CVERY good ship, nearing port, takes on a pilot. L. Usually, the law requires it. The pilot knows the channel. With his capable hands at the helm, the vessel is safe. Without him, there is danger of the shoals.

When you set sail on a shopping tour you, too, should have a pilot. Everybody needs one. And wellinformed shoppers always have one---ADVERTISING.

Advertising keeps you off the rocks of extravagance and waste. It takes you straight into the port of economy. It tells you plainly where to go for what you want. It shows you how to save steps---and money--and time. By watching it carefully, each day, you are able to buy to best advantage.

Often, the advertisements will keep you from making an unwise purchase by pointing out just why one article suits better than another. It points out for you the pick of the country's market and the selection of the particular kind, shape, size and color that best suits your taste and fits your pocket-book.

Whether you want food, clothing, furniture or a toy for the children, the advertisements can help you.

To the Ladles

HERE's to the infant In swaddling clothes Why they all like her Nobody knows.

Here's to the miss In primary school; Already she's showing Strong signs of home rule;

Here's to the maiden So gladsome and sweet, Selfconscious and winsome As any you'd meet.

Here's to the flapper Just bursting her shell; In spite of her gushing We still like her well.

Here's to the girl With a lover in tow; Just now they are off To take in the show.

Here's to the bride Who has captured a mate. She is joyous while he Is resigned to his fate.

Here's to the matron So buxom and strong, With children and home And a husband along.

Here's to the widow Now setting her cap At the best of the men She can get in her trap.

Here's to the grandmother Still full of fun Children are fond of her Everyone.

Here's to the ladies Wherever they be. We tease them and love them And kiss them maybe.
