Doings of the Mosquito Fleet which is the chief source of Prince Rupert's prosperity

he hustled off to find some coal hooks and some hangers, on which to place the "gear," said he "I'll take good care of them, of that you need not fear." And so the party upward went, as all hill climbers do, and to note the monkey antics would do credit to a zoo. At last the top was gained alright after many a grunt and puff when appetites were sharpened so they opened up the "stuff." After losing all their appetites, the sequel to the meal, they gazed at one another and asked "How do you feel?" So then the homeward journey was the next thing on the tape, and the way they made the canny, well, it was to make one gape. To get their coats and hats and things to Eckerman they went who, being such a busy man, was then on business bent. Alas! the joy was ended for the hikers and their host for the personal belongings had been mused up by a "ghost." There was not a single armhole or a pocket in a coat that had not been tied securely. Say, boy, if got their goal! The cause of all the trouble, which nearly made men sob, was afterwards discovered to have been a man named Bob.

Teddy Campbell has resigned from his position as "flapjack flipper" to the crew of the schooner Muirneag and has taken a position as assistant mechanical superintendent with the Booth Fisheries.

The American schooner Wabash, a four man boat, has recently been sold by her skipper, Capt. Winny Pierce, to his brother, Capt. Pierce is going south shortly to either purchase another schooner or have one built to his own specifications.

FOR SAIL

A holiday maker was highly amused at a signboard which read: "This farm for sail." Always ready for a little pleasure, he asked the farmer's wife when the farm was to sail. She stared at him steadily for a few moments, and then answered: "Just as soon as the man comes along who can raise the wind."—Yorkshire Post.

The transformation of the boats of the home halibut and trolling fleets is occupying the attention of boat owners and the machine shops along the waterfront in readiness for the closed halibut season, which comes into force next month. The Cow Bay floats are filled to capacity and there is a good deal of work going on aboard the boats. Several boats, previously engaged in salmon fishing, are already being overhauled and refitted with the object of flounder fishing, while others are preparing to fish for mud sharks and dog fish which will find a market for oil production purposes. Already some boats of the home deep sea fleet have tied up and their skippers and crews are on holiday bent, many going to their old homes in eastern Canada — the usual custom at this time of the year.

"Doc" Clapperton Returns

All is O.K. with the waterfront now that Doc Clapperton has again returned to the fold after spending a two weeks holiday at Ootsa Lake and Prince George. Doc was visiting his married son Jack at the latter interior town for a while. At Ootsa Lake Doc met his old friend Chief "Skin Tyee" who has a pretentious home at Three Mile Lake, and who is one of the best known natives in the interior country. The chief and Doc smoked the pipe of peace together and recounted the days when "Doc" Clapperton, mistaken for the chief for a real medical man, prescribed a diabolical bottle of medicine to cure his imaginary illness. Speaking of the trip Doc remarked that the weather at Prince George was the "worst yet." The town was visited by a thunderstorm during his stay, which, for intensity of rain, put the Prince Rupert showers in the shade. According to the traveller the Ootsa Lake district is the scene of much activity in fox and mink farming. The fur farms visited included those owned by Harry Morgan, A. Bennett, and Bill Moore. While at Wistaria he visited the ranch of Billy Kerr, a former customs officer on the water front who is now busily engaged in rearing pigs, cattle, poultry, and bear dogs.

Mrs. Bla Murray, wife of Bla Murray the "international" goal keeper for the Gallies football team, arrived in the city on Wednesday night from Musselburgh near Edinburgh, Scotland, to join her popular husband.

A flounder tried to sell some bait To a crab, which fixed next door. But the bait was high, too high in price At which the crab got sore.

They argued price all through the day And well into the night. The crab said: "You're a baited shark," Which started up the fight.

The flounder called a sockeye fish To help him in the fray. While the crab called on a dog-fish too, Which chanced to pass that way.

And so the fight waxed thick and hot, It is a dreadful tale, They're scrapping yet about the bait In the inside of a whale.

Capt. Jack Christensen, owner and skipper of the Canadian schooner Margaloe, has tied up the little old boat and leaves tonight on a visit to California and later will proceed to Denmark on a visit to his old home.

Earle Haines, who has been fishing on the Canadian schooner Ringleader for the past season, is leaving on tonight's eastbound train on a visit to his home at Freeport, Nova Scotia.

Fish Business

From Monday to Friday 524,000 pounds of halibut has been marketed on the Fish Exchange. Canadians were high at 14.7c and 8.5c and low at 12.1c and 6c. Americans were high at 16.5c and 8c and low at 12.9c and 6c. Arrivals were: American—Seattle, Daley, Reliance, Wabash, Venus, Norma, J. P. Todd, Eastern Point, Bravo, Harding, Neptune, President, Lituya, Nomad, Fairway, Washington, Resolute, Democrat, Adeline and Sadie K. Canadian—Kaiken, Tramp, Fannie F. Volunteer, Mab, Minnie V., Annie May, New England, Ingrid H., Ethel June, Nuba, P. Doreen, Ringleader, Nautilus, Cape Spear, Hanaco, W. & F., Livingstone, Rose Spit, Caygeon, Tillie S., Alliance, Brandt, Hippo, Thelma H., and D.S.T.

Mrs. Bla Murray, wife of Bla Murray the "international" goal keeper for the Gallies football team, arrived in the city on Wednesday night from Musselburgh near Edinburgh, Scotland, to join her popular husband.

High Powered Boats

As the result of a remunerative fishing season several natives of the Naas river district have had high power automobile engines installed in their boats on the waterfront, some of which have been equipped with electric starters. These highly powered engines will drive boats up the river against the strong current which is impossible with heavy duty and ordinary types of gas engines. The advent of the "Naas River," the 200 horse power river boat recently built by John Derby for transportation purposes on the Naas has evidently taught the natives something.

After a prolonged absence Capt. Sorensen, skipper and owner of the power boat Jennie who has been on the trolling grounds in Hecate Straits and around Dundas Island, blew into port early in the week. Cap is undecided as yet as his future movements.

Norman Moorehouse, assistant to the president of the Ray Love electrical works, has been confined to his home during the week suffering with a severe chill. The boys hope it wasn't an attack of cold feet, however.

Capt. King, who is logging in the vicinity of Silver Creek, has some 150,000 feet of logs in the water ready for booming.

Peculiar Accident

E. Larsen, a member of the crew of the Canadian schooner Ingrid H., Capt. G. Lindquist, is confined to the house suffering with his eyes as the result of an accident which took place aboard the boat on Tuesday. The boys were all cleaning down, preparatory to going up town, when Mr. Larsen called for the hose. One of the boys threw the hose to him when the water, at high pressure, inadvertently struck him across the eyes. As a result his eyes became inflamed and it was necessary for him to seek medical attention.

Charlie Starr is deeply auspicious that his partner in crime, Bill Nelson, told the Daily News the story of how he put his boat aground in Cow Bay without taking the precaution to consider the tide-table as to when he might be able to get it off. In any case, Charlie is authority for the following about Bill:

It appears that these two doughty mowitch butchers went forward together last week-end on an expedition. For long weary hours, Charlie stalked the shore lines seeking with more or less success to sneak up on something. Of course, he thought Bill was doing the same. Anyway, as he wended his way along, the sound of a deep reverberant droning struck his ears. Snaking up warily, he thought to surprise some denizen of the wild enjoying an afternoon siesta. Edging upon the opposite side of an aged spruce tree, he stuck his head around the corner and who did he see but Bill—snoring sonorously and undoubtedly dreaming of some happy hunting grounds where the goose is blind and earless. Bill hadn't any game but he sure had a good time and the moral is: Take your slumbers on a hunting trip if you can't get sleep at home.
