. affairs to start shortly. From all of which it is pretty easy to gather that in the event of a Liberal defeat in the next provincial election, and Mr. Oliver's retirement from politics, Mr. Manson will be his natural successor."

"It is such lovely material"

Directions for Washing Silks

Whisk one tablespoonful of Lux into a thick lather in half a bowlful of very hot water. Add cold water until lukewarm. Dip the garment up and down pressing suds repeatedly through soiled spots. Rinse in three lukewarm waters. Squeeze water out—do not wring. Roll in a towel; when nearly dry, press with a warm iron—never a hot one!

THE beautiful shimmering materials that are fashioned into Milady's clothes today require the most delicate care in washing.

Old methods of rubbing would never do for such exquisite fabrics.

Lux, with its gentle cleansing suds, comes to the aid of those who love refinement in material and in design. The rich Lux lather, gently squeezed through fine fabrics, just floats the dirt away without a possibility of harm coming to a single delicate silken thread.

Wear what you wish—the most alluring material can be washed with Lux.

There is much speculation as to what the Canadian Pacific Railway will do with a surplus on hand of $42,000,000. The building of a road into the Peace River country is prominently mentioned.

HEART WAS SO BAD HAD TO SIT UP IN BED

Mrs. O. E. Fitzgerald, 106 Ross St., St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—"In the Fall of 1921, I was taken ill with my heart, but did not pay much attention to it. I kept on with my household duties, but seemed to become worse and worse, and finally had to call in a doctor. He said I was all run down and was a nervous wreck. I had a severe pain in my chest which would move over to my heart and it became so bad I could not lie down, as when I did I had such a smothering feeling I would have to sit up in bed till it passed away.

I tried several remedies, but with no good results. Finally, I was induced to try MIBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills. I took 7 boxes, and I am now as well as I was 30 years ago, and I am now 65 years old.

MIBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills are for a box at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. MIBURN Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
