500 POLE OPERATIONS IN THE PROVINCE

THIS BRANCH OF FOREST INDUSTRIES INCREASES OUTPUT SIXFOLD IN SEVEN YEARS

Operations Greatly Assist Settler Sub-Contractors in Clearing Their Land

The British Columbia pole business is rapidly developing into great importance.

In the Vancouver forestry district alone there are over 200 operators employing 850 men and considerable equipment in getting out red cedar poles and in the whole province it is estimated that not less than 500 concerns, large and small, employ over 2,000 men in this class of work. In the year 1923, over 16,000,000 feet of poles were produced in British Columbia of an estimated value of $1,600,000 F.O.B. rail. This is no less than six times the quantity that was taken out of the B.C. woods in 1916.

Settler Sub-Contractors

Pole cutting is largely done by settler sub-contractors who derive great benefit from this occupation, the revenue they receive greatly assisting them in clearing their property of timber that would otherwise be wasted, thus furnishing another example of the ubiquity of the B.C. forest industries.

There is no more suitable wood for telegraph and telephone poles than B.C. red cedar and buyers all over the world are well aware of this fact.

British Columbia possesses threefifths of the world's supply of red cedar and given fair conditions its pole industry has a great future ahead.

This series of articles communicated by the Timber Industries Council of British Columbia.

Gloria Swanson Shown In Rather Daring Film at Week End

Gloria Swanson is to be seen here in picture again at the week end in a society scandal story.

Marjorie Colbert (Gloria Swanson), a beautiful young society woman, married Hector Colbert when he was a war hero, but now the romance has worn out. Marjorie, eager for excitement and bored with her drab, rather stupid husband, turns to Harrison Peters, a society outcast and known to be a cheater at cards. When Marjorie's mother-in-law protests at her friendship for Peters, Marjorie, in a huff, leaves her husband and goes to live at a fashionable hotel.

Peters makes violent love to her. At a gay week-end party at the country home of a Long Island millionaire, Peters deliberately compromises Marjorie by walking out of her bedroom in decidedly unconventional attire right before their host and hostess. There is a big scandal, and Hector Colbert sues for divorce from Marjorie.

Handsome Lawyer

Colbert's lawyer is Daniel Farr, a handsome, violently ambitious young attorney. Farr laughs at Marjorie's story that Peter's presence in her bedroom was innocent, attacks her savagely, and tears her reputation to shreds. Marjorie conceives a violent hate for Farr. The divorce is granted and Marjorie, once society's favorite, becomes an outcast.

Sometime later, Marjorie's friend, Caroline Pennfield by accident brings Marjorie and Farr together at a dinner party. Marjorie, arrayed in her most daring gown and concealing her hate for Farr, vamps him unmercifully. He is infatuated with her and readily agrees to visit her in her hotel room for tea the next afternoon. Moreover, he believes she was innocent of wrongdoing with Peters, and wishes to apologize.

Plots Revenge

When Farr arrives the next afternoon, Marjorie, still plotting revenge on him, leaves him for a moment and goes into her bedroom. She comes out with her gown torn and her hair down. As Farr, amazed, approaches her, she rushes out into the corridor of the hotel crying that Farr has attempted to attack her. The story gets into all the papers, and Farr is ruined.

But Marjorie realizes now that her triumph is empty. She loves Farr. She makes a full confession to the papers, admitting her story about Farr attacking her was a lie, and prepares to disappear. But at the last moment Farr comes to her and and takes her into his arms.

SALOMY JANE FINE BRET HART PICTURE

In the picturization of one of Bret Hart's mining camp stories seen here last night and again tonight, the scenes are laid in the mining town of Red Dog, and from the robbery of the stage coach at the start down to the finish, when Jane and the stranger plight their troth, thrills never cease for a moment. Western pictures may be regarded as ordinary, but this production by George Melford rises to the dignity of art. The shots of mountain scenery, and of a storm with wild rides, seldom have been equalled and never surpassed by any other picture. No one who likes strong, virile, beautiful and impressive pictures can afford to miss "Salomy Jane."

ETERNAL CITY WAS FILMED IN ITALY

Entire Cast Taken to That Country to Make Realistic Picture

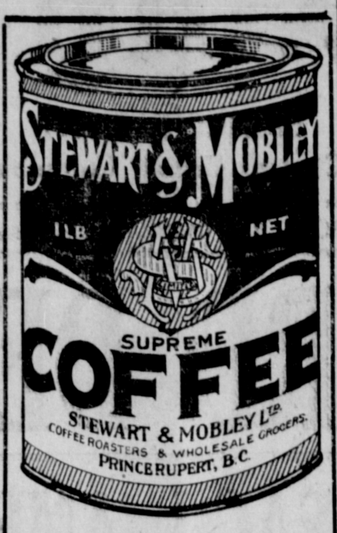

Proof of the heights of realism and accuracy which the producers of motion pictures are aiming for is supplied by the fact that many of them travel long distances in order to film the stories in the exact locale specified by the authors.

Sometimes this entails considerable expense and trouble without end, but the Goddess of Art is a strict mistress and does not brook any slighting of her demands.

"The Eternal City" is one illustration of this custom. While Sir Hall Caine laid his story in Rome and its environments, the scenes required for backgrounds could have been duplicated in Hollywood without anyone becoming the wiser, for the art directors in the industry have uncanny ability to reproduce any section of the globe. But George Fitzmaurice, who produced this First National picture, would have nothing of artificial settings. So he took the entire cast, including Barbara La Marr, Lionel Barrymore, Bert Lytell, Richard Bennett and Montagu Love, together with his technical staff, to Italy, and filmed the picture there.

Another instance is that of Producer Edwin Carewe, who transported his company and technicians to Biskra, Algeria, which is on the very edge of the desert, to make "A Son of the Sahara." They had to travel 7,000 miles to reach their destination.

All for the sake of realism.

Ten Years Ago
in Prince Rupert

September 2, 1914.

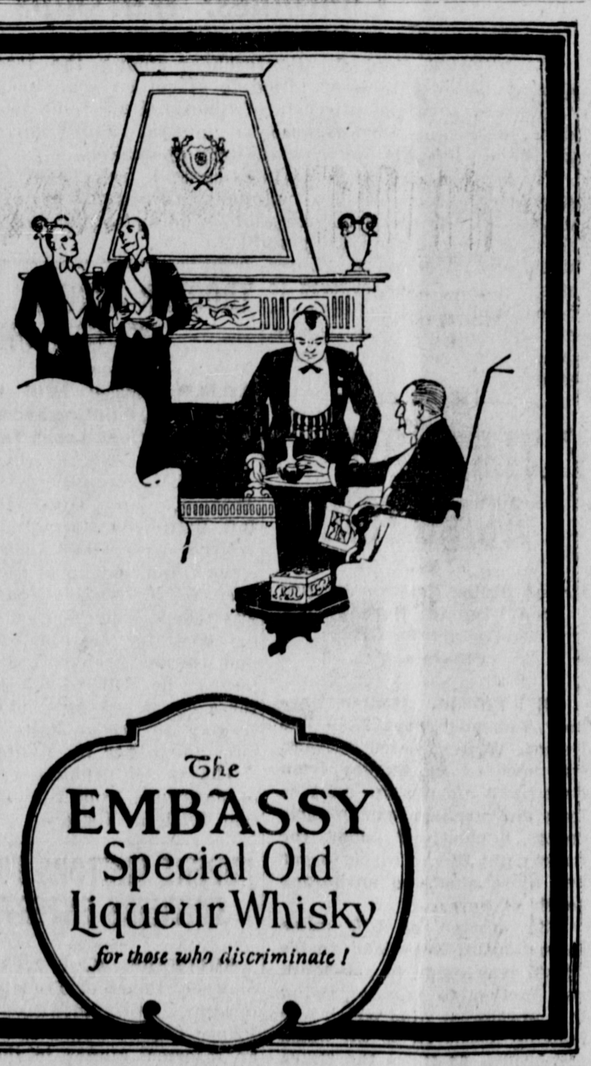

Today's war news indicates reverses for the Allies on the Eastern front but victories on the West. The German armies are now within forty miles of Paris but it is not expected they will be able to break through the Allies' lines.

Rev. Canon G. A. Rix gave an address on Imperialism and the cause and effects of the war before Queen Mary Chapter, I.O.D.E, at the home of Mrs. F. H. Du Vernet, honorary regent, yesterday afternoon. Miss Chae-Brown played patriotic piano solos. Mrs. F. McB. Young and Miss McTavish presided at the tea table and were assisted by the officers and members of the chapter.

The opening of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway for traffic will mean a good winter for Prince Rupert, local businessmen expect.

SOVIET BARS FIELD GLASSES

BERLIN. — Tourists' field glasses are military equipment and dangerous to Russia's safety when owned by foreigners, in the opinion of Soviet custom officers. Their importation is forbidden and consequently they are seized at the border, is the report of a German citizen, recently returned from Russia minus a new and expensive prism-binocle.

Famous Franch Horse Beaten by Wise Counsellor by Only Half a Length

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—Epinard, the French racehorse, beaten by half a length by Wise Counsellor in the six furlongs race which marked the first of a series of three international events, remains the pivotal point of speculation as he prepares for the next race of a mile in September 24. Ladkin finished third, three lengths behind Epinard. Snob came fourth. Zev, the greatest money winner of all time, finished fifth.

The victor in the race got $29,000.

MINERAL EXHIBIT IS HERE FROM USK. BIG PRINCE GEORGE ENTRY

The Skeena River Prospectors' Association has shipped the Fair Board a mineral exhibit representative of the Usk district which will be displayed at the Prince Rupert Exhibition next week. It will be a fitting addition to an already splendid group of exhibits from the various mining districts of the north which is being assembled.

On Saturday, the Fair Office received an entry for a district agricultural exhibit from Prince George. Last year Prince George took second prize for its district exhibit and those in charge at that time said they would bring an exhibit this year which could not be beaten. Accordingly something out of the ordinary is now expected. In addition to the district exhibit, there will be a number of individual displays from Prince George.

FISH EXHIBIT

Editor, Daily News.

Regarding the recent statement in the Daily News that there never was a fish exhibit at the Prince Rupert Exhibition, Mr. Bohler and myself saw one when the first fair was held in your city and it certainly was splendid. It included a big fish encased in ice.

MRS. F. W. BOHLER,
Kitsumkalum.

Miss Myles and Miss C. McKay arrived from Vancouver on the Prince Rupert yesterday afternoon. They are on their way to Port Simpson where they will teach school.

Some one broke into the Edson Coal Co.'s bunkers at Cow Bay at the end of the week and removed five sacks of coal. A padlock and set of keys were also taken.

Union freighter Chillawack, Capt. C. B. Smith, was in port from 1.30 to 2.30 this morning bound for Vancouver and Alice Arm, Stewart and Anyox with general cargo. There was a small quantity of freight on board for here.

R. F. McNaughton, C.N.R. district passenger agent, returned to the city on last night's train after an absence of ten days in which time he visited Vancouver and Edmonton. At the latter place he attended a conference of western passenger representatives presided over by R. Creelman, passenger traffic manager, Winnipeg. G. A. McNicholl, general passenger agent, Vancouver, also attended and returned south by way of Jasper.

SMITHERS

Work was started last week on the new store and office building for the Canadian National Railways here. The structure will be of two storeys frame construction and will have a concrete foundation. It will be one hundred feet long and is located between the station and the round house.

The new lumber mill of Messrs. Messner, Harrer and Messner started operations last week. It has a capacity of 15,000 feet daily and will cut for the local market.

J. Bayson, a rancher of this district since 1912, died last week at the Kamloops sanitarium.

There has been a good deal of activity in Smithers real estate recently several lots having changed hands during the past fortnight.

Judges at the Smithers Fair last week were: fruit and vegetables, R. P. Murray, Penticton; poultry, H. Reid, Victoria; field roots, W. Jones, Vancouver; women's work, Miss M. Lauder, Kamloops; fancy work, Mrs. Olof Hanson, Smithers; photography, George Orchard, Smithers; school work, Mrs. R. Elsey, Smithers; flowers, S. Godwin, Burns Lake.

Unfortunately many women have taken it for granted that shingled hair is the short cut back to youth.
