GREAT MONTH TO VIEW STARS

Several Interesting Planets Easily Seen and Recognized; Triple Star

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Shortly after sunset during July the five brightest planets—Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn—all will be above the horizon at the same time for the greater part of the month.

On the evening of July 10, says a bulletin from the American Nature Association, Mercury, Venus and Mars will appear so near together that they might almost be mistaken for a triple star, although in fact Mercury will be about 105,000,000 miles from the earth, Venus 146,000,000 miles and Mars 239,000,000 miles.

Mars is increasing its distance from the earth and drawing in toward the sun so it will be increasingly difficult to find it in the twilight. Mercury and Venus now are approaching the earth.

Mercury will reach its greatest eastern elongation on July 28 when it will be more than 27 degrees east of the sun. This, the American Nature Association points out, is within one degree of its greatest possible distance from the sun and great enough to enable it to be picked up easily in the twilight after sunset.

Playing Tag

Anyone watching these three planets this month with the aid of a small telescope or field glasses might imagine they were playing tag or running a race in the northwestern sky after sunset. All three will move eastward during July from Cancer into Leo, but all will be moving at different speeds with respect to each other and the earth. Mars, the slow-moving one of the trio, will be at the beginning of the month farther east and higher in the western sky than the other Canada. He is in town, on official business.

There arrived in the city last evening E. S. Bushy, of Ottawa, chief inspector of customs for the western sky than the other Canada. He is in town, on official business.

There reached the city last evening a small party of business men from the east, who had decided to investigate the city first hand. The party embraces J. H. Sherrard of Montreal, J. Leonard Apedale also of Montreal and W. J. Morney of Stratford.
