One cannot burn the candle at both ends

You wouldn't light a candle at both ends and expect it to last very long. And you can't attend your many duties as wife and mother, then pile on wash-day labor, and expect to keep yourself fresh and vigorous. Why not let us take care of wash-day toil and trouble? One of our many services will fit exactly both your needs and your purse. And you can "keep the home fires burning" without burning the candle at both ends.

Sky Pilot Tells of Visit to Fort William, Duluth, Chicago and States South to Florida

(Interesting Account of Trip and Impressions With a Few Lessons for Prince Rupert, by H. R. Grant, D.D., Pastor of the Presbyterian Church Here, Who is on Holiday)

There is no need that I dwell on my trip up to the time I reached Winnipeg. Suffice it to say there was a genial crowd aboard and the usual conversation—stories, incidents, politics, religion, etc.—made the time pass pleasantly.

In passing, may I say the country looked well and all indications were and are for a bumper crop. At Winnipeg, where I spent a day I met Mr. and Mrs. Walton, Mr. and Mrs. Tate, and Mrs. Midforth, who were former Prince Rupert citizens. I also met several friends of other days and other places. Professor Kerr, my predecessor in Prince Rupert, was out of town.

My next stop was at Fort William and I think a little about the twin cities—for Port Arthur and Fort William are virtually one—would be interesting to Prince Rupert people.

Fort William was an important point in the fur trading days. Situated at the head of Lake Superior it was the place of departure for Quebec of the canoes and bateaux laden with furs, gathered at Fort William from the west as far as Edmonton and north to the Arctic. A look at the map will show the network of rivers all through the west that converge toward Fort William.

When the C.P.R. built in the 80's they followed these same water courses through the then territory of Kwatin, and made Fort William a divisional point. When I saw it over 30 years ago it was only a hamlet and today the combined population of the two cities—Fort William and Port Arthur—is 45,000. On inquiry I find that the resources that support these towns are very much the same as our own. The difference is that here they are developed while ours are to a large extent latent. We are just beginning the shipment of grain while here it is quite the most important industry in the two towns. They have a combined elevator capacity of 61,000,000 bushels with 36 terminal elevators.

Pulp and Paper
Their next best industry is pulp and paper making. I would say that our latent resources in pulpwood far exceeds theirs. They drive their wood many miles on the smaller and larger streams to the mills. The timber does not exceed 10" in diameter and is 4 ft. in length. I think I am right when I say the heat wave of my trip and from then on for nine days a record was made all through the middle west, the south and the east. People suffered terribly in the large cities, and before it was over it accounted for 500 deaths. At Washington the temperature was 107 degrees in the shade, and an egg was fried on the pavement in nine minutes. A pair sitting beside a barn focused the sun's rays so that the barn caught fire. At Chicago it was 90 degrees when I passed through.

Fog three days I suffered the tortures that one recalls regarding the 'doom' of the damned. The men on the train shed everything down to undershirts. Of course the women had reached the legal limit before the heat began, and had to suffer and be silent. This is one of the advantages at least that men have over women.

South From Chicago

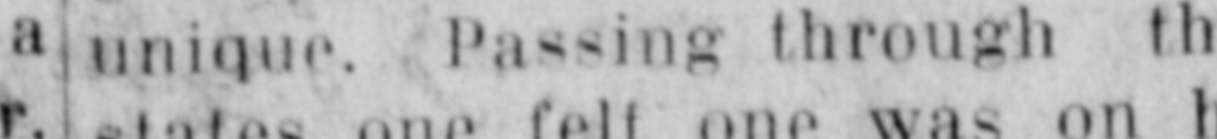

Going south from Chicago we passed through Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Georgia. Indiana and Northern Kentucky is a splendid farming country. The steadings are well built and painted, and the fields pasture as nice a grade of livestock as one could see anywhere. Southern Kentucky and the other two states are rough, and the fields small and hungry looking. The houses are but shacks, and the country has a run down look. Our train passed through innumerable tunnels in Tennessee. It is the roughest state of the lot. The fields lie like little patches on the hillsides or in the narrow valleys. A great deal of coal is mined here. The train had 15 cars on and was drawn by two engines. We made over 40 miles an hour. Georgia was a little more level, but the farming even here was of a very meagre character. The crops looked very thin and it all had an air of extreme poverty. The soil in Georgia varies in color from a deep red clay to a pale yellow, and with the green woods as a background the effect was decidedly unique. Passing through these states one felt one was on historic ground. The old south with its gallant gentlemen and fair ladies has passed and one wonders if it is for the best. The battles of the civil war were many of them fought here, and one could not help feeling the presence of gallant dead who fell in that titanic struggle.

Carving in Rock

About 14 miles from Atlanta, a rock rises to the height of 800 feet. It is a fine granite. Its face is as smooth as a slate. They are at the present moment carving out of the face, in heroic figures, a replica of the surrender of Lee. One gains some knowledge of the size of the group when one is informed that Lee's head is 28 feet from chin to top, and the brim of his hat extends out 4 1/2 feet from his head. The federal government has mined $5,000,000 worth of special 50c pieces and these are sold for $1.00 at the banks. The surplus goes to complete the statutory. Yes, the old south has passed, but the gallantry remains for they are the politest people I ever met.

ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT

Big Order Given Canadian General Electric by City Council Last Night

The city council, at a special meeting last night, accepted the tender of the Canadian General Electric Co. of $18,490 for transformer and switching equipment to be used in making the power line extension to the elevator and also for the increasing of the output that may be handled from the dry dock. The latter provision will give the city the substantial auxiliary supply of 1,000 kilowatts from the dry dock as against the 450 kilowatts that may now be handled. It will take four months to deliver the equipment and in the meantime the pole line will be completed so that installation may proceed once the equipment arrives. The extensions were provided for in a money bylaw passed at the January election. The estimate of the utilities department for the equipment was $18,078 whereas the price of the Canadian General Electric Co. was $18,490.

Other tenderers were: Westinghouse, $21,200. Scott-Foster Co., $24,700. Bartholomew & Montgomery, $25,265.

The Moloney Electric Co. of Toronto and the Northern Electric Co. figured only on transformers.

Misses Mercer, Rothwell and Weatherhead of the public schools staff leave tomorrow for the south en route to Bonotou where they will spend the holidays.

"For all washing and cleaning you can't beat this soap -" says Mrs. Experience, who chooses soap for its economy and labour-saving value.

"Sunlight puts the sunshine of cleanliness into the home! For washing clothes, dishes, wood-work, linoleums, in fact, for anything that can be cleaned with soap and water—I call on Sunlight. And Sunlight does its work so well and leaves everything sweet and clean.

"Sunlight really is economical, too! You see, every bit of it is pure, cleansing soap, containing no filling or hardening materials, which are only waste as far as we women are concerned.

"You get greater cleaning value out of a pure laundry soap—and so I say, 'Always keep a good supply of Sunlight on hand'. It really improves with age. And because of its purity, Sunlight is kind to your hands and keeps them smooth and comfortable." Sunlight is made by Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto.
