

Full Steam Ahead

Business has picked up a great deal along the waterfront since the beginning of the month and the familiar order from the bridge "full steam ahead" is being adopted as a slogan. There is a flame of optimism abroad as to the future business outlook and one that the gourmets will never quench with their puny stream of pessimism. The shipyards are all busy as also are the marine equipment stores and Rose, Geo. Bryant; and the good ship Foreeps, Dr. E. S. Tait. Boats undergoing a pre-season overhauls include the Gwen, Harry Pullen; Dolphin, Jack MacAulay, Mary R., Billy Reid; while the marine equipment stores and Rose, being powered with a collections are reported easier, new 12-16 Kermath engine which A good deal of work is being carried on among boats of the Benson has commenced upon home halibut fleet and more especially in the ranks of the salmon trollers. The latter are bending every effort to have things in readiness for an early dash to the trolling grounds, old timers predicting an early spring. This week has seen a large number of native boats in port from the surrounding district obtaining provisions and mechanical supplies preparatory to engaging in the forthcoming salmon trolling and cannery season.

Salt Lake Camps

With the advent of spring weather the first rocket of the camping season has been fired by owners of summer camps situated at the Salt Lakes and already much work is being carried out across the harbor in making things comfortable for the coming balmy days. Dave Thomson is busy erecting an addition to the commodious summer quarters he purchased from C. G. Minns, while Dick Parkin is shingling the roof of his country lodge. The winter tides and winds have played havoc with the landing stage which has been cleaned off, white 16.6c and 6.5 and low at 11.2c and 4c. The herring run is on in full swing and the outlook for the continued supply of fresh halibut bait looks bright. The herring seineing activities are now centered around Butler Cove at which point there are many tons of live bait. The Canadian Fish & Gold Storage Co. are taking an active part in the securing of fresh bait and have the Fredeliza out seining while the W. R. Lord, Chief Legate and trawler Greer Starcraft are packing.

Pleasure Fleet

The past few days of bright sunshine has brought the pleasure skippers away from the winter halibut and the summer enthusiasm is now finding full vent at the Yacht Club floats. Chelf Thompson, the genial assistant commodore, is getting some "kick" out of life, in figuring how to get three boats on the club grid at once for copper that, while Joe said he was 60 painting and other fixing. The amateur skippers are "on their that he could beat Joe at running

Waterfront Races

As the result of racing for a $1.00 wager on Monday last "Doc" Clapperton is suffering from a sprained fetlock and Joe Lindsay is spending his spare time with the liniment bottle in an effort to get back the use of his lower limbs. The discussion of their respective ages precipitated the huge wager on the table and resulted in the super-human racing effort. Joe said he was 40 and did not feel old at all and then made the rash wager amateur skippers are "on their that he could beat Joe at running for a dollar. Joe took Doc up on the bet and after depositing the two bucks in responsible hands the two contestants pulled up their sax and toed the line at the provincial warehouse door intending to race to the old news stand building. At the word "go" both men stood perfectly still and neither moved a muscle. Doc, the first man to come to life, made a tremendous dash forward quickly followed by Joe who was considerably hampered by a dangling shoelace. However, before the half way line was reached Doc's right hand fetlock had given out and Joe was on the point of going up to the bank to draw his breath. At this point the starter declared the race off while the bookmakers did likewise with the bet.

Ernie Leaves

With the sailing of E. H. Shockley, familiarly known as Ernie, accompanied by Mrs. Shockley and family for Vancouver on yesterday morning's boat the city in general, and the waterfront in particular, loses a highly respected member of the community. Ernie, who has been in business here for the past fifteen years, was a great favorite among the nautical and his keen sense of humor was a regular tonic. While always ready to spring a joke on the other fellow he never resented a joke on himself. The royal manner in which his friends have entertained him in the last days of his residence in the city is sufficient testimony to his popularity. Mr. and Mrs. Shockley and family will reside permanently in Vancouver and the nauticals wish them good health and good luck in all future undertakings.

Thor Johnson, owner and skipper of the power boat Leinish purchased last fall from Theo. Collart, is the latest pleasure boat owner to join the local Yacht Club.

Fine Trip from South

Capt. O. P. Snith, accompanied by Len Anderson, arrived from Vancouver aboard his power boat Billy Boy at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning having left the southern port at 11 o'clock Saturday night. Ideal weather was experienced in the passage up the coast and only one stop was made. The Billy Boy stopped at Egg Island to take off the mail. Capt. Smith left port on December 28 in company with Jack Bulger, who is remaining in Vancouver to undertake optical studies. While in Vancouver Mr. Smith saw Harry Gilbert, formerly skipper of the Launch 23, who suffered a broken leg last year and who is still in the Vancouver General Hospital. Harry hopes to be out of the hospital next month. O.P. says that the people of Vancouver realize that Prince Rupert is going to "step out" this year. In the near future the Billy Boy will engage in fish packing from Island point.

Union steamer Chilkoot, Capt. J. L. Williams, arrived in port on Wednesday and discharged 30 creosoted piles which will be used in connection with repair work to the Big Bay Lumber Co.'s wharf. On her return from the Naas the steamer unloaded 12,000 feet of double dressed fir for the Big Bay for local orders.

A Wonder Boat

One of the wonders of the age in boat building has just been completed by Billy Robinson, the man who grunts while the men lift, a citizen of Seal Cove. From accounts to hand Billy must have fashioned the boat ever since it was a toothpick. The craft seems to combine all the luxuries of Cleopatra's fleet on the Nile with the modern conveniences of a Ford factory. One of the most significant facts about the boat is that one cannot tell, when two yards from shore, whether it is right side up or wrong side down. The interior has been fashioned on the herking plan. That is the gangway is so narrow (and Bob is not built a bit along the lines of a sardine) that one has to go outside and step on the shore to change the chew from one side of the face to the other. So sensitive is the hull that when the Louis Locker, the logger, arrived in port on Wednesday from Kitkatla Inlet. Louis is logging at North Arm for the Georgetown mill and called in for his regular cargo of supplies.

Geo. Newcomb, skipper of the launch Dixie Rupert, is busy fixing up his house at Seal Cove where he will in future reside.

It costs you seven out of every ten dollars to live

ECONOMIC experts tell us that it costs the average family about 70 per cent of its total income to buy food, clothing, household utilities and all the multitude of little things that keep a family comfortable and happy.

Seven dollars out of every ten—and that doesn't include rent, luxuries or entertainment.

Think what a job it is to spend this large proportion of your income wisely and well. To get the biggest and best possible value from every one of those seven dollars!

The clever woman goes to the advertisements of her daily paper for help. There she finds a directory of buying and selling. She learns about the offerings of merchants and manufacturers. She compares values. She weighs quality and price. She takes this opportunity of judging and selecting almost everything she needs to feed, clothe, amuse, instruct and generally bring up her family.
