ROYAL PULPWOOD COMMISSION IS HEARING EVIDENCE TODAY MOSTLY AGAINST LOG EMBARGO.

but fair to admit that the provincial authorities in the matter of fire protection had put forth every reasonable effort to combat the menace. While the government's efforts had in a large measure met with success, it was necessary that all citizens should follow up the suggestions for caution and do everything in their power to safeguard the forests.

S. J. McLeod, president of the Board of Trade, spoke briefly and introduced Olof Hanson, vice-president of the Northern B.C. Timbermen's Association.

Olof Hanson

Mr. Hanson expressed his belief that the north had not yet reached that state of development where it could manufacture its own timber resources. He thought that the district was amply taken care of by the present provincial regulations. The timber in the district was to a large extent overmatured and should have been logged off years ago. The longer this condition continued, the more detrimental it would be to the timber industry. It was necessary that a market be found for this timber and he was opposed to an embargo that would cut off foreign countries as long as the country was not in a position to manufacture itself. Answering a question from Mr. Anstie with respect to the possibility of an embargo being placed on squares, Mr. Hanson said that the Oriental market for squares had been practically the only market this district had last year and the industry would be opposed to such an embargo.

Questioned as to conservation, Mr. Hanson said that the forestry department was improving year by year in this service though it might not have reached the highest standard of efficiency yet. Certain parts of the province might be willing to pay more for protection but others were already paying too much he thought.

R. E. Allen

R. E. Allen gave evidence along the same lines as Mr. Hanson. It was necessary that a market should be found for the overmatured timber in the district. If it was not to be a loss it would have to be disposed of very soon. An embargo would undoubtedly handicap the timber industry in this district. It would not, he thought, have the effect of opening new mills any sooner. Development would come, in his opinion, more quickly through advertising the resources of the district by exporting. Mr. Allen was also opposed to an embargo on squares and said in this connection that squares were a fully manufactured and graded product anyway. Mr. Allen also said there had been a great improvement in the matter of fire protection in the past ten years.

G. W. Nickerson presented to the commission a memorandum from the Prince Rupert Board of Trade on the class of material in the district. An embargo he felt would be a mistake for this country. He expressed satisfaction at the present system of the provincial government in granting export privileges. He doubted if an embargo would have the effect of opening up more mills in the district. Mr. Nickerson then indulged in a discussion at some length with members of the commission on the point of circumstances attending the establishment of mills here as compared with the United States. Mr. Nickerson suggested that export regulations might be made even more liberal by allowing more recent holders of timber lands to export as well as the holders of longer standing.

M. P. McCaffery

M. P. McCaffery could not see how anyone with common sense could favor an embargo in this district at this time. The matter of establishing a paper industry here might be further followed up by the government. It offered a good proposition. He could not see how an embargo would hasten the establishment of mills here.

Before the commission adjourned at the noon hour, Olof Hanson pointed out that from 20 to 30 per cent of the timber standing in the district was balsam which was of no use for anything else but pulp. Besides from 20 to 30 per cent of the timber generally was overmatured and small and no good for anything else but pulp. It should be manufactured into pulp and paper here or exported for that purpose.

He would say that perhaps 75 per cent of the timber stand of Northern B.C. was good for pulp and pulp alone. If there was no market for it, the industry, the province and the people would be the sufferers. Under these circumstances he felt that an embargo would indeed be ill advised.

Visiting Mill

On the conclusion of this afternoon's session, the commission will pay a visit to the site of the present sawmill and proposed pulp mill at Seal Cove.

Provincial Constable Harry Martin sailed last night on the Prince Rupert for Stewart. He will be back tomorrow morning with a prisoner who has been committed for trial.
