

Wedding of Local Interest Takes Place in Vancouver

Church Cathedral in Vancouver was the scene for a lovely double-ring ceremony when the Reverend Dean Cecil Swanson united in marriage Lorna Jean Donaldson and Lionel Melford.

Lorna is the daughter of Mr. Stewart Donaldson of Rupert while the son of Mr. Harry Burns Lake. Lorna was the bride and the groom was the bride's brother, Mr. William Loudon of Vancouver. Lorna was dressed in a lovely gown of white lace and carried a bouquet of white gladioli. The groom was dressed in a tuxedo and carried a sword.

Owens-Haughland Vow Nuptials in Terrace Church

A lovely wedding was solemnized in Knox United Church at Terrace when Irene Agnes (Honey) Haughland, daughter of H.M.R. and Mrs. Emil Haughland, became the bride of Andrew (Andy) Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Owens of Prince Rupert.

The ceremony took place before the flower-decked altar with Rev. A. C. Dukelow officiating. The bride, given away by her father, wore a gown of white satin and lace, her shoulder veil hanging gracefully from a halo headdress. She wore a strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

Bridesmaids were Pearl Haughland, sister of the bride, who was dressed in a lovely gown of figured blue nylon, and Miss Doreen Mutrie of Vernon, whose gown was of yellow nylon. Junior bridesmaid was little Judy Kerby who was daintily attired in a floor-length dress of pink with a pink veil hanging from her blond curls.

Ray Judd was best man and George Haughland and David Owens were ushers. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Odd-fellows Hall where Mrs. Haughland, in a gown of figured green nylon with hat to match, and Mrs. Owens, in a dress of blue with matching accessories, received the guests.

Among toasts proposed at the reception was one by Mr. Owens, Sr., to Mr. and Mrs. Emil Haughland who were celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary on the same day. The newly-weds are spending a honeymoon at Lakelse Lake after which they will take up residence here.

Men Return From Training Eastern Navy Station

With the exception of Marian Hopkins, members of the detachment at HMCS Chatham have returned to the city after a two-week training at HMCS Cornwallis.

Mr. J. E. Davey, a teacher at Central High School, is home this week-end. He was told of having "come home" at the east- as well as learning the navy.

With the return of the detachment, the new training season, several new entries and new equipment, it promises to be a boom year. The detachment shop has been diesel and the division to get an engineer lieutenant to take charge of it and over tools.

Bancroft and Leading Petty Officer Jones are deep in the intricacies of a new transmitter—one of the most powerful on the coast. It promises well for bud-communicators. With personnel back from the detachment, the detachment at Chatham.

Inexpensive Furs Mark Fall Fashions

By MURIEL NARAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Fall fashion shows in London and Paris have turned the winter spotlight on fur. Not mink and sable; but common mole, natural fox, brushed beaver, lamb and seal-skin. Throughout the world, it seems, the best customers are the working millions. So for myriads of women in London, Paris, Rome and Frankfurt, the winter fur trimmings are those that do not boost the price of garments out of reach of a moderate bankroll.

Pierre Balmain of Paris and Hardy Amies of London show the glamor effected by cheaper furs.

Mink, chinchilla, sable and lynx are used in both cities, but none achieve the unanimous popularity of mole and sealskin and the slightly more expensive Persian and Indian lamb.

Top designers in both countries use these furs for linings, collars, cuffs, peplums, hats and trimmings. Hardy Amies, designer to the Queen, lines a black corded velvet swaggar with black moleskin. Balmain lines a big-sleeved, loose grey tweed coat with yellow lamb, and Peter Russell uses moleskin linings to tone with materials.
