VANCOUVER, Sep. 6-Whether the remaining witnesses to be called before the second coroner's inquest into the death of Janet Smith, the Shaughnessy Heights nursemaid, when the hearing resumes on Tuesday after being adjourned, will be able to tear away the veil of mystery that still enshrouds the tragedy, remains to be seen. Certainly the manner in which she met death

Facts brought out by witnesses in the two days' session shows she was a happy, care-free girl of nineteen with a good character. In the household wh ?e she was employed were Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Baker and baby and a Chinese houseboy.

Friends of the girl testify Janet had said she was afraid of the Chinese boy who had said improper things to her when her work took her to the kitchen.

The boy, Wong Fung Sing, was sworn by the chicken oath, the only known binding oath for a Chinese, and he will probably be the witness when the case reopens. More than half the wit-WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 - A nesses called remain to be ex-
