ELECTION AT EARLY DATE

Failure of Third Party to Make Any of Mud Stick Said to be Influencing Liberals

POLITICIANS ARE BUSY

(Special by Mail)

VANCOUVER, April 3. — The question whether the election will take place at the same time as the beer plebescite or a little later is being discussed here. Some who consider themselves authorities claim it will be at the same time, while others who also just as confidently fancy they know indicate that the votes will be taken on different dates. J. W. DeB. Farris, when addressing the Liberals recently here, spoke of being on the eve of an election and it is said that the utter collapse of the Third Party charges against any member of the Government has strengthened their hands immeasureably and is largely responsible for the decision to make an appeal to the country at as early a date as possible.

Liquor Question

The difficulties connected with the export of liquor have been pretty well solved through the consolidation of the interests handling it and the refusal of the Government to grant any more licenses. The only matter now to be dealt with is the sale of beer by the glass, for which there has been a demand in Vancouver. There has on the whole been great improvement of conditions since the recent legislation was passed and the liquor laws are being enforced everywhere.

Attorney General Manson, who has returned from the north most enthusiastic over the prospects will take a brief holiday before opening the election campaign. Hon. J. D. McLean and Hon. T. D. Pattullo are scheduled for election addresses in Vancouver.

May Import Man

The Conservatives have been very busy and W. J. Bowser is getting men in the field everywhere in the southern part of the province, but so far the north has not been heard from. It is said here that man will have to be imported by the party to run for Prince Rupert, as there does not seem to be any local man available and Conservatives here are looking around for a suitable candidate who is not already attached to some constituency in the south. It was thought that Colonel Peck might have returned to his old love, but he has accepted nomination for the Islands against M. B. Jackson, chairman of the game board. J. Merryfield, now provincial organizer, is mentioned, as it is known that he has a great many friends in the north and would make about as strong a running as anyone.

INDIGESTION GAS ON STOMACH PAINS AFTER MEALS

Many people suffer terribly from gas and pains in the stomach after every meal, and are kept in constant misery.

For the past 44 years Burdock Blood Bitters has been bringing hope and joy to thousands suffering from various forms of stomach trouble, helping them to eat three square meals a day; helping them to eat anything they wish, without having to suffer for it after.

Mr. Fred Nielson, Moose Jaw, Sask., writes:—"All last summer I was troubled with stomach trouble and indigestion, and also gas on the stomach. I could not eat anything except some light food and even then I would be bothered with pains after each meal. I could not work a whole day without being done out. I had tried everything; doctors, medicines and pills, until I read about Burdock Blood Bitters, have taken four bottles and it has nearly, if not completely, restored me to health again."

FRANCE READY ANOTHER WAR

Preparations Being Made by that Country so That They Will Not be Surprised

ALL DEFEND COUNTRY

PARIS, April 3. — "National mobilization" is the official title of a bill which the French government submitted to parliament for adoption and which includes a detailed plan for the "general organization of the nation in time of war."

Sponsored by President Millerand, Premier Poincare and ministers Maunoury, De Lasteyrie, Maginot, Raiberti, Le Trocquer and Sarraut, the bill is for the purpose of "studying at once a formula of national organization susceptible to be applied without delay, or preliminary trial in the event of war breaking out."

Improvised Method

"The turn taken by the war of 1914-18 at the very outset found the provisions, generally admitted as effective before 1914, to be deficient," the bill begins. "It became necessary later on to improvise, under pressure of circumstances, a completely new organization, the realization of which was both slow and difficult.

"Thus the government has thought it to be its duty to study immediately the situation which would be created in case of a new conflict. In 1914 it was expected that the war would be purely a military one, and that the decision would be reached in a very short time. In consequence, salvation appeared only in the intensification of the production of military weapons of great power and the aimmunition necessary to them. The renewal and maintenance of the life of the nation was looked upon as a secondary matter."

Latent Energy

This proved to be a capital error, the bill goes on, and during 51 months the belligerents were called upon to draw extensively from the latent resources of the nation's energy.

A central organization under a unity of command, is the essential and fundamental base of the new plan for national defence.

The duties of this organization will be, in times of peace, "continued and methodical experiments with the most modern types of material; the grouping together of all the indispensable stocks necessary to equip and arm the military forces ready to be sent in line at the beginning of hostilities, and permitting them to operate under conditions foreseen and arranged for until such time as national industry can furnish the supplementary material."

Mobilization

The bill provides for the immediate mobolization of all activities destined "to assure the production on a huge scale of all armaments, ammunition and material of all nature necessary to the armed forces." This includes the immediate adaptation "to a state of war" of all methods of communication and transportation, postal, telegraphic, telephonic and wireless, and railroads, shipping, automobiles and airplanes.

Article I reads: "In times of war all Frenchmen and French colonials, as well as all legally constituted groups under French rule, are obliged to participate in the defence of the country and the mainfenance and upkeep of its material and moral life."

Article II: "The measures destined to assure the transfer of the organization of defence in peace time to that of war, are provided for under the constitution. The execution of these measures, as provided in the present bill, constitute the 'national mobilization.'"

Complete Details

The bill contains 44 articles, most of them dealing with the technical organization necessary to ensure an instantaneous passing of the entire country from peace to a state of war. The detail has been approved by the army commission.

SKYLIGHT ROBBERY

Quantity of Clothing Stolen in Victoria and Soon Recovered by Police

VICTORIA, April 3—The sequel to a daring skylight robbery perpetrated on the premises of F. R. Gowen, Government Street clothier developed a few hours later with the arrest of two men in a downtown rooming house and the recovery of $350 worth of clothing. An eighteen-foot rope ladder was found by the police when searching the rooms of the suspects, who gave the names of Ronald Lozzi and Byron Boland.

The robbery was reported to the city plain clothes' department at 10 a.m. Thirty minutes later the two men were under arrest, charged with complicity in the crime, and the stolen articles recovered. Later the police found a suitcase full of silk which was awaiting shipment by the Dominion Express Company to Vancouver, consigned by one of the men under arrest, alleges the police, to an address in the terminal city.

HUTCHINSON WINS GAME FROM EASSON

Slow Billiard Match Last Night Resulted in Score of 500 to 432 After 2½ Hours Play

W. E. Hutchinson goes to the third round of the individual city championship billiard competition and A. A. Easson is eliminated as a result of last night's game which the former won 500 to 432. It was a slow affair and lasted two hours and 34 minutes. Easson started weak but improved towards the end and came out with a better total than he had generally been expected to make.

Hutchinson's high break was 31 and his average per innings, 4.42 while Easson's figures were respectively 25 and 3.85. There were 113 innings for Hutchinson and 112 for Easson.

Sport Chat

The fact that four clubs have signified their intention of competing in the Senior Football League this year indicates that there is considerable soccer talent in the city. All the clubs have lost players through winter departures but there have been new arrivals to take their places. There will be just enough change in the complexion of the various line-ups to make speculation at this early date rather uncertain. With the Grotto out, the pioneer Callies are back in the running again with full confidence of winning more laurels as they have consistently done for the past ten years or more. Junior organization has not yet commenced, but in this department there is known to be plenty of embryo talent developed in the schools of recent years, and a keen season's competition is anticipated. The decision to advance the opening of the season from May 1 to April 15 has been received with acclaim by the many fans who are eagerly awaiting the 1924 resumption of the popular sport.

Plans for a tour of England, France and possibly Spain by tennis teams of the American universities, Yale and Harvard, are being made by Harry Eldridge, manager of the Harvard team. The combined teams, according to present plans, will sail for England, July 5. They will meet club teams in and around London after which they will play Oxford and Cambridge in their annual international tournament. In the proposed trip to the continent tentative matches with the French and Spanish Davis Cup teams in their respective countries have already been arranged. The teams will return to United States early in September. Courts will be provided aboard ship for the players to enable them to keep in training.
