Word to this effect was brought in by the schooner Toodie yesterday afternoon and the American Fish & Cold Storage Co.'s boat Chief Legiac, was despatched to pull the Sumner off. The vessel was brought into port luring the night and was drydocked this morning. She has extensive hull damage.

The Sumner had discharged a cargo of halibut here on Thursday and, when the accident occurred, was outbound to the fishing banks on her last trip before the close season. The scene of the accident was close to where the James Carruthers piled up about four years ago.

Engineer Mine Likely to be One of Greatest Gold Producers in North

District Engineer Tells About Development There and at Other Mines in Atlin District

"Altogether the Engineer Mine bids fair to fulfil the predictions that it will become one of the greatest gold producing properties in the north," stated G. A. Clothier, resident mining engineer, who has just returned to Prince Rupert after paying an official visit to this famous property which, after several years of litigation following the loss of its owner, the late Capt. Alexander, in the Princess Sophia wreck in 1916, is once again under operation.
