Town And Country Interdependent.

Sometimes the people of the big cities get it into their heads that they are the rulers of the universe and that the whole country should be subservient to them. To them the people of the country are of little account, and yet it is true that the cities are wholly dependent on the country districts for their success.

The farmers sometimes get the idea that as they are the ones who feed the rest of the people, they should be esteemed above everyone else and that if they stopped work the whole world would stop revolving. They too are wrong. No one group of people is all important. There is a correlation of interest and each is as important as the other. The city is just as important as the country and the country as the city. Neither can prosper without the other.

Movement To Improve Farming Conditions.

In the past farmers have been on a different plane from other people and conditions of life have been altogether different from those obtaining in the cities. However, changes are taking place and as a result the cost of living is going up. Farmers are no longer content to live a life apart as they did in the past. They refuse to be looked upon as a different class. With the advent of the radio, the rural telephone, the gas buggy, and other conveniences they are able to keep in touch with the outside world. Newspapers and magazines are cheap and by reading and close contact with neighbors the farmer is no longer a "mossback." He is taking a place among the educated people of the world and is able to hold his own anywhere he may go.

Speculation In Regard To Government.

Telegrams come through every day and are likely to be followed by others telling of the speculation that is going on in Victoria and Vancouver in regard to the position of the government following the elections of Friday last. These are all largely based on gossip, it would seem, for nothing official will be known for some time to come. If Premier Oliver does not accept a seat in some other constituency he will resign, and naturally the selection of the next premier is an important event and one that means much to the future of the government and of the province. With the appointment of a new premier there may be a shuffling of the cabinet positions. At any rate there is a new minister of finance to be appointed and a new speaker to be elected. It is suggested that Hanes of North Vancouver would make a good speaker and Neelands of South Vancouver has been mentioned as the next minister of labor. Such is gossip. In about three or four weeks from now we shall know more about it. In the meantime the only thing to do is wait and carry on.

All Will Regret If Oliver Goes.

If Premier Oliver decides to resign, his action will be regretted by everyone, Liberal or Conservative. He has been the Grand Old Man of British Columbia who has fought the battles of his province not only here but at Ottawa with good effect. He seems to have been the victim of a concerted move on the south end of Vancouver Island to get rid of the present government, possibly because of jealousy of Vancouver where conditions are much more prosperous than they are on the Island.

FULL TEXT OF HALIBUT PACT

Commission Will be Appointed to Study Habits of Halibut on Coast

MAY SEIZE VESSELS

Treaty to be in Force for Next Five Years and Subject to Notice

Under the treaty for the protection of halibut fisheries, which provides for an annual closed season for that industry, provision is made for the appointment of an International Fisheries Commission composed of four members, two each from the United States and Canada. Its duty will be to make a close study of Pacific halibut and make recommendations for its preservation and development of the industry.

Article I.

The nationals and inhabitants and the fishing vessels and boats of the United States and of the Dominion of Canada, respectively, are hereby prohibited from fishing for halibut (Hippoglossus) in the high seas off the western coasts of the United States, including Bering Sea, and of the Dominion of Canada, from the 16th day of November next after the date of the exchange of ratifications of this convention to the 15th day of the following February, both days inclusive, and ratified by the high contracting parties within the same period yearly in accordance with the constitution of the high contracting parties. The ratifications of this convention a commission, to be known as the International Fisheries Commission, consisting of four members, two to be appointed by each party. This commission shall continue to exist as long as this convention shall remain in force. Each party shall pay the salaries and expenses of its own members, and joint expenses incurred by the commission shall be paid by the two high contracting parties in equal moieties.

The commission shall make a thorough investigation into the life history of the Pacific halibut, and such investigation shall be undertaken as soon as practicable. The commission shall report the results of its investigation to the two governments and shall make recommendations as to the regulation of the halibut of the North Pacific Ocean, including the Bering Sea, which may seem to be desirable for its preservation and development of the industry.

Article IV.

The high contracting parties agree to enact and enforce such legislation as may be necessary to make effective the provisions of this convention, with appropriate penalties for violations thereof.

Article V.

This convention shall remain in force for a period of five years, and thereafter until two years from the date when either of the high contracting parties shall give notice to the other of its desire to terminate it. It shall be terminated in accordance with the high contracting parties. The ratifications shall be exchanged in Washington as soon as practicable, and the convention shall come into force and effect on the day of the exchange of ratifications.

In faith whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present convention in duplicate, and have thereto affixed their seals.

Done at the City of Washington the 2nd day of March, in the Year of Our Lord, 1923.
