RESERVATIONS FOR DUDE TRAP LINE ARE MADE

Jaded Businessmen and Journalists to Take to Woods Soon to See Wild Life

WINNIPEG, Nov. 13.—The lure of the "dude trap line" which Donald "Curley" Phillips well known guide and outfitter is operating this winter as a means of providing new thrills for "tired businessmen" who want to visit the great out of doors, is bringing hundreds of inquiries from wealthy Americans, according to a letter received today from Mr. Phillips by Canadian National officials here. Phillips' proposal has made such an appeal to a number of people that plans are being laid by some of them to spend one or two months on the trail with him this winter, in the foothills of the northern rockies. In some cases the visitors are coming to Canada to secure first hand knowledge of trapping and wild life conditions, in others writing of books and magazine articles is given as their reason and in still others, the main idea is to "loaf under unusual conditions."

The plan laid before winter holiday seekers is that of accompanying experienced trappers over from 100 to 150 miles of trap line where sets are made for, coyote, lynx, marten and other fur bearers and also during the season of hunting moose, deer, bear and other big game. Phillips' trap lines are just east of the border of Jasper National Park, in northern Alberta, where game is plentiful and where the visitor will find plenty of thrills as he makes the journey over trails of snowshoes or skiis and with dog teams.

Both men and women are included among those who have made advance reservations to be taken over the line which starts from Dalehurst, Alberta, and as this is considered by trappers to be the "peak year" for fur bearers on account of the seven year cycle of rabbit life, big catches and a plentiful supply of big game are anticipated.

Sport Chat

If the interest that seems apparent with regard to the opening games of the basketball season tomorrow night continues throughout this winter the activities between now and spring should be successful and profitable to those promoting them. There promises to be a record turnout Friday night. Whether or not the interest continues depends, of course, on the kind of performances that are put up. The various teams are said to be very evenly matched so, if all the players keep in practice and trim, it should be a keenly interesting season from start to finish.

The Sons of Canada and Elks are off to a good start in the Fraternal Whist League, each team having now three victories and no losses to its credit. Tonight they both meet cellar teams—Great War Veterans and St. Andrew's respectively. Should they happen to lose, the Oddfellows' would have a chance of getting into the leaders' column by winning over the Sons of England. The remaining two matches scheduled are Knights of Pythias vs. Moose and Loyal Orange Lodge vs. Knights of Columbus.

Jealousy seems to have arisen among the hunters of the city or else the incredible yarns of some of the more experienced and skilled of the mowich seekers must be true. The remarkable success that attended some of the novices over the Thanksgiving week-end is being variously explained. One of the old timers yesterday declared that the reason for it all was that the deer have been so thick just recently that it is necessary to kill them in self-defence and the amateurs could not help themselves. Asked for the reason of his own non-success, this same old timer came back with a reply that, believed or not, could hardly be rebutted with any success. It was to the effect that deer, while plentiful, had not lost their own sense of self-preservation and knew the skilled from the unskilled and, when it was necessary to run into someone, chose to take chances with the latter.

INDIANS SUMMONED FOR BEHEADING DEER

PENTICTON, Nov. 13. — Three Indians, who had been summoned to appear before the magistrate, were dismissed with a caution. They pleaded guilty to removing the heads from deer before transportation to the place of consumption. They explained that they did not understand the law, hence the leniency of the court.

ROLL CALL OF ELKS SUCCESS

Members Gathered at Dinner Last Night and Heard Addresses

The first annual roll call of the Elks Lodge here was held last evening in the home and proved a distinct success. Ben Self, Exalted Ruler of the lodge, presided and he was supported by the officers and guests a number of whom gave brief addresses.

The five course supper was served by members of the order in charge of L. M. Fuller and including Ben Self, Art Easson, Tom Watts, Harvey Fraser, Jack Cobb and W. Williams. The club orchestra provided the music and at the close the members responded liberally to a call for help for a family on Queen Charlotte Islands that had lost their home. A recitation was given by J. Pinder-Moss, much to the enjoyment of the members.

The roll was called by the secretary, W. E. Williscroft and the names of members who had gone to rest were answered by L. M. Fuller. Chairs for those members were set at a small table set apart from the others.

Dr. Grant Speaks

In his address Rev. H. R. Grant, chaplain, took for his theme the Law of the Jungle and the Law of the Neighborhood. He said the Elks were trying to bring about a condition where all would stand together as brothers, one helping the other. They wanted helpfulness of all towards all. It was just the opposite to the law of the jungle. This idea would spread to the larger spheres of life. It was as easy to spread heaven abroad as hell. If they went into the world in a spirit of goodwill and cultivated that attitude it would be an immense influence in the world. He did not think the League of Nations would bring peace but rather it would come about through each individual having good will toward the other.

The Doctor spoke of the pleasant relations existing between this country and the United States. War between the two countries would be unthinkable. Should either country be attacked he would expect to see the countries standing shoulder to shoulder against a common foe.

Consul Wakefield spoke of the need of such a gathering as that now and then when they could check up on their membership. The necessity of attending the meetings was emphasized if the club was to be a success. He told of what was being done in his home town of Augusta at his own Elks Lodge. Here he found the people able and willing to entertain themselves, an essential under conditions that obtained here. It was the very opposite to the law of the jungle of which Dr. Grant spoke.

M. L. Stepp spoke of the value of the Elks as an organization. Lodges were to be found in almost every part of the world. They stood for charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity. He gave graphic illustrations of the meaning of the order.

Dr. Carter of Hyder spoke of the gold diggings of Cassiar and H. F. Pullen mentioned the wonderful manner in which all the nationalities were being blended in one, partly through such organizations as this to make them good Canadians.

John Dybhavn answered some of the objections which had been taken to the city manager plan of civic government.

It being mentioned that one of the members, Alex Yule, was leaving for the south this week, musical honors was accorded him, the gathering closing with the national anthem.

R. L. Lewis, who is putting on a musical comedy here, told of his plans and mentioned the need of working together to make it a success.
