Swift Retribution For Drug Addicts.

"If you start to slide from the top of a steep roof you know how much chance you have of stopping." That's what a learned doctor says, when trying to describe the swift downward course of the drug addict.

It is useless to talk to a person that takes drugs or to try to persuade him that he is foolish. He probably knows it but he is sliding and nothing but a miracle can stop him.

This is written to warn youths and young girls of the danger of playing with anything so dangerous. A sniff of "snow or a stab with a hypodermic needle is often sufficient to start person on the fatal slide.

Cultivate Friendship Of Japanese People.

Professor Shortt, speaking to the members of the Rotary Club, urged cultivation of the friendship of the Japanese people. He pointed out that we might benefit very greatly from this friendship and suggested that the immigration problem was not serious because Japan did not wish to send her people to Canada. What he suggested was that we avoid "pin pricks."

We are expecting a big Japanese vessel here in the early autumn, which may be the beginning of a line of steamers plying out of this port. We want those steamships to come here. In order to encourage them we should cultivate the friendship so Henry, to all intents and pur- the Duke and Duchess of York The pessimist, and not chant tries to cultivate the good will of his patrons.

Annexation Bogey Is Being Discussed.

The annexation bogey is still being discussed by the newspapers of Canada. Under the caption "Shall we Lose the West?" the Ottawa Cifizen says:

When Mr. Hoey, M.P., made dark allusions to the West seceding, the editorial writers of the East fell upon him with wordy bludgeons and said he was a lunatic and a dangerous agitator. Those who talked with the western representatives Mrs. Burner-Wheatley who was skin permanently strong and of marriage, which she joyfully who came to Ottawa last week to urge the completion of the formerly a Maid of Honour to bright. Hudson Bay Railway must have been disturbed to discover that some respectable and intelligent fellow westerners of Mr. Hoey's if not subscribing unreservedly to the latter's views, at least freely admitted that there was more than talk in it. Canadianborn prairie citizens were frank in their declaration that if 'the East' did-not come to a realization of the facts in the West, secession was a possible eventuality.

"The idea is gaining currency elsewhere. The possibility of the prairie provinces leaving the Confederation is referred to in an article in the April 'Nineteenth Century' by T. Kerr Ritchie, an English writer, who toured Canada in 1924. Now comes Dr. ing her first visit here for sev-G. E. "Mr. Hoey fears the loss of the western provinces for it makes a change. The piquant economic reasons. Bishop Lloyd's apprehensions are based on part about it is, however, that in racial grounds. enough to go their own way by themselves by the power of their own will and their own vote.

"These statements are bound to cause much alarm in the Old Country, particularly as they come at a time when secession . from the Empire is being so openly preached in South Africa. Our interests there must suffer accordingly. While the bishop' is entitled to his opinions, they are those of very few western Canadians and the evidence that can be adduced in support of them is exceedingly slight. It is to be feared that he has allowed his judgment to be beclouded by the intensity of his desire to promote immigration from the British Isles, which he regards as essential to the maintenance of the West as a British country.

"We need this in large volume, but, whether it comes or not, there is little basis for the belief to which he has given such untimely expression. Annexation sentiment has been strong at different times in other parts of the Dominion, but at no stage has it been a factor to reckon with in the West. If it had any strength here, we should certainly have heard something of it during the past few years, which have been of a character to encourage agitation, for political changes which there was any chance of bringing about."
