

Women often ask me — says Mrs. Experience — how I get my table linen so immaculate"

"I take it as a real compliment, because most women do try to excel in their table linen.

"Of course, I tell them the way I've found easiest and best is with Sunlight—just rubbing the linen lightly with Sunlight, rolling it up and putting it to soak. After soaking, perhaps a light rubbing here and there may be called for, then just rinse, and the linen is spotlessly clean. Fine linens should be protected and never come into contact with anything but the purest soap.

"As a household soap there is nothing better or more economical than Sunlight. Every particle is pure soap, with no wasteful 'filler'. Sunlight is mild and easy on the hands, too." Lever Brothers Limited of Toronto, make it.

B.C. FINANCES ARE DISCUSSED

Hon. J. D. MacLean Tells of Expenditures of Province in Education and Other Directions

VICTORIA, June 12.—Provincial finances formed the subject of an interesting address by Hon. J. D. MacLean before the Liberal Women's Forum, the Minister explaining some of the factors contributing to the increase in Provincial expenditures and the consequent increase in taxation in the past ten years.

At no time in the history of British Columbia had the people taken so great an interest in taxation and expenditures than the present, said Dr. MacLean. This interest was created by the prevailing high rate of taxation and by the encroachment of the Dominion field of taxation upon that of the Provincial field, particularly in income tax.

Answering the frequent complaint of high taxation, the Minister pointed out that British Columbia had not fully recovered from the boom days and its orgy of spending for local improvements and this Province, in common with the rest of Canada, was also suffering through the monetary obligations incurred by the war, debts of honor which must be paid. Taxation was a concomitant of civilization. Education, police protection, roads, health departments, hospitals and the various forms of social service all must be paid for by the people.

Heavy Expenditures

Quoting figures to explain the increase in expenditure by the Provincial government in the past ten years, the Minister touched upon the heavy expenditures incurred in making roads and bridges adequate to the necessities of heavy motor traffic, as compared with the roads required ten years ago for horse traffic; the P.G.E. railway begun by the Government's political predecessors, was a heavy drain, costing $2,500,000 yearly.

The University of British Columbia, which the Minister considered essential to the life of the Province, was another source of heavy expenditure. When the present Government took over the reins of office, it had already been established with a staff of professors under contract, but with no provision made for buildings or maintenance. But the contracts with the professors meant that the Government had to go on with it.

Dr. MacLean pointed out that the University was not merely of value for its teachings, but because of its research work. To date, as a result of the University's experiments along the lines of fertilizers and seeds, crops to an annual value of $567,000 had been raised.

Social Service Costs

The boom with its heavy expenditures by the municipalities in local improvements, paved streets and boulevards, had left these municipalities heavily in debt, and in many cases in danger of defaulting. Because defaulting of the municipalities impaired the credit of the Province, the Government had to come to the rescue, and was today paying $1,000,000 annually to help the municipalities. Social legislation, mothers' pensions and similar enactments, although praiseworthy, today cost $720,000 a year, whereas ten years ago all the social service work cost only $58,000.

Cheaper than Dole

New institutions, such as Tranquille Sanatorium, the Home for Incurables, schools for the blind, deaf and dumb, all cost heavily. The increase in population also was reflected in increased schools, education alone costing $1,000,000 more yearly today than ten years ago.

The expenses incurred in land and soldier settlement schemes were also reviewed, the Minister observing, in connection with the money expended in the establishment of industries, that it was infinitely better to spend money in productive industries than in some such system as the dole.

In conclusion he appealed to the women to make a close study of the financial questions of Dominion, provincial and municipal governments.

Mrs. Stuart Henderson presided at the meeting and Miss Dorothy Greenwood delighted the gathering with solos.
