CHURCH UNION IN THIS CITY

Matter Being Discussed a Great Deal by Those Who Attend Places of Worship

PECULIAR SITUATION

An interesting situation may possibly arise in connection with the vote on Church Union being taken here. Those who vote on the question of union are those whose names were on the roll at the time the law uniting the churches was passed last summer. The number on the roll here is about one hundred of whom somewhere about seventy-five or eighty may be available to vote.

The church property is held by trustees for the congregation made up of those on the roll and all others who attend the services, numbering in all three or four hundred persons. Each of these has a right to vote in connection with the disposal of the property or the appointment of trustees. The election takes place at the time of the annual congregational meeting.

Might be Difference

It is possible for such a condition to arise as that the members of the church, whose names are on the roll shall vote against union whereas the congregation as a whole might be in favor of it and dispose of the property accordingly.

It is pointed out that it is hardly likely those on the roll would want to dictate to the whole congregation, especially in view of the fact that much of the income of the church comes from those on the outside and that the building was erected very largely from subscriptions of theirs.

The question is one to be handled with a great deal of tact in order that there may be no split in the congregation and consequent weakening of the church and of its usefulness in the community.

Methodists in Union

The Methodist Church here, it is understood will join the union without taking a vote. They are already in the union unless they vote themselves out. Many of those who attend the Presbyterian Church are not really Presbyterians but go there very largely because they admire the present incumbent and like his preaching. What will happen in case the Church stands out against the popular movement of the day does not seem clear. The general hope seems to be that there will be no clash of opinion but that the work of the church will continue as in the past, whether under union or the old Presbyterian banner.

Those favoring union point out that the movement is general throughout Canada and the majority of those coming here in the new influx will belong to the United Church of Canada. They will either influence the old church in favor of the union or they will join the Union Church here when they arrive.

Presbyterians Strong

The old guard who stand pat for Presbyterianism speak rather lightly of Church Union Bill and its possibilities and seem to think that Presbyterianism will continue strong here and throughout Canada, even though the figures published in connection with the vote do not indicate so.

STEWART

R. E. Hill, engineer in charge of development work on the Lakeview property, arrived last week from the south with a compressor plant and semi-diesel engine which is now being moved to the mine.

The Woodbine group, adjoining the Premier, has been bonded by Hugh B. McGuire, head of the Premier Extension Co. A fine camp has been built and it is hoped to have the property shipped by next season.

The Sunshine group, at the head of Glacier Creek, has been bonded from A. E. Young and Godfrey Anderson by Harry Howson and a substantial cash payment was made. Mr. Howson has not yet divulged his plans with respect to the property.

Bill Filler broke his arm just above the wrist when he fell down a flight of stairs in the Stewart Hotel last week.

J. P. Hawkinson, proprietor of the Silver Grill, is on a business trip to Vancouver.

PUSSY'S ADVANTAGE

The teacher was giving a lesson on animals and she laid stress on the fact that the cat can see in the dark. To drive this home she put the question: "Now, what can the cat do that I cannot do?" One bright little girl, answered: "Please, miss, waggle its tail."

PRINCE SEEMS LIKELY TO BE A SINGLE MAN

Has so Far Resisted all Attempts at Matchmaking and Marriage not Likely

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Even those people who spoke with forbearance of the matrimonial shyness of the Prince of Wales are now getting uneasy with the announcement that the royal heir will prolong his visit in South Africa next year to include a trip to the Argentine. This can only mean to these Englishmen that another year will be added to the interval until the prince announces he has picked out a girl to be the future queen.

Postponement

And Englishmen have listened to the same tale of postponement for the last five years. Whenever the Prince of Wales remains in London for a long period, the busybodies, working mostly through the newspapers, get up a series of stories intimating that a certain interesting announcement on royal nuptial paper will be forthcoming from Buckingham Palace, and even speculating who the girl is. Such great expectations have never been given a chance to materialize, for the prince has stepped out of the country on a trip to his future domains just in time and the ladies in question have, in most cases, married before his return home.

Now there are not so many eligible for speculation. The Ladies Mary and Rachel Cavendish, Lady Mary Gordon-Lennox and Lady Mary Cambridge, who were all freely discussed as prospective mates for the Prince of Wales, have married. In fact the list of English girls of suitable age is becoming distressingly narrowed, and as most Englishmen have made up their minds that David Edward is not going outside his father's realm for a bride, the prince will probably have to choose his bride from a younger generation.

No Girl Honored

So interested have the public become in this chapter of his life, His Royal Highness can hardly attend house parties or dances without a resounding echo connecting his name with some debutante being heard immediately throughout Mayfair, then down to Southwick and Clapham. Since returning from his last trip the prince has successfully counteracted this gossip by not appearing at dances and house parties. At the present time there is no girl being honored as the prospective Princess of Wales.

There are many people in London now who whisper that the announcement of the engagement of the Prince of Wales will never come and that he is going to be that strange complex, a bachelor king. Some who profess to know even say the prince has often stated he does not want to marry. So far as the outward circumstances show, the betting is on their side.

NEW FEATURE IN RADIO BROADCAST

Arthur Meighan Will be Among Speakers at New York Banquet

MONTREAL, Jan. 28.—The first international tie-in radio broadcast ever attempted will be tried out Wednesday night when CNRC, the Ottawa broadcasting station of the Canadian National Railways will tie-in with stations in six cities in the United States for the broadcasting of a program from New York. All the stations will be tied-in by means of long distance telephone communication, the voice being amplified and re-broadcasted from all the seven stations.

In addition to CNRC, stations taking part in the first international tie-in broadcast are WFAF New York; WFI Philadelphia; WCAE Pittsburgh; WJAR Providence; WGR Buffalo and WEEI Boston. The program to be broadcast will be that featured at a banquet of Metropolitan Insurance Company officials at the Waldorf Astoria in New York. The speakers at this banquet will include His Honor Governor Silzer, of New Jersey and the Right Hon. Arthur

Is your wife wiser than you?

IF YOU read only the stock and sporting pages, and your wife is like other women, she is wiser than you. She reads the shopping news.

She likes to hear you jingle money in your pockets. She likes to stretch money to the limit, so she won't have to ask for more. She likes to shop strategically. Know what she does.

Comfortably at home in a cushiony arm-chair, she scans advertising columns. She compares, judges and selects the goods she desires; maps her route; with least effort and minimum time, goes direct to the planned store and buys.

She obtains what she wants at the lowest price it is offered. She is certain of full satisfaction, for she knows advertised goods live up to their claims. She saves time and steps, and returns sufficiently alert to enjoy new advertisements--and to prepare you an appetizing dinner.

These advertisements are written for your benefit too. Read them. Help her help you save.

Buying advertised products is a bond investment---not a stock speculation

HOME HUMOR

Hub—Where've you been, dear?

Wife—Over at Maud Oldum's, making up her face for the party tonight.

Hub—Ah! Renewing an old acquaintance, so to speak.

LEGAL

"Who are those gentlemen with books under their arms?"

"They're taking up the law."

"And what's the old gentleman in a gown at the back of that bench doing?"

"Oh, he's laying it down."
