Labor Government Forced by Liberals to Change Policy or Face Defeat and Resignation POLICE BUSY

LONDON, April 3 .- The Labor government evaded otherwise inevitable defeat in the House of Commons yesterday in connection with the Rents Bill which was up for second reading by consenting to revision of an objectionable clause providing for non-eviction of a tenant if unemployed.

Right Hon. H. Asquith, Liberal leader, said that unless this was eliminated he would be compelled to vote against the second reading. This ultimatum meant that both Conservatives and Liberals would oppose them and would have meant defeat of the ministers.
