Greeting to the PM

TOMORROW Prince Rupert will welcome its distinguished visitor, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

Because of a full itinerary his visit must be a short one, but we appreciate nonetheless the interest he is showing in coming north and taking a look at this thriving part of the province.

There is no point in reminding the Prime Minister that among northern B.C.'s better known products are the outstanding Liberals it has given to Canadian politics. He will be aware of the territory's record in this respect.

What we would point out is that this country up here is making increasing contributions to the economy of Canada. No doubt the Prime Minister is aware of this also, but he may not be fully cognizant of the handicaps under which it is being done.

Although existing transportation services are performing to their lasting credit in providing the life stream for our development, Prince Rupert and district are still much too isolated from the rest of the country. Principally, we need more and better highways and we need an airport.

During his trip Mr. St. Laurent will not have an opportunity to study this matter in detail, but we hope he returns to Ottawa with a clear impression of northern B.C.'s increasingly important place in the Canadian economy and its need to be more closely knit into that economy.

It is not our wish, however, to have our hand out to the Prime Minister except in welcome. He is unquestionably one of the finest leaders that any country has today. He has a rare combination of humanity, intellect, courage and vision and, as one of our brothers of the French tongue, has an invaluable part in fusing together the country's two great national elements.

We extend to him our warmest greetings.

National Employment Service figures tell a story of rising employment sparked by commercial and industrial expansion. The number of registered jobless in the island is 1660, or 500 less than at the same time last year.

Ideal summer weather and a broad scale program of major construction have contributed to what is almost certain to be a record industrial year.

One thing which could upset the trend would be an eruption of the contract battle between the Sydney local of the United Steel Workers of America and the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, operators of the giant Sydney plants.

Flying Saucers Real?

(This is the third in a special series of articles.)

LOS ANGELES. - The man who knows more about the mystery of the flying saucers than anybody else able and willing to tell is Gerald Heard, British scientist and philosopher now living in Hollywood. Many of us in Canada remember Heard away back about 20 years when he was a regular broadcaster over the BBC on scientific subjects. He came to America in the early thirties to take the chair of historica anthropology at Duke University, but soon came on to California. He has written a long list of books, including "Is God In History?" and "Pain, Sex and Slated to retire on June 30. 1953, Rev. George A. Little, editor of Sunday-school publications, will make his final report to general council at the forthcoming session. The committee on vacancies has nominated Rev Peter Gordon White, now an assistant editor in the department, to succeed Rev. George A. Little Mr. White was formerly field secretary for the board of Christian education.

Also slated for retirement, on June 30, 1954, is Rev. Archer Wallace, associate editor of Sunday-school publications, and author of many boys' books. The name of Rev. Wilbur K. Howard the board of Christian education in the Manitoba conference, has been suggested by the vacancies committee.
