ful trial trips, left for the northern fishing grounds early in the week on her maiden voyage. The boat is skippered by Pete while Ted is taking the position of first mate.

Unlucky Thirteen

That thirteen is an unlucky number was forcibly brought home to skipper L. C. Eby on Sunday last during the return trip of his launch from Tugwell. It so happened that there were thirteen passengers in the boat but even at that the outgoing trip was one of considerable joy to the skipper and his freight of joy riders, and the thirteen "hoodoo" was cast overboard. However, on the return trip when the engine began to cough like a giraffe swallowing a roll of sandpaper, several of the lady passengers resurrected the hoodoo. With heavy fog to contend with in addition to a thankless engine skipper Eby had as much trouble on hand as a woman with umpteen children and a wooden leg. To get to the point without sitting on it, the engine stopped and the launch lulled listlessly in a muddy atmosphere. At the psychological moment Bill Wrathall picked up the S.O.S. and soon had the Eby craft in tow. The going becoming a little irksome for Bill, the launch Lois M. skippered by Alex. McRae, was signalled and obliged by hooking the "umph" boat on the stern. Soon all was landed at the club floats.

Do not think for a moment dear reader, that Skipper Eby was the only one to have trouble. Even the president of a yacht club has his worries. After doing heroic work in lining up the parade all dressed up in iceberg pants on Sunday last president R. E. Benson had the misfortune to break the vital part of his pump, which caused him and his party a good deal of delay. It looked at one time as though the picnic would have to be called off in recognition of the president's absence. However, just as the coffee was getting cold the Poinsettia was sighted on the horizon and a sigh of thankfulness was sighed by the picnickers

Yes sir, and in addition to all this the Viola S., skippered by Ben Self, started wandering far from home on the return trip. The fog was a serious drawback even to a skillful skipper like Ben. Although he tried to blow a hole into the fog from the bow of the boat, the idea was not a success. After going around in circles until the crew threatened to quit owing to severe headaches the skipper picked up the coast and eventually reached home.

The Canadian schooner Imperieuse, after having been tied up for some considerable time, left port for the high spots on Tuesday morning with Capt. Ted Heinz at the gadgits.

Alex. Wylie, the famous Seal Cove boat builder, is building a halibut boat on his own ways.

A wonderful improvement is noted around the Yacht premises. In addition to a new board sidewalk from the roadway to the floats the club house, caretaker's apartments and the floats are brilliantly lighted by electric lights. The electric lights on the dolphins are of the shaded variety and permit of launches entering their berths at night without being blinded by the electric rays. This is a much needed improfement for which the members are duly thankful.

Capt. Geo. White, who has been on the retired list for some time past, has been trying his hand once again at fish luring in the vicinity of Dundas Island aboard the power boat Sygn. The expedition did not, however, come up to expectations in spite of the stories of boats being nearly sunk by the weight of the catch George says that no sooner did he put in an appearance around the island than the fish took to the bush.

Two scow loads of coal comprising 1,000 tons arrived on Monday in tow of the tug R.J.M. from Nanaimo for the Albert-McCaffery interests.

The schooner Iris, skippered by "Red" Cameron, left port on Thursday for the trolling grounds.

Capt. Geo. Newcomb left port early in the week with the launch Dixie Rupert having on board a party of businessmen for southern points.

Wonderful Improvement

One of the most startling improvements made on the waterfront in recent years has been engineered by Ray Love, the electrical wizard. The improvement has taken the form of a coat of glossy rouge-red paint plastered on both the inside and the outside of the emporium window. We shudder to think what would happen to Ray if a live bull chanced to pass that way. So vivid is the red that frequent passers by are wearing smoked goggles. It is said that painting the interior of the window in red will save a lot of money in fuel during the coming winter, the reflection giving such a cosy, warm look to the store.
