

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 8

The Consumption of Tea

Tea as a beverage is used in nearly every country in the world. It is estimated over 200 billion cups are consumed annually. Australia leads in tea drinking with an annual per capita consumption of about nine pounds, which means that every Australian consumes from six to eight cups of tea every day. The consumption per capita in England is 8½ lbs., and in Canada nearly 5 lbs. In the United States, it is less than 1 lb., but this is largely because Americans have not been able to get fine teas until comparatively recently. "SALADA" is considered one of the choicest blends on the market, and is the largest selling tea in either United States or Canada.

Forest Trees and Their Beauty.

The three principal forest trees here are the spruce, cedar and hemlock and the greatest of these, speaking artistically, is the hemlock. The spruce is the tree from which we cut material for building airplanes. Cedar is manufactured into shingles, or cut into lumber from which doors and window frames are made. Both are useful woods. The hemlock has only of recent years become recognized as a commercial product, but its popularity is growing. In the forest, however, the hemlock has the other two beaten. It is one of the most beautiful trees that grows. This is especially noticeable along the muskeg glades where the country is rather open and the symmetry of the tree can be appreciated. The conifers are all pretty when growing alone or in open groups. Each has a beauty all its own, but the hemlock, at this time of year especially, exceeds all others in the north country in beauty.

This Is The Time To Study The Wild Flowers.

This is the time of year to study the wild flowers and especially the flowering shrubs of which there are many. Prince Rupert townsite offers a good opportunity to find many of the flowers which otherwise could only be secured after much climbing. Doubtless the children now growing up with all the advantages of botanical study will know all the flowers and shrubs of the neighborhood, the lack of which handicaps sojourners in their appreciation of the woods.

Value Of Mill To The Community.

If someone announced they were about to erect a new mill cutting 25,000 feet of lumber daily here, we should look on the announcement with marked approval. That was what happened at the week end. J. A. Smith, owner of the local lumber mill, arrived in town with the machinery for the new installation. It is a new mill to be run in conjunction with the other producing 25,000 feet a day and adding that much to the production of the big concern and employing a large number more men. The box factory machinery is partly here and the work of erecting both these additions to the plant will be going ahead at once.

The old mill was supposed to have a capacity of 120,000 feet a day but so far all the company has been able to produce is 100,000 feet. This was done at the week end for the first time.

Recent visitors to Ketchikan were interested in a mill there that cut 70,000 feet a day but here we shall have a mill soon that will almost double that capacity. It is an industry of which Prince Rupert may be proud.

Temporary Check On Graham Island.

There is a temporary check to industry at the north end of Graham Island in the shutting down of the Buckley Bay mill and camps, but it is probable it will be for the one season only. When the differences between the interested parties have been adjusted, the mill will be operated again and the mill at Port Clements is also likely to operate at the same time. In the meantime the clam cannery near Massett is working full swing and giving settlers an opportunity to earn a little money to help along their farming operations.

KEEPING SUNDAY IS DISCUSSED

How and Where to Spend Day Question for Consideration by Lutheran League

At the evening service at St. Paul's Church last evening the Lutheran League discussed the subject: "How and Where to Spend Sunday." The discussion was based on Exodus 20: 9-11 and Exodus 31: 12-17, together with Christ's teachings on Lord's Day observance.

The subject was opened by the President and was continued by the Vice-president, Secretary, Treasurer, and other members of the League.

One day in seven is the Lord's Day, not because the Lord needs it, but because man needs what is commanded concerning this day, it was pointed out. Those who make excuses for not obeying God's command are fooling only themselves. The best way to overcome the objectionable things is to be busy about positive things for the moral and spiritual uplift of the community. The "Salt" of any community are those who stand for the worship of God and the keeping of His commandments.

PRINCE GEORGE

Ex-Mayor Hiram Carney appeared before the city council this week to protest against the turning over of the policing of the city to the provincial police. He stated that he was representing over 100 residents. Mayor Alward stood pat, however, and stated that he would veto any resolution calling for reconsideration of the action now taken in coming to an agreement with the provincial police.

Many Prince George people were present last week at the opening of the new bridge across the Fraser River at McBride. It was the greatest day in the history of McBride since the arrival of the railway steel. The bridge, which was built by the provincial government at a cost of $28,000, was opened by H. G. Perry, M.L.A. in the absence of Hon. Dr. W. H. Sutherland, minister of public works, who sent his regrets that he was unable to attend.

Owen W. Ross, formerly clerk for the municipality of Oak Bay, was the unanimous choice of the city council last week to succeed S. W. George, resigned, as city clerk. There were 48 applications for the position. Arthur Culbert, formerly of Prince Rupert, was one of the applicants.

Two new settlers, accompanied by their families, arrived in the city last week to make their homes on the east side of the Fraser river. The newcomers are Emil Larsen with wife and three children and Alfred Pearson with wife and four children from North Dakota.

The date of the Prince George fall fair has been set by the directors for September 1 and 2. It will be the first fair in the north this year with the exception of that at Woodpecker which will take place towards the end of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Bendiksen will make their home in the city.

ARISTOCRACY OF CANADA IN RAILWAY OFFICES IN OLD DAYS SAYS LEADER OF PROGRESSIVES.

splendid at first sight, to have all the railways of the country owned by the Dominion and run in the interests of the people, not exactly for profit but for service, but it is Utopian, and we are not likely to see it materialized. The only thing we can do is to see to it that the two systems are run as profitably and economically as they possibly can be in order to give the best service to the people.

Immigration

I am thoroughly convinced that we shall not have a solution of the railway problem until there are a great many more people in this country. Sir Henry Thornton may practice all the economy he likes, and he may cut down capital expenditure, and do everything he possibly can to make the system successful, but, I repeat, until we have a larger population we shall not get out of our railway trouble. The leader of the opposition implied that the difficulties in connection with the railways today were due to the fact that business had suffered, for the reason I suppose that the factories were not running as they ought to run. While I have nothing to say against the industrial activities of Canada, I am satisfied that so long as we maintain this attitude we shall not solve our problems.

I know very well that hon. members to my right, for whom I have every respect, think when I speak in this way that I am taking a sectional point of view; they believe that being a farmer and knowing only about agriculture I am always harping on the one string of making agriculture prosperous in Canada. Let me say, however, that I believe from the bottom of my heart that there is no solution for our problem in this country which is not based on agricultural prosperity. You can build all the factories you like and make an attempt to set business going generally; but unless you secure a prosperous, industrious and numerous population living in the country, the urban industries will not prosper. So that our utmost endeavor at this time should be to find out how we can make agriculture prosperous.
