Prospects in the Interior Better Than Ever Before

F. G. Dawson says crops look excellent, lumber business very active, and everybody happy

The farmers of the northern interior of British Columbia have the best crop prospects they have had in years, states F. G. Dawson, who has just returned from a survey of the whole interior west of Hazeiton and as far as McBride. The crops have had plenty of moisture and look splendid, the lumber business is humming and there is a general feeling of optimism among the farmers and others in regard to the future.

Next year they say they will plant a good deal of wheat for shipment to the Prince Rupert elevator. With no assured market it had been impossible in the
