

Generally speaking the amount of halibut landed and the amount of commercial business done on the waterfront this week has been well up to the average for this time of the year. There is a lot of work being carried on at the local shipyards while the machine shops and electrical supply houses are doing their fair share of business. The canneries are getting into the season's stride and much repair work, of a mechanical nature, is being carried out in the city.

While some of the skippers, who have been fishing on the northern banks, report fishing to have been good and weather fine, others have stated that the fish have been "patchy" and the weather not all that one might look for in the summer. These reports have emanated from different northern fishing points. Capt. H. Haram of the American schooner Democratic which landed 21,000 pounds on Thursday, and who has been fishing off Cape Spencer and Fairweather, stated that so far as his last trip was concerned the weather was O.K. and the volume of fish caught came up to expectations. On the other hand Capt. P. Pearson of the schooner Majestic, with a total carrying capacity of 55,000 who has been fishing on the Portlock banks off Kodiak Island, stated that he had run into bad weather on the entire trip and that the fish were "patchy." The Majestic arrived with a light catch of 26,000 pounds on Thursday morning.
