United States And European Politics.

President Coolidge in his annual message to Congress takes credit for remaining out of European international politics and says the success of the Locarno security agreements represent the success of the policy of having European countries settle their own political problems without involving the United States.

Yet Mr. Coolidge knows that unless European international politics move smoothly, the debt to the United States cannot be paid. He also knows that eventually all the big countries of the world must unite for control of world policies if there is to be an end of war and a commencement of an era of real progress.

No Big Plan Is Yet In Sight.

The League of Nations was the first big plan outlined and attempted with a view to bringing about better conditions in the world. The Locarno securily pact is simply a detail in connection with the working out of international political affairs under the new order. So far there are several nations not yet parties to the League. The United States stays out because she fears being involved in the frequent quarrels of the smaller nations across the Atlantic. Russia stays out because, apparently, she is still hopeful of bringing about a world revolution against the old order of capitalism before tying up with the other nations. She sees the League of Nations or any other league or federation of the nations of the world as a stumbling block in the way of the rule of the proletariat under her system.

No big plan is yet in sight for unifying the nations of working out a general scheme of world betterment. In the meantime each nation is evolving in its own way toward a more enlightened system of government. In some countries changes are coming rapidly and in others slowly.

Many Accidents But Few Fatalities

There have been many accidents in this city from cars overturning but very few fatalities. Drivers of cars have been lucky. They have escaped because fortune has been kind to them. The accident at the week end is one much to be deplored. It shakes the confidence of the public in the ability of drivers. In a city like this, the most extreme care is required in handling cars. The roads here are not very wide and when a car goes off it is pretty sure to upset. The present fatality is one that will be a lesson to others who are driving but the difficulty is that these object lessons are not long remembered. We very soon become careless again until once more reminded.

Put More Trust In Powder Than God.

Viscount Cecil says the nations of the world put more trust in powder than they do in God. In other words they are not yet prepared to trust each other. We are all suspicious and often with good cause. We are suspicious of each other in private life, in business, in political life and it naturally follows that we should be suspicious in international life. As the individual is, so will the nations be. We cannot expect our international relationships to be clean and honorable and in the best interests of the world until the lives of the individuals conform to the same standard.

BASKET SOCIAL OF NORWEGIANS

Singing Society Directed by John Davey Made its Debut

The recently organized Norwegian Singing Society made its debut to the public on Saturday night at a recital and basket social which was successful both socially and financially. There was a large attendance and the entertainment, under the capable direction of John E. Davey, was of a splendid character considering the short time that the choir has been practising. It should undoubtedly prove a decided acquisition to Prince Rupert musical circles. The choir consists of some 25 members and the president is I. Feness who presided at the recital. Miss M. A. Way was accompanist.

The program was as follows:

Address in English — B. M. Simpson.

Songs by Singing Society (encored).

Vocal solo—Mrs. L. O. Larsen (encored).

Address in Norwegian— John Dybhavn.

Songs by Singing Society (encored).

After the recital, refreshments were served and baskets were auctioned by L. O. Larsen. Then there was a dance, music being furnished by Lindseth's Orchestra. The committee consisted of Mrs. Jack Ivarsen assisted by Mrs. R. Pedersen, J. Johnson and John Wick.

THE MAN IN THE MOON says:

A BACHELOR is described as a man that does not have to do as he is told.

THE sure test of your ability is to be able to spend an evening at home alone without feeling bored.

THE greatest compliment you can pay a girl is to present her with a loud speaker for Christmas. A lot of girls do not need one.

FUR coats are all the rage just now. They make the husbands rage when they have to pay for them.

JUST a little bit of fur—
I can almost hear the pussy purr,
But its costing me a mint
To pay for that brownish tint
Of the only pelt that's suitable for her.

IT used to be the cat's whiskers everybody was talking about, and now it is her fluffy fur.

SOME like to wear a beaver
And some revel in mink
But I like best the pussy's fur
It suits me best I think.

ONE girl told me she had a mink stole around her neck and then there was that little bit o' fluff who when asked what she liked best over her shoulders said she liked a bare.

OH my; oh golly! oh gee!
Just think what a time there'll be
When Christmas comes
And all us bums
Will go out on the spree!

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

December 14, 1915.

Judgment was given for the plaintiff yesterday by Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald in the $12,594 suit between the Port Edward Townsite Co., Ltd. and the B.C. Trust Corporation Ltd. vs. Harrison, Gamble & Co. and Samuel Harrison. A. M. Manson appeared for the plaintiffs and W. E. Fisher for the defendants.

On the ground that it was the duty of the government to provide sustenance for dependents of soldiers overseas, the city council last night decided not to make a special tax levy for Patriotic Fund purposes.

BEBE DANIELS HERE IN THE CROWDED HOUR

Story of Theatricals, Love and War Shown Here Tonight and Tomorrow

Bebe Daniels in "The Crowded Hour" has the role of Peggy Laurence, a telephone operator who aspires to a career as an actress. T. Roy Barnes, her pal, also has a yen to act, and they try out their talents on New York's Bowery crowd.

Kenneth Harlam, a rich young fellow from upper Park Ave., falls for the pretty Peggy. He has a wife, but their married life is not congenial. Even Frank Morgan, as a friend of the family, cannot get things straightened out.

Harlan gets Bebe a job in the "Follies," with Barnes as a foil. Then the war comes, and Bebe and Barnes go to France as "Y" entertainers. Bebe's real purpose, however, is to be near Harlan, who has enlisted. She entertains the soldiers in the front line trenches, goes through a gas attack and makes a wild ride on a motorcycle in an effort to save Harlan, who has gone to destroy an ammunition dump before the enemy reach it.

While in a field telephone dugout, Bebe realizes that there is something more in life than the love for one man and instead of warning Harlan of the attack she plugs in on an open line and saves an entire division of French troops. Bebe is blinded by an explosion that follows and is taken to an excavation hospital where Harlan's wife nurses her back to health. The two come to an understanding of their love for the same man.

Bebe heroically gives up Harlan who returns to the scene an exchanged prisoner, and turns to the tireless devotion of her stage partner.

WIFE OF CENTAUR IS STORY OF MODERN LIFE

The mid-week offering at the Westholme is the dramatized version of a story by Cyril Hume the popular novelist. It is the story of Jeffrey Dwyer, Yale man and a poet, sensitive and ardent beneath layers of sophistication; of Inex Martin, a vivid young beauty making her laughing way through a crowd of adorers of whom Jeffrey was the most ardent; and of little Joan Conversey who gave her heart, unasked, to Jeffrey, and watched with hot eyes and a bitter spirit, as he humbled his proud head before the careless mockery of other women. It is the story of the young generation written by one of them; written with maturity and power, and with a note of high idealism behind the surface sparkle and levity. The production was made for Metro-Goldwyn by King Vidor, and Eleanor Boardman, Aileen Pringle and John Gilbert are cast in the leading roles.

JANICE MEREDITH IS WEEK-END PICTURE

Marion Davies is Heroine of Story of American Revolutionary Days

Spectacular scenes of famous episodes of the American Revolution are accurately reproduced in "Janice Meredith," Marion Davies' pretentious production, here at the week-end.

Washington crossing the Delaware, a living reproduction of the famous painting by Trumbull, is also a gripping chapter of the photoplay. A channel 400 feet wide had to be cut through the Saranac River in the Adirondacks to permit the crossing of specially constructed flat boats and rafts, transporting the soldiers and loaded with cannon, oxen and supply wagons.

Paul Revere's immortal ride—when his horse's hoofs resounded through the night, when startled heads appeared at windows in answer to his call, and when he took desperate jumps over fences and hedges, is full of thrills and artistic effects.

The battle of Trenton—Washington's timely attack, and the victory is vivid and gripping, a magnificent bit out of history.

When Benjamin Franklin, in his sober garb, pleaded for aid to the Colonies at the Court of Louis XVI, at Versailles, and the thousands of French nobility in their gorgeous brocades and satins and elaborate headdresses surrounded him—all reflected in enormous mirrored walls with sparkling chandeliers—is another historical scene.

The hardship and suffering of Washington and his troops is vividly depicted, when the General shared the cold and misery endured by his soldiers at Valley Forge; while on the opposite side of the Delaware Gen. Howe was tendered a farewell ball by his officers at the Wharton Villa. Beautiful women, richly gowned and bright coated British officers danced on polished floors, lighthearted and comfortable; while the American soldiers attempted to keep warm near their camp fires—a striking contrast, wonderfully photographed.

The Boston Tea Party, a magnificent night scene.
