ASSISTANT GENERAL MANAGER TELEGRAPHS

A. C. McConnell Appointed To Important Position in Big System.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—W. G. Barber, general manager Canadian National Telegraphs, announces the appointment of A. C. McConnell, formerly secretary and auditor of the Canadian National Telegraphs, to be assistant general manager and secretary, and of G. H. Renwick, formerly of the comptrollers department, to be auditor. The appointments are effective from the first day of the month.

Mr. McConnell, who becomes chief assistant to general manager Barber, has spent almost fifty years in the telegraph business, becoming identified with the old Montreal telegraph company in 1875. He was moved to Toronto upon the amalgamation with the Great North Western Company and for his whole period of service has been connected with the auditing department. He was appointed auditor in 1902 and nine years later was promoted to the position of secretary and auditor.

Mr. Renwick joined the Canadian Northern Railway in 1909 as a member of the auditing and accounting staff in Toronto, and latterly was chief clerk to J. F. Atcheson, assistant comptroller of the central region.

SIR HENRY THORNTON SPOKE TO BRITISH BY MEANS OF RADIOPHONE

WINNIPEG, Feb. 5.—Reception by radio fans in Liverpool, Manchester and other cities of the British Isles, as well as Newfoundland last night of a message written in Winnipeg a few hours previously, was announced today by Canadian National officials here. In the special British Isles broadcast, put on the air last night by radio station CNRA, Canadian National Station at Moncton, was included a message from Sir Henry W. Thornton, which had been written in Winnipeg just before Sir Henry's departure for the East yesterday, telegraphed to Moncton, and there sent out as part of the broadcast. Telegraphic advices received in Winnipeg late last night announced that Sir Henry's message to British listeners in had been distinctly heard across the Atlantic.

SITKA TOTEM MADE JOURNEY TO ST. LOUIS

Is Now Erected in Public Park There And Is Fine Specimen of Native Artistry.

One of the finest and tallest totem poles in existence is in the Sitka National Monument Park adjacent to the Sheldon Jackson School campus, says a Sitka paper.

Carved by Haida artisans and originally erected in the village of Kasaaan it was procured for the World Fair at St. Louis in 1904 and removed to that city as a part of the Alaska exhibit. At the close of the fair, through the efforts of Governor Brady, it was sent to Sitka to be erected and permanently preserved in the public park, along with other totems of similar origin.

The totem pole, which is but one expression of the totemic system, is now a thing of the past in Alaska. Aside from the diminutive and inferior specimens prepared for tourist trade totem poles are no longer made and the totem carver, a man of ability and distinction in former times, has vanished along with his outgrown social conception. The passing of the totem pole and of the totemic system in general carries with it the disappearance of a real art and brings a feeling of regret even to those who have been most instrumental in supplanting old superstitions with modern truth.

Totem poles were of four principal classes; genealogical, historical, legendary and mortuary. In as much as the natives of Alaska believed that men were once animals the principal characteristic of the totem pole is its animal figures. From the construction or design of the totem pole native people were able at a glance to distinguish the clan of the communal house in front of which it stood and to determine whether or not a welcome awaited within. These carvings were not worshipped as idols nor intended to represent deity. They were highly honored and revered because vitally associated, in the minds of the Natives, with questions of origin, the supernatural, and the proper respect due to the great heroes of the past.

IMMIGRANTS ARE ALREADY COMING

People From Many Countries Help Build Up Canadian Prairies.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 5.—Speaking many languages and garbed in many strange clothing outfits, a party of seventy-nine immigrant representing British, Scandinavian, and central European countries, reached Winnipeg last night over the Canadian National Railways, completing the second lap of their journey to new homes in Canada. The party comprised 25 Poles, 20 Russians, 10 Swedes, 12 Norwegians, 8 Hungarians, and the balance from the British Isles.

Last night interpreters from the colonization department met a party of 18 from the S.S. Regina, of whom 10 were English, 4 Germans, 3 Danes, and 1 Swede.

Tonight's train will bring a further seven immigrants from the S.S. La Bourbonnais, on the way to parts west of Winnipeg.

CITY MANAGER AND POWERS AGAINST IT

(Ottawa Citizen)

One of the principal objections to the city manager plan is that the system is undemocratic. The answer is that political patronage is in itself undemocratic. The city manager plan has been devised mainly for the purpose of abolishing political patronage and thereby removing one of the most undemocratic factors in all kinds of government. The city manager plan has met with defeat only when the powers of political patronage have been temporarily more active and of more avail than the adherents of the merit system.

GREAT INCREASE IN TEA CONSUMPTION

The consumption of tea, it is estimated, increased in 1924 thirty-nine million pounds. The price, as a result, may go to 84 per pound, but even then, tea is the cheapest beverage in the world—aside from water.
