TAKES OVER OLD THEATRE

Rupert Table Supply Co. is Branching Out in Mail Order Business

The Rupert Table Supply has taken over the old Empress theatre building including both the theatre and the downstair store which is to be turned into a mail order department to enable the company to keep pace with the ever growing mail order business stated J. C. Gavigan this morning. The stage will be dismantled, the floor lowered in the theatre and an electric freight elevator will be installed. This work will be commenced upon early in the New Year probably about February 1. The upstair portion of the building will be used as a warehouse and the downstairs will be converted into a shipping department for out-of-town orders.

Mr. Gavigan has implicit faith in the future business prosperity of the town. This is reflected in his go ahead policy. Speaking of business conditions generally, Mr. Gavigan expresses the opinion that not only has his own business improved considerably in the past few years but that of the city generally has shown a steady and marked improvement in the past ten years. He claims that the local merchant has kept well abreast of the times and does business on a far higher plane than ever before.

The business of the Rupert Table Supply Company has grown from a very small beginning to one of large proportions. At the present time the payroll of the grocery and meat departments alone amounts to between $18,000 and $20,000 yearly, the company employing at present eighteen people, while in the Universal Trading store, the dry-goods end of the business, nine people are employed.

Mr. Gavigan is a strong believer in judicious advertising and it will be his future policy, as it has been in the past, to pursue an aggressive newspaper advertising campaign.

FEWER DEATHS THAN IN FORMER YEARS SAY INSURANCE RECORDS

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—Life insurance death claims for the first ten months of the current year reflect marked improvement in the health of the people of the United States during 1924, according to original statistics presented to the Eighteenth Annual Convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents here this morning, by Dr. Oscar H. Rogers, Chief Medical Director of the New York Life Insurance Company. Notwithstanding the normal average increase expected in population during 1924, the life insurance mortality records indicate that there will be 30,000 fewer deaths this year than during 1923, when the total deaths in the United States amounted to 1,360,000.

Automobile accidents and suicides are practically the only causes among adult deaths that show an increase in rate over 1923. Noteworthy reductions are recorded in influenza and typhoid fever. In typically children's diseases, an increased death rate is indicated in meningitis, diarrhea, enteritis, and scarlet fever, while there has been a substantial falling-off in measles, diptheria and whooping cough.
